

President Coolidge passing through the streets of Havana with President Machado as cheering crowds turn out to welcome the American Executive on his arrival to address the Pan-American Conference.

© Wide World Photos

A hand-clasp of international friendship. President Machado is first to greet President Coolidge as he sets foot on Cuban soil.

© P. & A. Photos

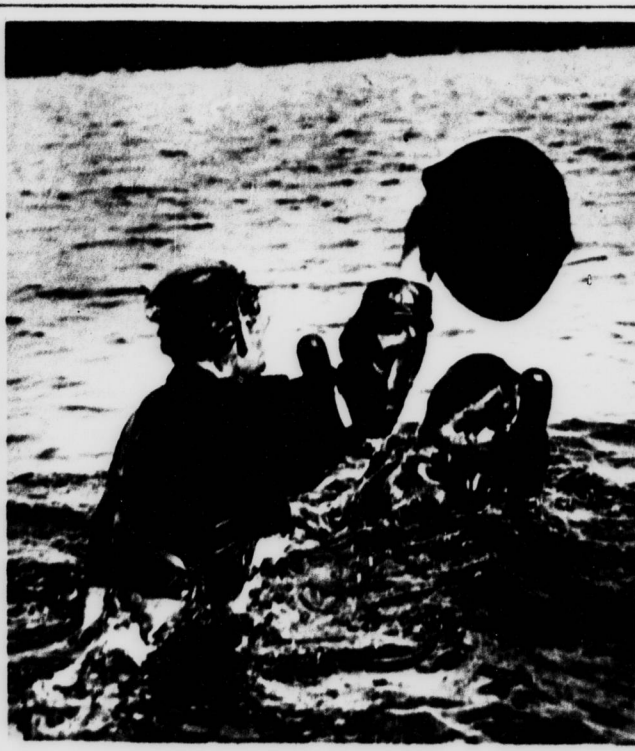

President and Mrs. Coolidge attending Sunday services on the battleship Texas en route to Havana. Others in the group are Secretary of State and Mrs. Kellogg, Admiral Wiley, commander-in-chief of the fleet, and Charles Evans Hughes (in background).

© Paramount News Photo

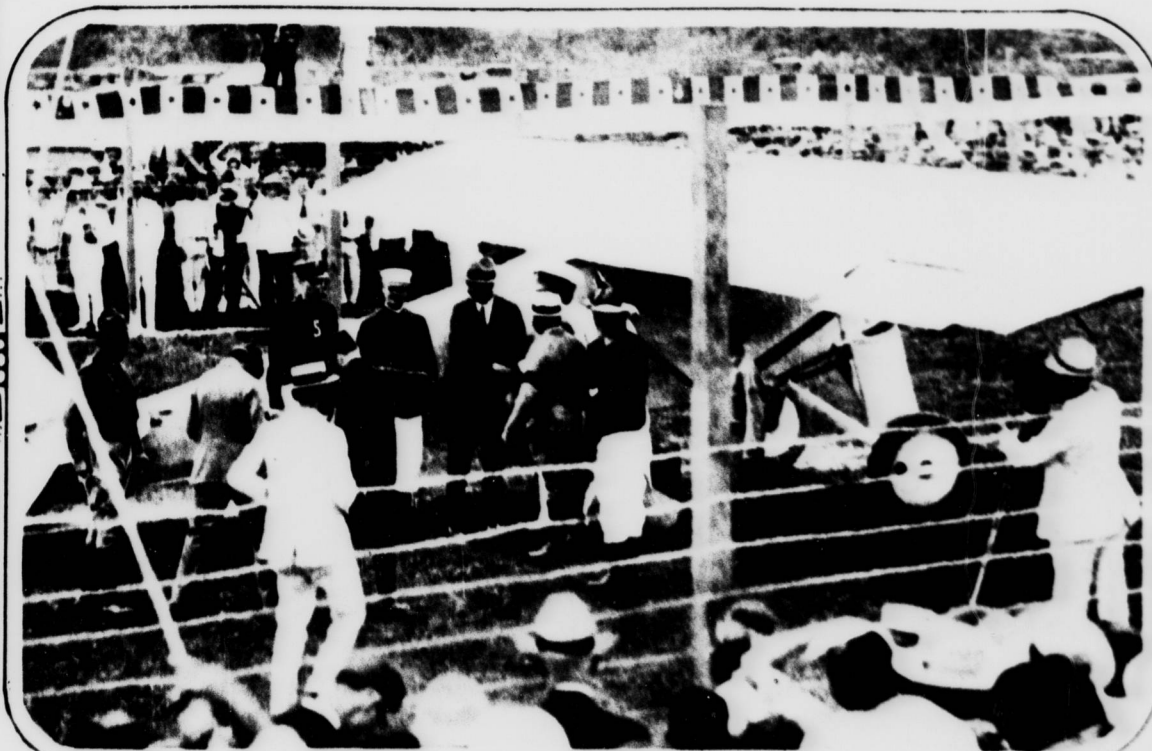

Recalling World War scenes on the western front. United States Marines operating a trench mortar in an intrenchment near Ocotal, Nicaragua.

© Underwood & Underwood

A Canadian woodsman takes a free ride across the lake on the back of a bull moose. He got off, though, before they reached shore.

© Herbert Photos

The Lindbergh air express arrives at Panama. The flying colonel, after donning his soft felt hat, greets officials when his plane is wheeled into a protective inclosure on landing at Pina-Pina Field.

© Wide World Photos