GENEVA. September 9.—Canada's support for the principle of "arbitration, security and disarmament"—the French formula—was announced to the Assembly of the League of Nations today by Hugh Guthrie. Canadian delegate, who is making his first appearance at Geneva.

upon.

Canada is in nowise a militaristic nation and Canada's armaments are practically negligible, he said.

"Canada has no need for greater armaments." he told the Assembly.
"She has but one international boundary. The United States of America, a great friendly country, is our only immediate reighbor and we are convinced that the peaceful aims and aspirations of that great country both rival and support our own."

Sees Absolute Security.

While accepting the traditional French position, as expressed in "arbitration, security and disarmament," that disarmament follows rather than precedes security, Mr. Guthrie also expressed the belief that "general disarmament upon a very extended scale may take place within a reasonable carrying over several million bales of may take place within a reasonable time with absolute security to all na-

Referring to the work of the Euro-Referring to the work of the European commission, the Canadian delegate indicated that he would at some future occasion set forth Canada's opposition to proposals for tariff preferences for European countries exporting wheat. Canada, as one of the world's great exporting countries, is known to object to any such preferential system as an infringement of erential system as an infringement of her right to an open market in Europe.

Rumania Adds Support.

Demetre J. Ghika, Rumanian foreign minister, also regarded disarmament as the most pressing problem before the question whether security should pre-cede disarmament or vice versa, as if they were two separate and independent conceptions. He said, however, that after such a great war as the last one, it is useless to expect a nation to give up its arms without the establishment security."

President Hoover turned aside from Government business today to pay tribute to the Red Cross as part, of the celebration of the foundation of its first chapter at Dansville, N. Y., 50 years ago, by Clara Barton.

Speaking over a nation-wide radio hook-up from the cabinet room of the white House executive offices, Mr. Hoover said the organization "proves the ability of a democracy to create from the people themselves the agencies for their service."

The Dansville Chapter, known as the Clara Barton Chapter, No. 1, was organized by Miss Barton herself in 1881.
