$4.98

For $8 Hats.

The Palais Royal Millinery is pre-eminent, not because of accident, but because of untiring effort and not a few sacrifices. Every Saturday prices are so reduced that Trimmed Hats seldom or ever remain here over one week. The Hats here at six dollars-which patrons know to be superior to most sold at $7.50-are reduced for tomorrow to $4.98, and every one will be claimed before the store closes. Tomorrow's early visitors will find Picture Hats, Mushroom, Bell, new large Sailor and the chic medium-size and small Hats, all artistically trimmed, at $4.98 instead of $6, at $6.98 instead of $8, at $8.48 instead of $10.

Temptation has been resisted - and the passe styles, which the wholesale houses are begging us to take, have been rejected. You'll gladly buy these Hats at 88c - when you would scornfully refuse the passe styles at a much less price.

One hundred and fifty boys and girls occupied the stage, the background of which was an imnense American flag.

With the singing of the several numbers of the program the many colored lights of the stage were alternated, making at times a most beautiful color scheme. The salutatory address was delivered by Katherine Brennan, and an essay on "Jamestown" was read by George A. Deg-

She saw in a pier glass on the rear wall of the parlor two men pass through the kitchen to the dining room, and with a scream she sprang toward them. One of the intruders was of tall build, while the other was small. Both wore black masks and the larger man's face was further disguised by what appeared to be false whiskers. The moment she screamed both were upon her and a violent struggle ensued, for Mrs. Veinstein is a sturdy young woman. To stiffe her shrieks for help one of the robbers seized her by the throat and tried to choke her, and while he was doing so the other drew a hung the key on a nail in the dining room.

They are not yet worked to anything like possible capacity, but there are possibilities of great development. The geological sur-vey has just issued a pamphlet on the subject by Mr. Otto Veatch, who has been de-tailed to make a special study of the deposits.

The clays vary from the purest, softest, flourlike kaolin to the hardest, refractory, flint fire clay, and the beds are from six to thirty-five feet thick. The kaolins are adapted for use in the manufacture of porcelain, sanitary ware, encaustic tiling, etc., and the fire clays are suitable for high-grade fire brick and other uses.

The only industries in this region that now utilize these clays are two plants which manufacture fire brick and a small pottery recently established at Augusta, Ga., for the manufacture of porcelain.
