

Capital's Colony Enjoying Rare North Shore Weather

Cooling Breezes Wafted in From Ocean—President and Mrs. Coolidge Holding to Quiet Vacation Program.

BEVERLY, Mass., Saturday, July 11.—Rare July weather, cooling breezes wafted in from the Atlantic, gardens abloom and social activities ceaseless, have given the Washington colonists and sojourners along the North Shore an experience of rare delight. The country and yacht clubs along the shore have planned programs that carry through until after Labor day.

Over at White Court, where the President and Mrs. Coolidge are spending the summer, the vacation program so well planned is being carried out. Following the issuing of a statement that the White House rule of not accepting the stream of invitations continually pouring in on them must prevail at White Court also, has resulted in a leap in the flow, and for the President and Mrs. Coolidge there is a summer in store much to their liking. Trips to the historic towns along the shore, visits to some of the shrines, motoring, trips on the Mayflower and the receiving of a few callers provide variety enough in the program so that there is pleasure assured them. Mrs. Coolidge is the same delightful woman she was in Washington, and is continually doing things to make life pleasant. Pink and white seem to be her favorite colors for summer day-dress. The President also is enjoying a sunburn which may later on develop into a light tan, the sure sign of a colonist who finds life in the open to his liking. If nice President were to take up golf, he would easily acquire the sun tan, but later on his motor trips and his garden strolls and his sails on the Mayflower will show the result, even if it is a bit slower.

Embassy life is colorful along the North Shore this season. Beverly Farms, the Italian embassy has been established in the Kaan cottage atop Juniper ridge, one of the most interesting spots that district. And in a colony almost park-like in its prettiness, Ambassador de Martino has a delightful place for the summer, and the Italian embassy there is a varied prelude to the social activities. Over at Manchester the British embassy is nicely settled, while at Magnolia Baron Malin, the German Ambassador, is finding new pleasures at every turn. To the Italian and German embassies, however, the most part, the North Shore is new, but the British embassy attaches, having been on the North Shore last summer, are finding warm welcomes from old friends. The embassies will be maintained on the North Shore until late in the autumn, the Italian embassy for a stay that will cover practically all of the business usually transacted in Washington.

"Tommy" Leiter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Leiter of the Washington colony at Beverly Farms, is developing into quite a yachtsman, as well as a horseman. He handles the helm on one of the crafts so popular with the young folks along the North Shore, and his yacht is entered in the Manchester Yacht Club races for the season. Mrs. John Ballantine Pitney, sister of Mrs. Leiter, is to spend the midsummer at Edgewater, the beautiful Leiter summer home on the water-front at Beverly Farms.

Miss Natalie Hammond, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Hays Hammond and popular in the younger society set in the Capital, is to spend most of the summer on the North Shore at the Lookout Hill estate of her parents. Miss Elizabeth Hammond, sister of Mr. Hammond, also is at Lookout Hill for the season.

Mrs. R. H. Bastido, with her daughter, Miss Mary Griffin, and her sons, R. B. Griffin and F. Griffin, are on from Washington to spend the summer on the North Shore. They have taken apartments at the Ocean-side at Magnolia. The younger folks go in for the popular athletic activities. Miss Griffin devoting much time to riding over the picturesque bridge paths, while the sons are spending much of their time on the tennis courts, ranked among the best on the shore.

Mr. and Mrs. David Lawrence are expected to spend much of the summer at the North Shore and will find a summer home in Swampscott, the summer capital town. They will find many Washington friends on the North Shore this summer. Mr. Edward T. Clark, personal secretary to President Coolidge, and Mrs. Clark are at the New Ocean House in Swampscott, where they are to spend the summer. For a month they have been away on a trip to the Caribbean Seas. Everett Sanders, secretary to the President, and Mrs. Sanders, Maj. James F. Couper, the President's personal physician, who has been at Plymouth, Vt., in attendance upon the President's father, Col. John C. Coolidge, and Col. S. A. Cheney, the military aid to the President, are also at the New Ocean House. There has been much activity at the hotel this season and one of the interesting events is the ball tonight in honor of the Oxford-Cambridge-Harvard and Yale track teams whose members have been stopping at the hotel in anticipation of the intercollegiate meet, which was run off this afternoon at the Harvard stadium.

