A. J. TYRER TO HEAD NAVIGATION BUREAU

Appointment as Commissioner Announced—Controls Merchant Marine Seamen.

Appointment of Arthur J. Tyrer of the District of Columbia as commissioner of the Bureau of Navigation was announced Friday by President Coolidge. Mr. Tyrer, who is now deputy commissioner, will take office on June 21. D. B. Carson, the retiring commissioner, has submitted his resignation, effective June 20.

Mr. Tyrer, who lives at Florence Courts and is unmarried, first entered the employ of the bureau in 1902 as a clerk. He rose grade by grade, until he was appointed deputy commissioner in 1909. He was born in Albert Lee, Minn.

The Bureau of Navigation has jurisdiction over the merchant marine and merchant seamen, administering part of the laws pertaining to United States control of vessels and sailors on American ships.

Safety Pins First.
NINETEEN-NOVEMBER, U. S. S. R. June 11.—A new "safety-pin currency" has been introduced by the cooperative stores of the neighboring city of Lufkavansk. As a means of working off surplus stock, small change is being returned in safety pins, one pin for every kopeck.

Rev. Ernest W. Riggs, the new secretary of the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions, was formerly a missionary in Turkey, where his father and grandfather before him served in a like capacity.
