OUR MILITARY BUDGET.

SHERMAN'S EXPEDITION.

The various reliable items of news from Sher! man's army, coming through Union sources, that have at length reached the east, serve to show that his expedition, though not penetrating as far into the bowels of rebeldom as was designed, has been eminently successful. It is plain that he has utterly destroyed the Tebels' means of carrying on war on any considerable scale between the Mississippi and the Alabama rivers-an achievement of the first strategic importance; while he has also deprived the rebellion of the aid of thousands of colored men who were up to that time laboring virtually to sustain it. They will henceforth labor to aid in the rebellion's suppression of course.

The raid of Grierson and Smith also, though not so thorough as was designed, (through Smith's obstinacy and ignorance of the country, the western papers assert,) was eminently a success. They, too, destroyed everything in States: their way likely to be of service to the rebellion, and also brought off thousands of contrabands. Their losses, though they had a dozen severe battles, were not a tithe of what the Richmond | date at which they rejoin their regiments for papers guessed them to be-while they claim | duty. at least three out of every four of their daily occurring engagements to have been substantial victories.

A BOGUS MAJOR. Information having been received at the office of Capt. Dolan that a man named George B. Fowle was passing himself off as a major upon the staff of Gen. McCl-llan, a detective was put upon his track, who succeeded in arresting him at the National Hotel. Fowle was taken before Col. Ingraham, who reprimanded him severely and dismissed him, upon premising not to appear again in a United States uniform without authority.

MOVEMENTS OF GEN. GRANT. Gen. Grant was closeted yesterday for five hours with Secretary Stanton and Gen. Halleck. During the interview the programme for the spring campaign was fully discussed. Halleck dined with Secretary Seward.

THE MEANING OF IT .- Yesterday's extraordinary rise in the price-comparative valueof gold is of course due to the apparent success of the Hon. Mr. Boutwell, backed by the solid hody of copperheads in the House, and the no less inflexible body of impracticables. in defeating, for the time being, what is known as the Stebbin's gold bill. Mr. Boutwell and his abettors, if the Senate do not succeed in bringing the House to its senses, will have the honor of effecting more to defeat the suppression of the rebellion-far more-than can be done by the enemy in the field. To them the country bid fair to owe the depreciation of the nation's fiscal means of carrying on the war, quite fifty cents on the Joseph Shillington, Odeon building, and

ADDITIONAL SOUTHERN NEWS. From the Richmond Whig of the 8th instant. we clip the following relative to the disposition of Col. Dahlgren's body, and the Lynch law feeling entertained in Richmond towards our men captured:

"The body of Col. Ulric Dahlgren, killed in the swamps of King and Queen, by the 9th Virginia cavalry, was brought to the city Sunday night and laid at the York River depot during the greater part of the day yesterday, where large numbers of persons went to see it It was in a pine box, clothed in a Confederate shirt and pants, and shrouded in a Confeder. ate blanket. The wooden leg had been removed by one of the soldiers. It was also noticeable that the little finger of the left hand had been cut off. Dahl ren was a small man, thin, pale, and with red hair and a goatee of the same color. His face wore an expression "About 2 o'clock p. m., the corpse was removed from the depot and buried-no one knows, or is to know, where." The Richmond Whig Rampant on the Recent Raid. A striking feature of the late Yankee raid is the disproportionate number of officers among the prisoners who have fallen into our hands. So far the number of officers registered at our prisons is said to be about one to every ninety privates. From the feeble show of fight made by the raiders, and the great success with which their officers have made good their escape, the presumption may be well founded that the latter felt special apprehension of summary vengeance upon any of them whose fate it should be to fall into our hands. It is suspected that many of them, after the failure of their undertaking became apparent, assumed the garb of privates, in the hope that greater leniency might be meted by us to prisoners of the latter class. But from the character of the expedition, as explained by the papers found on the body of Col. Dahlgren, we can see no just ground for discrimination between the officers and privates engaged in it. Violating the laws and usages of civilized warfare, and the regulations by which they are themselves governed, it appears that judgment and senence were already passed by themselves before setting out, against any of their number who should chance to fall into our hands.

The Whig also says: "Four Yankee negro soldiers, captured in James City county, were brought to this city yesterday and delivered at the Libby, where they were distributed as far as they would go, into the solitary cells of the Yankee officers captured during the recent raid. This is a taste of negro equality, we fancy, the said Yankee officers will not fancy overmuch."

FIRE.-About 12 o'clock last night the large building, a few squares below the Capitol, built several years since by a company of New York capitalists as a steam stone dressing establishment, but latterly used as a store-house for hay, was discovered on fire in the northwest corner of the building, where, no doubt, it was ignited. In a short space of time nearly the entire building was in flames, making a bright light, drawing out the whole of the city fire department and two of the Government steamers, the most of the apparatus going into service immediately. Notwithstanding that the flames had gained considerable headway, the southern portion of the building was saved. There was a large quantity of hay stored in the main building, amounting to over three thousand bales, which was destroyed; and in the southern portion there was a quantity of sutlers' goods belonging to V. Boder & Co., who lost between $800 and $900. The hay was owned by several parties, the larger portion by a Mr. Bromhaw, of Milston, N. J., whose loss is about $6,000: John Riedel, of this city, who loses over $4,000, but is insured in the Continental Co. of New York for $2,800; and a Mr.

Shedd, of this city, who loses about 250 baies. REOPENING OF A RANCHE.-Last night, disturbance was made in the fancy house on New York avenue, between 21st and 22d streets, kept by Jenny Lind, by a man named John Carson, a supposed deserter. Carson was arrested by the police and turned over to the military; and soon afterwards, Jenny Lind and her girls, three or four in number, were taken in charge by the Provost guard. This morning they were escorted to the Central Guardhouse by a squad of the guard, to have a hearing before Captain Merritt. The house Jenny keeps is the house where a soldier was murdered about a year ago. Jenny was arrested on that occasion, but was acquitted, and left the city. She has since been living in Alexandria, and has only reoccupied her old quarters a few days.