Mrs. C. R. P. Rodgers of Washington is enjoying a visit with her mother, Mrs. George von L. Meyer at Rock Maple Farm, at Hamilton. Mrs. Rodgers is recently home from the Hague, where Capt. Rodgers has been stationed for some time on the White Mountain ranges.

The Keith Merrills of Washington are at Avalon, the Ayer estate at Prince's Crossing for the early season. Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon and his daughter, Miss Alisa Mellon, had the cottage two seasons ago.

The President and Mrs. Coolidge have consented to serve as honorary guests of the annual dinner of the disabled veterans of the World War which is to be held next Saturday at Swampscott, where the summer capital has been established. Bathing is one of the popular sports on the North Shore and at White Court there is a natural pool where the rocks have been chiseled out and where the tide ebbs and flows. In this pool Mrs. Coolidge had her first salt water dip of the season, and enjoyed it, one warm morning this week. Mrs. Adolphus Andrews, wife of the commander of the Mayflower, was the first to take the plunge. The President has not as yet succumbed to the lure of the salt water, but some warm afternoon may be unable to resist the temptation.

Senator and Mrs. William M. Butler have been visiting at Marblehead. Senator Butler has been chiseled out and is spending the summer at the North Shore. Senator Arthur Capper of Kansas is another member of the United States Senate who found the North Shore attractive. X. J., is enjoying a North Shore sojourn with her sister, Mrs. Joseph Leiter, one of the Washington colony at Edgewater, the Leiter place at Beverly Farms.

Miss Leonard Brown of Washington is on the North Shore sojourning with the Misses Smith at their summer home on Columbus avenue, Juniper Point, Salem Willows. Miss Margaret Swain of the George Washington University is spending the summer at the home of Mrs. O. A. Swain at Glenmere, on the North Shore.

David W. Mulvane of Topeka, Kan., well known in Washington through his connections with the administration as national committeeman from Kansas, is spending the summer with his family at Magnolia. He was a recent guest of President Coolidge at White Court.

Miss Lydia Serven has joined the Rockport colony for the summer, and has taken the Estabrook cottage, one of the most interesting in that district, and with a charming studio. Miss Martha L. Gerlocke of Washington is making a North Shore visit at the Rockaway, at East Gloucester. Mrs. William Barrett Ridegley of Washington has been at the Hawthorne Inn, East Gloucester, for a North Shore visit.

Mrs. M. L. Clark and Mrs. C. M. Taylor of Washington have been here staying at the Moorland, at Bass Rocks.

Col. and Mrs. James H. Cunningham, with their son, James H. Cunningham, Jr., of Washington, have been enjoying a stay at Annisquam. Col. Cunningham has been assigned to duty in Paris and is leaving the North Shore with his family in the autumn.

Cherry Blanc Mange.

The following ingredients are required for this cherry blanc mange: One quart of milk, four ounces of cornstarch, sugar and vanilla extract to taste and a quarter pound of cherries. Put the milk in a saucepan over the fire. Mix the cornstarch smoothly with one tablespoonful of extra cold milk. When the milk boils, stir in the cornstarch and stir it over the fire until it boils well and thickens, then cook it very gently for about eight minutes, stirring it all the time. Next add the sugar and vanilla to taste. Stew the cherries until tender in one gill of water and add two or three tablespoonfuls of sugar, according as they are sour or not. Rinse out a mold with cold water, arrange a few cherries in the bottom, then put in some of the cooked cornstarch, then the rest of the cherries mixed with the cornstarch. Leave the mold until it is set, then turn the blanc mange onto a pretty dish. Serve with rich milk.
