Everything is in readiness for the Yale-Princeton game, and as the best of weather is predicted the crowd promises to be a record-breaker. Talk on all sides was almost wholly upon the contest. So ernoon when it defeated the Olympian well arranged are the plans that the ingoing of a crowd of more than 25,000 persons by raft, trolley and automobile will scarcely inconvenience the ordinary life of New Haven. The trolley schedule to and Yale Field, the special train service n all directions over the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad, the policing of the avenues of approach to the field and many other details have been worked out systematically, through hearty co-operation of all interests, based upon the inauguration of a permanent system of foot ball administration by Yale University. The most striking feature of the day is exbe the procession of autom through the streets. Acres of vacant land around Yale Field have been thrown open for the accommodation of these vehicles.

KELLEY ENJOINS

NATIONAL COMMISSION

CINCINNATI, November 18.-A legal contest against a decision of the national base ball commission was begun in the United States district court yesterday by Michael J. Kelley, manager of the St. Paul American Association team, who filed a petition for an injunction against the commission to restrain it from putting into effect its decision that Kelley should play with the St. Louis American League team.

Kelley declared that he was not under contract to the St. Paul club, and could not, therefore, be sold by Owner George Lennon of that organization. Kelley asserted that if he should, after the decision of the commission, undertake to play with any other than the St. Louis club, he would be pre-vented forever from engaging in base ball vented forever from engaging in base ball as a means of livelihood. He declared that of the members of the commission, August Herrmann and Ban Johnson, as well as John E. Bruce, secretary of the commission, had a pecuniary interest in the decision, and that these members of the commis-sion were prejudiced against him. Kelley therefore asked for an injunction restrain-ing the members of the commission from any action whereby any professional base ball club in the United States is prevented from engaging him as a player for the next season. A temporary restraining order was issued. The case will be taken up for hear-

each year."

BALTIMORE DOGS WON.

Ending of the Field Trials of Maryland and District Association.

The annual field trials of dogs owned by members of the Maryland and District of Columbia Field Trials Association for the all-age stakes was run yesterday near Easton, Md. The territory for the trials was Miles River Neck. At the Anchorage, the home of Mrs. Charles A. Chipley, William D. Randall, jr.'s, setter and Joseph Hindes' setter True were run. After this trial the sportsmen drove to J. J. Speck's Snug Harbor, where Malcolm H. Hill's pointer and John Dunn's setter, Sue Gladstone, were put down. The party drove to Dr. Charles Lowndes' Sunnyside farm, where lunch was taken, after which Jack Dunn's Kinley Mack and George P. Weir's Weir's Jingo were placed in competition. Kinley Mack showed better style in field and outranged farm of William P. Hall, where William R. Armstrong's Lilly of Woodcliffe and Grason H. Gent's Brace were turned loose. After this they went to John W. Seemer's farm, where William D. Randall's Nellie Bly and William R. Armstrong's Dan of Woodcliffe were matched. They went back to Dr. Lowndes' place, where Malcolm H. Hill's Rover and Gen. Joseph B. Seth's Rex were matched. George Emmerich's Bess of Gil-more ran a bye, and Frank Finley's Bob ran to accompany. Bess did not show up in good form and lacked judgment.

The semi-finals were next run. The first pair put down were Dunn's Kinley Mack and Gent's Brace G. Both hunted well, but Kinley Mack outfooted and outranged Brace G., who showed the effects of carryng too much flesh for a field trial this year. Kinley Mack in this run, while huntng well, showed a bad trait as, in crossing the field, he stopped hunting and ran the sheep. The next brace was Weir's Jingo and Armstrong's Billy Woodcliffe. At the farm of James Cowgill the third and last contest in the finals took place between Dunn's Sue Gladstone and Emmerich's Bess of Gilmore. At Easton, Judge Charles B. Cook of Virginia and H. Lee Clark of Balimore announced the winners of this year's all-age stake, as follows:

derby stakes, owned by Jack Dunn of Baltimore; second, Grace G., winner of last year's derby, owned by Grason H. Gent of Baltimore; third, Sue Gladstone, also owned v Jack Dunn of Baltimore; fourth, Weir's lingo, owned by George F. Welr of Balti-

ATLANTIC CITY GOLFERS.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., November 18 .-The metropolitan district is ably represented in its one remaining survivor in the first division in the open golf tournament of the Country Club of Atlantic City in progress here. Walter J. Travis of Garden City won both his matches with little effort yesterday, but owing to the luck of the draw was compelled to dispose of clubmates in both When the field appeared for the first match play round a gale of wind swept across the course, making anything like normal play impossible. On all save a and an eighteen hole medal play handicap scheduled for today.

