The Will of Eliab Kingman. A CAVEAT FILED BY P. E. MARTINDALE.

The register of wills has received from F.E. Martindale, of Port Richmond, N. Y., a caveat to the will of the late Eliab Kingman, which was filed here March 18th. The caveat sets out: 1st. Undue influence exercised over the testator at the date of the execution of the original will, February 24th, 1878, to the extent of annuiling testator's own will 1878, to the extent of annulling testator's own will and wishes in respect thereof. 3d. Of mental incapacity, undue influence and fraud in the making, drawing, and executing of the codicil, dated October 17th, 1881, in that the testator was not himself cognizant on the 20th day of April, 1882, of having signed or executed any such codicil, and that said codicil does not express said testator's will as expressed at the late thereof and since.

Accompanying the offset is an affidavit of Dr. Martindale that the signature of the codicil of October 17th, 1881, was obtained when testator was of unsound mind, by undue incuence, and without the advice of his legal adviser, and for the purpose of nullifying testator's vishes. He further says that the memory, character and good name of testator will be injured by the admission of this codicil to probate, and he says the codicil did not express his will, for on April 18th, 1882, the testator declared to him his intention to leave him 35,000, to be paid before any of the legacies are paid. Dr. Martindale is the nephew of Mrs. Kingman, deceased, and by the will and first and third codicils is left $5,000. In the codicil of October 17, 1881, all the special bequests, amounting to 28,500, are reduced to $750. THE STAR ROUTE TRIAL. Brady's Cross-Examination.

The court decided a few days ago, he said, that it would not allow the counsel for the prosecution, on cross-examination, to go into an in New York, to ask witness at Haten & Foote's, in New York, to ask witness if it was a good purchase. Walsh bought it on the spot, through Hatch & Foote, giving his check. Witnesses' object in borrowing the stock was simply to control it. At that time witness had some shares of Chattanooga. He probably had 3,000 full shares of Chattanooga, and possibly more Chattanooga, and possibly more. Witness was asked if he were not the trying to borrow from Walsh upon his obligations what was worth $21,000 or $24,000 in the market. "I was trying to borrow 300 shares of Chatta-nooga stock," said the witness. "Well, that was what it was worth at that time, was it not?" inquired Mr. Bliss. "That," said Mr. Brady, "was what we thought it was worth. The trouble was, that whenever we tried to sell it would run down." The witness said he did not know who owned the house where Gen. Sheridan lived on E street.

WALSH'S SUIT AGAINST BRADY. The witness said there was now a civil suit of Walsh's pending against him to recover money alleged to have been loaned him. He entered this department was making sweeping remissions of fines and deductions witness had imposed upon & Sons and J. B. Kendall were the Washington Walsh. Witness denied that Walsh had ever made a demand upon him for money alleged to have been loaned, except through his attorney. He first made a demand in May or June, 1881, through Mr.

Cross-examination was in progress when our report closed. Brady and Walsh.

BRADY EXPLAINS THE MEANING OF THE "GINGER" LETTER-THE PRICE DRAFTS AGAIN. After THE STAR'S report of the star route trial closed yesterday, the cross-examination of Mr. Brady, with the incidental argument, was continued until the adjournment of the court at 4 o'clock. The witness and he had frequently had conversations with Walsh at Gen. Sheridan's house on E street, but repeated his denials of ever having borrowed money from him or held such a conversation as Walsh had detailed. He said Walsh offered frequently to lend him money. He admitted in the case of the MacDonough route that after MacDonough failed, he offered the service to the bondsmen at the price of the original service without the expedition, and then let it to Walsh

"Did you mean money?" asked Mr. Bliss. "I meant what I said," answered the witness. "Was Chattanooga 'ginger?'" inquired Mr.

"That was 'ginger' in that case," said the w ness.

"'Ginger,' then, is a generic term, is it not?"

"You will have to consult the dictionary."

The witness was asked what newspapers he referred to as having bought and he replied the National Republican.

Mr. Bliss called attention to the fact that he Mr. Bliss called attention to the fact that he used the word "newspapers," and Mr. Brady replied, "We expected then to make it as good as two." Afterwards he said he had furnished Buell money then to buy the Capital and stift had pital, testified that on the morning named he was his newspaper in Indiana. He had not at that

REUNION OF VETERANS.—Col. and Mrs. Young gave a reception last evening at their rooms, 809 E street, to the resident surveing members of Young's Kentucky Light cavairy, afterwards the 3d Pennsylvania cavairy. LETTER OF THE ATTORNEY GENERAL:

"Mr. Thompson will present you this letter. By my instructions he is to see you about the prosecutions against the detectives, and to arrange as to the speedy trial of these men, and confer with you about the gentlemen to aid you in the trial. After he has seen you he is to see me. I am resolved to pursue these cases with the utmost vigor, and intend to keep a personal eye over every step taken in the prosecution of them, and I instruct you to give all of your energies to secure the conviction of these men, who have been a terror to this community, and whose very freedom frem punishment thus far has been a represent to the administration of the criminal law by the authorities of this District."

3. I ask that I be authorized to employ a detective 3. I ask that I be authorized to employ a detective, who se name for prudential reasons I do not wish to submit in writing, but wil give to you personally, and who shall render all necessary services in the way of hunting up witnesses, and, acting under my direction and the authorization of the marshal of this District, shall bring about the arrest of persons now under indictment in connection with these cases, but who are fugitives from justice and cannot be arrested except by the employment of extraordinary means.

I make these requests because I feel that the citizens of this District will not and ought not to be satisfied unless every means is used to secure the conviction of these persons, if guilty. The cases are of no ordinary these persons, if guilty. The cases are of no ordinary importance. The defendants will be represented by able counsel. They are familiar with all means of deable counsel. They are familiar with all means of detecting and concealing crime, and their conviction, if guilty, is a matter of the gravest moment. I should be recreant to my duty did I not ask for every assistance and aid in the prosecution of these cases, which I deem important for the public good, and this without reference to any representation.

Mr. John W. Thompson, the chairman of the citizens' committee, has had an interview with the District Commissioners, in which he strongly urged the necessity of a re-organization of the police force. He told the District Commissioners that the citizens' committee had been engaged for three months and a half in investigating the robbery of citizens which had been carried on under the present or-ganization, and he thought that now it was time something was done. In conversation with a STAR reporter this morning, Mr. Thompson said that he thought a reorganization of the police would be begun very soon; how extensive it would be he could not tell.

"You said." said Mr. Bliss, reading from the letter, "you are in need of 'ginger;" what is 'ginger?" and that though business, the hackman, testified that on the morning of January 22d Ross (Jansen) engaged his back, that he drove January and another personness. John Mack, the hackman, testified that on the morning of January 22d Ross (Jansen) engaged his hack; that he drove Jansen and another person, who got in at 7th and Pennsylvania avenue, by the former's order to 10th and F streets, and then to Howard University, stopping at several places to take drinks. At Howard University Jansen went into the building, and while he did not assist Jansen to bring the corpse out of his newspaper in Indiana. He had not at that time advanced any money for the Critic.
