

THE EVENING STAR.
WASHINGTON:
WEDNESDAY, May 1, 1889.
CROSBY S. NOYES, Editor.

THE EVENING STAR has the fullest Local Circulation of any Newspaper in the World.

It is an Advertising Medium of more worth than all the other papers published in Washington.

Mr. Daniel, in his speech last evening in response to the toast of "the Senate," took pains to say that, when passing upon the President's nominations for office, the upper house "does not infringe on the prerogatives or transcend its own when it differs from him." That is true. It is not only true, but it is a principle which is required, when it differs in judgment from Congress on the merits of a bill which has passed, to spread its reasons on the record, so that any future action in the premises may be taken with these in full view, and that the country may have the means of forming its own judgment on the issue between them. No such requirement is forced upon either house of Congress by the Constitution; but the House of Representatives does all its debating openly, and reaches its conclusions by processes plainly exposed to popular criticism, and a proper sense of its own duty would impel the Senate to follow suit. What would be thought of a President, in vetoing an act originating with the Senate, should send back to that body such a message as, "Your bill is not approved; reason—I don't like it." And yet that is practically the equivalent of what the Senate does when, in secret session, it dissects and rejects a candidate nominated by the President after careful consideration. It does not actually "infringe upon his prerogatives or transcend its own," judged by the strict letter of the law, but from any equitable point of view it puts an affront upon him and upon the people, which the framers of the Constitution certainly had not in mind when they entrusted the Senate with the power to place a check upon the executive. It is to be hoped that Mr. Daniel will be found among the hardest workers next session for a rule to throw open the doors of the Senate chamber and let the people enjoy the same freedom of vision and judgment there that they exercise in the White House.

If any one wishes to study for himself the question whether the morning or the evening paper is the better vehicle of news, let him note what each has accomplished during this centennial week. Take Monday, for instance. It was the evening paper which published the first account of the departure of the President's party from Washington, of their welcome at the various towns along the route, of their arrival at New York, and of the festivities in which they participated there while daylight lasted. It also gave a brief synopsis, in advance, of the performances of the evening, which needed only a little filling in and a change of tenses to fit it for the columns of the next day's prints. Yesterday's evening press contained a full story of the religious services, the public speech-making and the general rejoicing, leaving only the least important banquet, at which the orators were jaded with the day's fatigues, to be repeated by its morning contemporaries. As we live now, the day's doings are well over by the hour the last of an afternoon newspaper is lifted from the galley into the form; and the citizen who employs his evening leisure in reading the quickly-prepared chronicle has the edge so taken off his appetite that the cold refresh offered him the next morning has nothing in it seductive to his palate.

Chamney M. Dewey has shown that as a public speaker he can rise to the occasion, no matter how lofty a flight may be demanded. As a railroad man he talks business very effectively; as an after-dinner speaker he is witty and his sentences are short, bright, and pointed; and as a centennial orator he displays the statesman's wealth of information and breadth of view and a mastery of English which fairly entitles his speech to be called eloquent.

The Boston Globe has made a very good centennial hit by reproducing in fac simile a Musculudus Columbi of 1789, as a supplement to its own issue of yesterday, and calling the attention of readers to it as an illustration of the improvement of the American newspaper in one hundred years. In no department of human activity has larger strides been taken than in journalism, for everything has been made tributary to it. Electricity and steam have wrought their greatest wonders in this field, and the inventors have in their turn received a double benefit from the agency which they have helped to build up, the newspaper having kept them informed of the progress of work in their several domains all over the world, and of what the people were still demanding, and also advertised the products of their genius, and created a market for them. The Centennial of October 23, publishes as its "latest foreign intelligence" mail advices dated Paris, August 23. The Globe of April 30 contains a record of events in London, Berlin, and Madrid up to midnight of the 29th. No more striking example could be found than this of what a change a century has wrought in journalism.

A discovery made and promulgated by a bishop ought to be a good one, every time. Bishop Lyman of North Carolina has found that peanuts, fresh roasted in the shell and eaten shortly before going to bed, have wonderful effect as a preventive of insomnia. This will be good news to a large number of interested Americans, who have peanuts in spite of their demerit associations, but who resist from eating them on the supposition that they are breeders of nightmare. To the Roman scientist, moreover, the bishop's discovery is of interest as explanatory of the heavy consumption of peanuts at the circus, whose brilliant scenes might be expected to keep the young brain whirling long after its activity ought to be drowned in slumber.

Just as the republic managed to make a highly creditable naval parade on Monday, though its army is a ghost, so it displayed an impressive military parade yesterday, though its army is a skeleton. In both cases the volunteers swelled the procession. And so it would be in case of war. While the standing army and navy are insignificant, the military power which can on the instant rise and stand in the republic's defense is immense.

In showing yesterday to what extent and in what manner the cut of the face of Eliza Foster aided in the detection of the murdered woman The Star did not conceal in the least the fact that the detectives were working on a direct clue independently of that identification and that the credit of solving the mystery belongs to them. Our nerve-shaken contemporary, which has qualified itself by the contemplation of its own cuts to appreciate, shiveringly, the ghastly art, expresses the unwarrantable opinion that the evening papers would have published the Foster cut even if the purpose and prospect of aiding in the identification of the murdered woman had been lacking, and firmly declares that it will never, no never, attempt such a publication. The Star has already stated its reasons for commending most highly in the interest of the public this determination of its editor.