Starting out in the morning, Travis was opposed to W. S. Edey of Garden City, the old wing shot. Off the tee the former champion got the longer ball, and his usual deadly short game left Edey little chance to do more than get occasional halves. He never won a hole. After being 4 up at the turn Travis won by 6 up and 5 to play, His only bad mistake was a topped drive going to the seventh hole. There was a bite to the wind that made the fingers tingle, but Travis with characteristic forethought fortified himself with a pair of gloves.

MERIWETHER TRIAL

CHARGES AND SPECIFICATIONS SERVED ON HIM AT ANNAPOLIS.

Charges connected with the fight in which Midshipman James R. Branch received fatal injuries from Midshipman Minor Meriwether, jr., were served on Merlwether at Annapolis yesterday by Commander Adolph T. Marix, judge advocate of the court-martial, which will assemble at the Naval Academy on Wednesday next to try the case. Commander Marix also had a conference with Superintendent Sands i nregard to facilities for the court.

Lieut. Com. J. K. Robinson has been deailed as Meriwether's counsel. He said

"I ask for Merlwether, as did Secretary Bonaparte, that the public judgment be re-served until his side of this unfortunate affair is told. He has a side, and when it toward him from fair-minded people." Charges and Specifications.

There are three charges against Midshipman Meriwether and four specific citations in all, one each under the first and third harges and two under the second.

The first, the most serious, is the original charge of manslaughter, under which it is possible to provide a sentence of ten years in a penitentiary. The specification is "that Midshipman Minor Meriwether, jr., did unlawfully engage in a fight with Midship-man James R. Branch on the evening of November 5, 1905, and did unlawfully strike inflicting injuries from the effects of which the said Midshipman Branch died." The second charge is the violation of the third clause of the eighth article for the government of the navy, which provides that no one in the naval service "shall quarrel with, strike or assault or use provoking or reproachful words, gestures or menaces toward any one in the navy."

The two specifications under this head are that Meriwether called Branch a "sneak" and a "coward," and that he assaulted him. The third and final charge is that of "conduct to the prejudice of good order and discipline," under the general regulations. The specification is that Meriwether engaged in a fight with Branch. It is within the power of the court to find Meriwether guilty of any or all of the specifications and charges, or it may find him guilty of certain specifications and not guilty of the accompanying charges should they believe the facts to be as stated, but not to constitute the charge. The maximum penalty provided for the first charge is dismissal and ten years' confinement in the penitentiary. That for the second and third is dismissal. In each case the court has authority to provide any pun-ishment that it should see fit, less than the maximum. If Meriwether is found guilty on all three charges it would be within the power of the court to punish him by de-merits, confinement at the Naval Academy or in some other manner.

The "Code" Not on Trial.

There seems to be an impression that the court-martial appointed to try Midshipman Merlwether for alleged responsibility for the death of Midshipman Banch is also to investigate the so-called "code of honor," involving the settlement of personal differences between midshipmen by glove fights governed by the rules of the prize ring. According to the officials of the Navy Department that is an erroneous view of the case.

In announcing the appointment of the court Secretary Bonaparte stated, in response to an inquiry, that the Meriwether court martial proceedings were directed ex-clusively against the individual and not against the alleged practice of glove at the academy. In other words, the case of Meriwether is to be tried solely on its individual merits, regardless of any previous fights which may have occurred be-tween midshipmen. It is not regarded as necessary to the trial and punishment of young Meriwether, in case he is convicted, that it should be shown that a practice prevails at the academy of settling personal disagreements by a resort to fisticuffs. It is recognized that such a practice is content to the rules and regulations of the trary to the rules and regulations of the academy and its recognition by the court as an institution might be construed as a shipman Meriwether.

Punishments Inflicted.

