

PLANE COMMUTING FORECAST BY PILOT

Lieut. Walter Hinton Sees Air Tours as Common Vacation in the Future.

The man whose two-week vacation has been confined to nearby mountain or seashore resorts or to an automobile trip of a few hundred miles in the future will tour the United States or go into neighboring countries by airplane, Lieut. Walter Hinton, pilot of the first airplane to cross the Atlantic Ocean, predicted in an address last night at the annual father-and-son meeting of the Men's Club of the St. Stephen and Incarnation Episcopal Church, Sixteenth and Newton streets.

The automobile made possible the development of the American suburban community, Lieut. Hinton said, and predicted that the airplane will make possible a similar development at much greater distances from the cities. What formerly was a week end trip will become a regular daily commuting trip through use of the airplane.
