

The Sunday Star.

WASHINGTON, D. C., FEBRUARY 26, 1922.

How the Prince of Wales went boating at Mandalay. This royal Burmese barge, picturesque and entirely oriental, carried the prince and his party, while the natives on both banks of the river cheered the visitor.

Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis bids good-bye to his court clerk in Chicago and prepares to devote all his time to oiling the machinery of organized base ball. Judge Landis served seventeen years on the bench and was known for his fearless decisions.

Underwood & Underwood.

Naval board weighs fate of big battleships. Photo snapped during inspection of the Washington and the Colorado, both ships now nearing completion at the Camden, N. J., yards. Rear Admiral George W. McElroy in overalls at right.

International.

Waldemar Theodore Schaller of the United States geological survey is the leading authority in America on precious stones. In his unromantic library in the survey building he passes judgment on diamonds, rubies and all sorts of stones submitted from various quarters of the globe.

National Photo.

The long lost colors of the Blackhawk (86th) Division have been found. The colors disappeared mysteriously shortly after the arrival of the 86th Division in France in 1918. After a search of many months they were found wrapped in a soldier's blouse, the details of the finding being known only to the War Department.

International.

The latest photograph of Miss Mathilde McCormick, whose reported engagement to a riding master in Switzerland has startled Chicago society. She is the daughter of Harold F. McCormick and granddaughter of John D. Rockefeller.

Underwood & Underwood.

The Queen of England and Princess Mary in the historical royal coach, which will be used when the princess becomes the bride of Viscount Lascelles in Westminster Abbey. Photo made at the time of signing of the peace pact with Ireland.

International.