Secretary Bonaparte has also stated that no proceedings will be instituted by the department against any of the midshipmen who are alleged to have assisted in the fight between Meriwether and Branch, as referee, timekeepers, seconds, etc. It is stated that those young men have already received their final punishment at the hands of the superintendent of the academy and that no further action is contemplated with respect to their connection with the Branch-Meriwether case. Six of them who were cadet officers have been reduced to the ranks and received demerits. Eight others have also received demerits, the number varying according to the seriousness of

Drug Trust Raised Prices. In the suit of C. G. A. Loder against the National Association of Wholesale and Retail Druggists and the Philadelphia Asso clation of Retail Druggists, in Philadelphia statistics were produced by counsel for the plaintiff to show that during the last six years the public has paid $16,000,000 in increased prices for drugs. Mr. Loder, who is a cut-rate druggist, is asking $100,000 damages for an alleged conspiracy on the damages for an alleged conspiracy on the part of the defendants to ruin his business. Clayton F. Shoemaker, senior member of the wholesale drug firm of Shoemaker & Busch, had testified that to some extent his refusal to supply a cut rate to the druggist was due to his sympathy for the small retailer. Counsel for Mr. Loder produced figures and asked him as to his sympathy for the consumers, who, the lawyer declared, had paid $18,000,000 more annually for medicines during the six years since the comCOLORED ODD FELLOWS

ANNIVERSARY OF INSTITUTION OF DISTRICT GRAND LODGE.

The twenty-fifth anniversary of the institution of the District Lodge, G. U. O. of O. F., was celebrated yesterday afternoon and evening at Convention Hall. The exercises were under the auspices of the District Grand Lodge, No. 20. Immediately following the grand parade, at 2 o'clock, the visiting Patriarchs assembled, the grand officers taking their seats upon the platform. J. S. Simpson, past grand master, called the meeting to order with a few introductory remarks. Among those seated on the stage were many of the officers of the national body. Near the presiding offieer sat Commissioner Henry B. F. Macfarland, John C. Dancy, recorder of deeds; Rev. W. J. Howard and others.

Rev. W. J. Howard and others.

"Coronation" was sung by the audience standing. Invocation was offered by Rev. O. J. W. Scott, pastor of Metropolitan A. M. E. Church, of this city.

Following music by the band, J. H. Coleman, the District grand master, made an address. During the course of his remarks. some reference was made to the occasion being the first celebration ever held by the Grand Lodge in the District, and a brief review was made of the beneficent work being done by the fraternity throughout the District. The speaker said that Odd Fellowship helped to develop true manhood right living and good citizenship. He ad monished his hearers to feel encouraged, to look back over the twenty-five years of the Commissioner Macfarland spoke briefly of the great good being accomplished by the G. U. O. of O. F., and heralded it as a blessing to the colored people. With the most cordial feeling he extended words of welcome to the visiting members of the fraternity who occupy places of rank in the national order. He was glad to attest the purposes of the cornelization as below. purposes of the organization as being of the noblest and most inspiring and congratulated the entire lodge upon the progress it is making.

The origin and history of the organization was reviewed by S. W. Watson, past deputy grand sentinel. The other features of the program included addresses by John C. Dancy, recorder of deeds; W. L. Houston, J. F. Needham. The program closed with the singing of "America" and the benediction by Rev. W. J. Howard. A ball was given in the evening at 8 o'clock. The feat-ure of the evening, besides dancing, was the promenade, in which the patriarchs. the District grand officers and the District board of the D. H. of R. participated. From the New York Sun. It is gratifying to hear that the importation of frogs into the Hawaiian Islands has proved to be a success. The islands had no frogs, they needed them, and the demand has finally created a home supply. According to the report of the fish commission, the frogs are multiplying, and it may soon be profitable to catch them for market. It was not the original purpose, however, to eat the frogs, but to give them a chance to eat things that were not desirable to have around. A certain worm infested the grass or slime in and about the pools, and if cattle or sheep swallowed it they were likely to die. It was thought also that the frogs might assist in thinning out some of the noxious insects. So some of the planters persovered in shipping frogs from the United States, though the island rats declared war on the newcomers and killed most of the early importations.

The frogs are now very well scattered over all the islands and are making their influence felt. They are playing havoc with some of the insects; they are reducing the number of flukes that decimate the herds and flocks in a most insidious way. The natives say it is good to have frogs around, and they are glad the little fellows have taken so kindly to the islands.

Perhaps many of us do not appreciate the frog as much as he deserves, but we might feel our loss if he should disappear.