No other paper published has anything like half as many readers in the city of Washington as has The Evening Star, and no other one has yet supported its claims by an affidavit of its circulation.

MONUMENTS.
A Large Monument of GRANITE AND MARBLE MONUMENTS AND HEADSTONES, at bottom prices. New importation direct from Italy of beautiful figures for CEMETERY AND PARLOR DECORATION. Worth a visit to see them. J. F. MANNING, 427-1st St. 1320 Pa. ave. n. w.

THE PALAIS ROYAL.
Cor. 12th and Pa. ave. n. w. A. L. LORAIN, Proprietor.

TO THE STAR READERS:

One of those special sale surprises of the Palais Royal, that cause the public to wonder and business men to ponder, is now taking place. Underwear and hosiery for men, women and children is being offered at prices that present an opportunity to supply yourself for the summer at nearly half the usual cost.

A SURPRISE FOR MEN.
At 15c, a pair, or 3 pairs for 50c, is offered all Half-hose that have not the full complement of colors and sizes in each style.

65c. Little Socks, Black, with Hair Line Stripes of Red, Yellow, Blue or White.
50c. Black Cotton Hose, with Toes and heels in Blue, Yellow, Red or White.
75c. Cotton Socks, in Tans and a delicate shade of Fawn, with Silk stripes, in Light Blue and Red.
35c. Ribbed Cotton Socks, in nearly all colors.
62c. Choice of above Socks during this sale for 18c, a pair, or 3 pairs for 50c.

ALL MEN KNOW THE "C. & G."
Who is not familiar with the reputation of the celebrated "C. & G." French Balbriggan Underwear. The superior fitting qualities, the silk-like appearance, the neatness and perfection of finish are such that at every international exhibition it has been adjudged the peer of its fellows.

The "C. & G." Underwear has received prize medals at all exhibitions of note.
The Palais Royal offers the "C. & G." Balbriggan Suits and Drawers for sale at 50c.
The Finest Striped Balbriggan Underwear is also included at 50c, though seldom retained under $1.25.
See the 90c "C. & G." Silk Socks.

THE DEPARTMENT FOR MEN
Is situated near door of No. 1119 Pennsylvania avenue, and is entirely separate from the women's goods, which are in the next building—the first and second floors of No. 1117 Pennsylvania avenue.

TO-MORROW (THURSDAY), MAY 2D.
A VERY GREAT SURPRISE FOR LADIES.
On the second floor of No. 1117 Pennsylvania avenue ladies will be surprised with Choice of all.

95c. UNDERGARMENTS FOR 50c.
This evening the show window will be filled with samples of this Underwear, and To-morrow Morning you may notice all the various styles quoted below.

Ten different styles Night Gowns.
Nine different styles Chemises.
Four different styles Skirts.
Twelve different styles Corset Covers.
Four different styles Drawers.

27c. Making a specialty of 95c. Underwear is the reason why so many styles are shown and why such very superior garments are offered at the price—95c.

YOUR CHOICE TO-MORROW AT 50c.
To give an idea of the completeness of this stock of 95c. Undergarments, it is only necessary to mention Corset Covers, from 28 to 48 inch bust measure, Skirts fully 24 yards wide, and Nightgowns from 11 1/2 to 18 inch neck size. Of course all the sewing is done on lock-stitch machines. You will also notice the patent "Everlasting" Stars, which strengthen the garments where they are usually weak. The Yokes in nearly all instances are double. The Trimmings of Embroidery and Lace are the best. Certainly a very great surprise at 54c, apiece, for, can you match them elsewhere at $1?

Easy to find out.
We also ask investigation of the following bargains in Hosiery and Merino Underwear.

ON THE FIRST FLOOR.
The following reduced prices are quoted for the most popular goods, viz.:
73c. SILK VESTS FOR 50c.
Extra-long Swiss Ribbed Spun Silk Vests, low necks and short sleeves, prettily trimmed with ribbons. For this sale 65c.

Colors—Pink, Blue, Cream, White, Gold, Fawn, Tan, Mouse, Cardinal, Garnet, Nile Green, Gray, Slate, Canary, Maise, Salmon, Lavender, Bronze, and Black.
75c. LITTLE VESTS FOR 50c.
These Vests are silk finished; practically as good as the best silk. V-Neck fronts of silk lace. All colors and all sizes.

50c. VESTS FOR 35c.
Ribbed Balbriggan Vests, extra long and in extra sizes for stout ladies. To-morrow 3 for $1.
27c. You will appreciate the Vests better after seeing the article usually sold at 50c.

25c. VESTS FOR 10c.
Gauze Vests, sizes 28 to 40, Silk bound, low necks, ribbed arms. To-morrow for 10c.
27c. We write knowingly when we claim these Vests the best values in town at 25c.

CHILDREN'S LITTLE VESTS 25c.
Think of Ribbed Little Thread Vests, in sizes from 10 to 32 for only 25c, each.
As good bargains in Hose, though only Ladies' Goods quoted below.

