3 PERSONS KILLED BY SPEEDING AUTO

Philadelphia Banker and Clubman Held After Machine Hits Group in Street.

ONLY INCREASES SPEED

Smashes Into Pole After Few Blocks-Barrette Imbedded in Radiator.

By the Associated Press PHILADELPHIA, Pa., March 2. Two women and a man were killed early today, when an automobile traveling at a high rate of speed, crashed into them as they were alighting from a trolley car in West Philadelphia. The driver of the machine did not slacken his speed, but ushed away as his victims were burled fifty feet from the spot where they were struck.

Twenty minutes later Henry G. Brock, banker, clubman and member of a widely known Philadelphia family, was found four blocks from the scene of the killing, standing beside a blood-spattered motor car, wrecked against a pole. He was arrested by the police in connection with the accident.

Later in the day Brock was held without bail by a police magistrate on a homicide charge. He was also held in $5,000 bail on a charge of driving an automobile while intoxidriving an automobile while income deriving an automobile while cated and for failing to come to the aid of an injured person.

The three were returning home from a birthday party for Mrs. O'Donnell's daughter, Mrs. Clara Hart. Mrs. O'Donnell was a widow and the mother of elght children. Miss Murphy was a high school senior.

The motorman of the trolley car had just closed his doors when the automobile crashed into the little group. As the machine hurled itself into the three victims, the force of the smash swerved it to one side. The driver did not stop, however, but increasing his speed, continued east on Lancaster avenue. At 44th street, one block from the accident, the machine narrowly missed crashing into a taxicab.

When the police told him that a piece of fur and a woman's barrette were found on the car, he insisted he was not guilty of the accident.
"I won't talk, any way, until my lawyer gets here." he then declared. The lawyer advised silence.
Brock, who is thirty-six years old, is a member of the banking firm of Sinkler and Brock. After being locked in the cell, he sat on the bench with his head buried in his hands.

ART COLLECTION SOLD BY JAMES W. ELLSWORTH

Man Who Offered to Rebuild Home Town in Ohio Gets $1,000.000 for Treasures.

NEW YORK, March 2.—James W. Ellsworth, wealthy coal operator, who attracted much attention several years ago by his offer to rebuild Hudson. Ohio, his boyhood home, along model lines if the residents would oust the saloon, has sold the art collection in his East 69th street home to a syndicate. The purchase price was reported at about $1,000,000.

Mr. Ellsworth, it was said, sold his treasures because he was moving into a smaller house and could not take them with him.

The collection, including twelve great groups of paintings, statuary, porcelains, tapestries, carpets and books, is reputed to be one of the finest in the country. The Rembrandt "Portrait of Man," one of the best of the masters of arts in this country, and the twelve "Innea" landscapes, are the only things not sold. Mr. Ellsworth sold the Villa Paimeri, near Florence, said to be the place where Hoccacio wrote his "Dreameron," and the Lanzburg Schloss, near Zurich.

The Magons, together with Anselo Figueroa and Librado Rivera, were in rouble with American officers during much of the last fifteen years. Both brothers served sentences in the Arizona penitentiary. Figueroa and the Magons later were sent to the federal prison at MeNeil Island, Wash., for violation of neutrality laws. Figueroa died there. Still later the brothers and Rivera were convicted of violation of the espionage laws. Enrique was sentenced to serve two years, which he did. Rioardo and Rivera each received sentences of fifteen years. Ricardo died at Leavenworth, where Rivera is now.

KAISER WILL FIND HOME ON CORFU WELL FILLED

1,000 Near East Refugees Housed in Castle Achilleion.

Vickrey Says.

NEW YORK, March 2 .- Reports from Berlin that former Empress Wilhelm and his wife, the Princess Her-Doorn to Wilhelm's former summer palace, Castle Achilleion, on the Island of Corfu, Greece, led Charles V. Vickrey, general secretary of the Near East Relief, to observe that they have a big surprise in store for them. For Castle Achilleion, Mr. Vickrey said, now houses 1,000 Armenian war orphans brought from Asia Minor by the relief organization and quartered in the palace with the permission of the Greek government. "The palace was requisitioned by the Greek government during the war." Mr. Vickrey said. "and has been turned over to Near East Relief along with many other buildings to help shelter the hundreds of thousands of homeless refugees. I do not think the Greek authorities have any intention of returning it to the former kaiser or his family."

