

The Mexican Congress honors America's good-will ambassador of the air, Col. Charles Lindbergh on the Senate rostrum as he was presented with a medal by the Congress in appreciation of his flight to Mexico City. © Underwood & Underwood

Col. Lindbergh and Ambassador Morrow with group at the Juarez School, after the flyer had dedicated the Lincoln Memorial Library there. © Wide World Photos

President Calles of Mexico and Col. Lindbergh enjoying the spectacle of the grand fiesta held at the Mexico City stadium in honor of the flyer's visit. © Underwood & Underwood

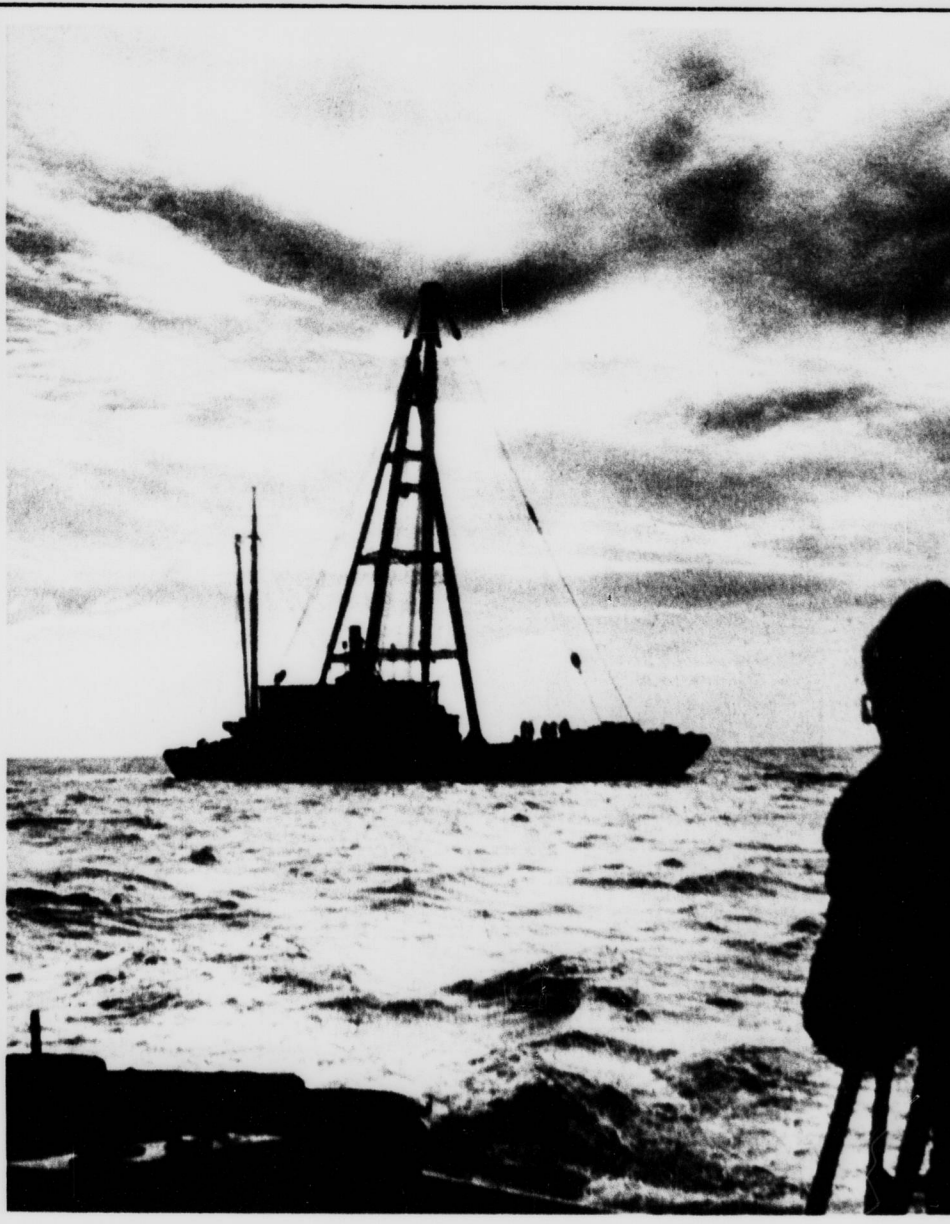

While hope still survived for the rescue of the entrapped men in the sunken submarine S-4. A Navy diver descending from the minesweeper Falcon to the ill-fated submersible. © P. & A. Photos

Heroic service was rendered by Navy divers in the attempted S-4 rescue. This shows Diver L. S. Michaels being carried unconscious from the rescue ship Falcon after nearly losing his life when his air supply was shut off. © Associated Press Photo

This looks balmy sky and

The giant derrick ship Century riding the gale above the grave of the S-4. She was sent to the scene to aid in case attempt was made to raise the submarine. © P. & A. Photos

Aboard the submarine S-8, sister ship of the ill-fated S-4, which played an important part in the attempted rescue. Fishermen are sending cigarettes to the crew by a line during the gale which halted rescue work. © P. & A. Photos

Niagara's rival of the Dark Continent. The might regarded as surpassing Niagara's scenic wonders.