MACON HOUSE

CITY OF PORTHOUSE, VA. ated of any Hotel in the city. It is near the river, and has bothing facilities equal to those at Old Point Comfort. It is also near the steamboat landing and railroad depot, and within ten minutes walk of the Navy Yard and Naval Hospital, places well worthy a visit. The Chambers, Parlors, and Dining Room, are very airy and the accommodations are unexcetled by any Hotel in the city. In making no estentiations publication of its being the most "splendid and unequalled Hotel," the proprietors, however, hope by a due regard to the comforts of their guests, to make it a pleasant and satisfactory home, and like the distinguished statesman of the Old North State, the late Nathaniel Macon, whose mane it bears, by its intrinsic and modest merit to whose name it bears, by its intrusic and modest merit to continue to deserve the liberal patronage it has received, and to make many new friends.

WM. H. WILSON,

JOS. SAM. BROWNE,

Proprietors.

The proprietors submit the following merit card in testiment of the Hones; it is an extract from an editorial in the Edenton (N. C.) Express:

It is a duty we owe the public to speak of things in which it is interested in their true light, but it is not only a duty we owe the travelling public, but also contributing our mite to commend merit when we speak well of the Macon House, located in Portsmouth, to which city and its enterpressing inhabit ants this hotel is an honor.

Familiar with the principal hotels in several States, and having had several years experience in travelling, we venture the assertion that the Macon, in what constitutes a first class hotel, is not inferior to any either North or South. True, others may and do present a finer appearance, a more gaudy equipage, but none surpass the Macon in substantial entertainment and cheerful compliance with the wishes of

This is no fancy sketch, nor yet is the description over-This is no lancy sketch, nor yet is the description over-wrought. Every one who stops at this house will attest our correctness—we only regret we are not able to render ample justice to the gentlemanly proprietors for their ener-gy to serve the public in an acceptable manuer, and to a hotel which should be the pride and the home of the trav-eller who pa ses through, or stops in that city; and we hope that all our readers will do themselves the justice to call at this house when occasion offers."
