ELECTRIC TRAIN WIND

ON THE AVENUE SIDE

-Oh, you'll enjoy it! Father and Mother will want to see it, too, just as much as you

-There's a river with sailboats, and a rushing waterfall. There's a double-track railway with trains running back and forth and whisking through a tunnel. There are signal towers, and safety gates, and a spic and span new station. Up on the hills you can see the big Lionel Train factory, and handsome private residences. There are two big concrete bridges, with trolley cars, automobiles, and taxicabs running across them and under the bridges there is a taxi-runway. There are street lights, and lights on the bridges. Tell Father and Mother you just must see this window, and beg them to bring you down in the daytime, or at night when it is all lighted up. On the Avenue side, remember.