George Oakley Totten, jr., local architect, bas pur-chased practically the entire structure and will re-erect it in the gar-den of his home, at 2633 16th street corthwest, it was learned today. The fine old stone dwelling, said to be one of the outstanding eximples of the architectual genius of the late Henry Hobson Richardson, regarded as a leader in the field of architecture of his day, may serve as the home of a foreign embassy or legation, Maj. Totten said. At any rate, the building will be preserved intact as designed by Mr. Richardson, with its graceful exterior and won-derfully decorated rooms.

These are the massive hand-carved white holly mantelpiece of the "holly room" and the front entrance, including the stone archway and the door. It is understood that Dr. Holmes of the National Gallery of Art-has arranged to exhibit the mantelpiece in the gallery, while the doorway donated by the contractor engaged to raze the house, R. P. Threatened effacement of Richardson's work recently aroused local architects to form a committee for the preservation of such architectural "gems" and plans were discussed for raising a fund to purchase such parts of the Warder residence as were deemed representative of the whole scheme. Maj. Totten's move will preserve the building complete, except for minor parts, which he will duplicate.

The Free Staters found that the rebels were hiding in disused mines which had been fitted up for habitation, set off a charge of explosives, sealing the entrance to one mine in which several men, one of them possibly Bofin, were thought to have taken refuge. If the men were in the mine at the time of the explosion, says the correspondent, it is believed they must have been suffocated.

Slayer Never Speaks of Wife, Over Whom He Was Committed to Insane Ward.

Special Dispatch to The Star. PITTSBURGH, March 2.-Harry Kendall Thaw, after eight days in Pittsburgh, is preparing to return to his indefinite confinement in the Pennsylvania Hospital for Mental and Nervous Diseases, at Philadelphia.

Thaw has been attending the theater and church as any sane, normal person might. There have been no estrictions upon his movements, save those that would have prevented his eighty-year-old mother from ac companying him. For Mrs. Mary Copley Thaw, she of the millions, who bared her soul on the witness stand that her boy might escape the electric chair, and told of the the electric chair, and told of the "taint" of insanity which had come down to him, has been with her "boy" wherever he has gone thus far during the ten days' vacation the court extended to him.

And while there have been no restrictions, there always have lurked in the background two watchful attendants from the Philadelphia institution. There could have been no vacation without this chaperonage, but it is safe to say that Thaw has not felt their presence, their restraint, any more than the President of the United States feels the watchful care of the trained secret service men who guard him from harm wherever he may go.

Mrs. Thaw has walked proudly beside him, much of her former hauteur having returned to her since Harry came home, came to the life that his mother would have him lead through all the years he has wasted. As a boy Harry was always pampered. His mother sought always to shield him from harm.

Mother love may do much for a man, and Mrs. Thaw is giving it today without stint, without thought of herself, or any one but her "boy." That boy has become a great reader, and here again is the hope of returning normalcy. The Thaw mansion on Beechwood boulevard is filled with wonderful books, and Thaw has been feasting upon them. In the beautiful grounds surrounding the Thaw home he has found ample means of exercise. When he has gone downtown with his mother they always have used a closed motor.

About Harry Thaw at dinner and in the afternoon are gathered friends of his mother's selection, not the men with whom Thaw mingled in the days of his $100 a plate dinners and the escapades that filled pages of the Sunday papers.

They are the men of his age and generation whom his mother would have selected always as his companions—men who were toiling and working their ways to their respective goals while "H. K. T." was sowing the wild oats which reaped the whirlwind of insanity and homicide. A scientist of note, a writer of ability—these and others of their class have been entertained at the Thaw mansion during Harry's visit, and the attitude of all toward the wayward son of the Thaw home, the returned prodigal, is such as they would assume toward any normal man for Mrs. Thaw would have it so, and Mrs.