COMBINATION LOT 35c. HOSE.
The famous "C. & G." and Schoppe's equally well-known Hose will be found in this lot.
Three pairs for the usual price of two.

THREE PAIRS FOR $1.
55c. Silk-finished Little Hose, in boot patterns. Eleven combinations, which include fancy stripes, Roman stripes, cluster stripes, graduating stripes, broken stripes, combined with plain colors in all shades, also Black. Some with ribbed uppers. Special sale price 35c.

40c. English Cotton, boot-pattern Hose, with Black feet and ankles and colored uppers, in eleven different styles; also several styles fancy feet and ankles. A few pretty effects in plain colors, in contrasting shades. Special sale price 35c.

44c. Schoppe's Ingrain Hose in twenty-four different shades, which comprise the newests tints of Gray, Tan, Green, Blue, etc. Special sale price 35c.
44c. Fast Black Hose. Special sale price, 35c.

THE USUAL 35c. HOSE FOR 25c.
35c. Ingrain Hose in the delicate and new shades of Tan, Fawn, Mouse, Dove, also in Golden, Brown, Drab, Gray and Slate. For special sale, 25c.

35c. Boot-pattern Hose with Black feet and ankles and Fancy Tops, also reduced to 25c.

85c. SILK HOSE FOR 75c.
We could write how worth $1 for 75c, for is not the price $1 at the credit store?

THE COLORS comprise all the new Greens, Browns, Reds, Yellows, Tans, Grays, Blues, the various tints of which make a list of nearly as many shades as in the French Little Hose.

THE STYLES—Boot-patterns of black feet and ankles with uppers of plain colors. Of black feet and ankles with striped uppers. Of striped feet and ankles and black uppers. Of feet and ankles of one shade with ribbed uppers of contrasting color. In all, seven combinations.

THE PRICE—75c. Instead of 85c.
PARIS HOSE AT EUROPEAN PRICES.
The silk-finished Little Hose offered during this sale at 75c, a pair, comprise the very latest Paris novelties. You'll find the prices much attached to each stocking. Many marked $1.25; hundreds of pairs at 90c., and only a few at 80c. and 85c.

YOUR CHOICE FOR 75c.
THE COLORS comprise no less than forty-three different tints, which include the newest and most sought after.

THE STYLES. By actual count, thirty-nine different styles. Were we to count the various combinations of colors as each a different style, the number would be hundreds instead of thirty-nine.

MOST IMPORTANT OF ALL.
The above-quoted prices are for the special sale only. We think we deserve your thanks for a method of advertising so beneficial to you. And we write we don't apologize for the special prices being temporary!

A NEW THING WITH US—BUT A NECESSITY.

A Job Table. Don't misunderstand our meaning. In a stock of the magnitude of ours the lots are sure to become broken—especially in the Children's Department. Odds and Ends left in the regular stock cause us embarrassment sometimes. It places us in an unfair position. Much of what we show at the commencement of the season cannot be duplicated—and the stock cannot be kept complete in sizes and patterns to the end. Do you catch the idea? On this Job Table we're going to place these fragments of the full lots—put on a "moving price" and get rid of them in a hurry.

We want to introduce you to this table when you come in. You may find something you can use. I'll hardly remain two days. Somebody will want what you put there. They're here to-morrow.

WHAT YOU'LL FIND THERE TO-MORROW.
Saturday was such a bad day we didn't blame you for not coming out—even considering the Specials we had outlined. We think, in justice to you, what are left ought to be offered again. They go on the Job Table to-morrow.

The balance of lots 5890, 5880, 5746, 5887 and 4470. They're one piece. The patterns seem to be the only things that are off. They're $3.50, $3 and $2.50. The scattering ones left are $1.50 to-morrow only.

The Double Veil Wists went in spite of the wet. What are left at Saturday's price to-morrow—35c. There are still a few of those pickings in quarter Window Scarfs. On the table they go—15c.

There are 12 or 15 Sailor Suits—short pants, in dark colors. They're sold well—that's why there are so few left. They are marked $1.50. On the table at $1.

Three out of fifty. That's clearing them out pretty clean. Sailor Suits. $1.50 is the marked price. 70c. To-morrow only. A dollar and a quarter quality in Gray Suits—with the others—75c.

One—a single, solitary survivor. Imported French Reeder, double embroidered collar. Will fit a boy of 9 years. $8—On the table at $5. Wouldn't go there if we could get more of them.

We've got about five two-piece Kilts—handsome, imported fabrics. Trimmed with velvet and full velvet front. One or two of them are $7—the balance $10. They can't be replaced, so $5 will see the end of them. Just four Corduroy—best quality—Jacket Suits. When the lots were full they were $7. The balance were marked $5. These four at $2.50. There's one four-year-old, two tweens and a twelve.

These prices will hold only for to-morrow. It's hardly a chance that any of them will be left. If you see them and can use them you'll want 'em. Cost cuts no figure in the prices put on goods on the Job Table. That we offer them to you is sufficient guarantee of the quality. To get rid of them our only desire.
