THE EVENING STAR With Sunday Morning Edition.

WASHINGTON, D. C. SATURDAY . . February 16, 1935

THEODORE W. NOYES ... Editor The Evening Star Newspaper Company

11th St. and Pennsylvania Ave.
New York Office: 110 East 42nd St.
licago Office: Lake Michigan Buildins. lropean Office: 14 Regent St., London.
England. Rate by Carrier Within the City. The Evening Star . 45c per month
The Evening and Sunday Star
(when 4 Sundays) . 60c per month
The Evening and Sunday Star
(when 5 Sundays) . 65c per month
The Sunday Star . 5c per copy

Night Final Edition.

Night Final and Sunday Star 70c per month Night Final Star 55c per month Collection made at the end of each month. Orders may be sent by mail or telephone National 5000.

Rate by Mail-Payable in Advance. Maryland and Virginia. aily and Sunday. 1 yr., $10.00: 1 mo. 85c aily only . . . 1 yr. $6.00: 1 mo. 50c anday only . . . 1 yr. $4.00: 1 mo. 40c

All Other States and Canada. Daily and Sunday 1 yr., $12.00; 1 mo., $1.00 Daily only.... 1 yr., $8.00; 1 mo., 75c Sunday only.... 1 yr., $5.00; 1 mo., 50c

Member of the Associated Press. The Associated Press is exclusively entitled to the use for republication of all news dispatches credited to it or not otherwise credited in this paper and also the local news published herein. All rights of publication of special dispatches herein are also reserved.

Strengthening Liquor Control. After almost a year's trial under the District's liquor-control law, the tendency of the Alcoholic Beverage Board and of the Commissioners, as exemplified in their proposed amendments to the law, is to strengthen rather than weaken the regulations as they now exist. The amendments would prohibit the practice followed in some establishments of selling enough drinks just before the hour of closing to last patrons through the dry interval which follows two o'clock in the morning; would add stiffer penalties for those convicted of intoxication in public places, and would enable the A. B. C. Board to suspend licenses for some offenses rather than resort to the more drastic procedure of revocation of license or prosecution in Police Court. These amendments are desirable in strict enforcement of the law and in attempted remedy of some of the evils experienced under the law. The practice, for instance, of selling several drinks to patrons at two o'clock a.m. so they may continue drinking after the legal hour of sale has passed may not be particularly dangerous or vicious in itself. But it represents evasion of the law, and once such loopholes for evasion are established by custom the law itself becomes practically meaningless. Where the law reveals its weaknesses they should be removed by proper amendment.

The power of the liquor board to the Commissioners, would undoubtedly strengthen the hand of the board in dealing with a class of offenders whose violations may not be regarded as serious enough to waring the licensees out of business. It is from every standpoint desirable that in imposing penalties on the basis of fact the board be given power to act quickly and in a manner that will make its decisions immediately effective. With the knowledge that offense under the law may bring susthe licensee will be more zealous in conforming to the letter of the regu-

Amendments to the law proposed by Representative Dirksen of Illinois also deserve serious consideration. Mr. Dirksen would impose a limitation on the number of "Class A" license holders in the District that would, in effect, confine the number to less than 350. There are now 394 holders of this type of license-which permits the "off-sale" of any kind of of licenses which has shown an increase in the past year. The concentration of liquor stores in some sections of the city, and the number that now exist, suggest the advisability of limiting the total.

Another amendment proposed by Mr. Dirksen would abolish the "hidden bar" for mixing drinks-a developpurpose of the regulation requiring drinks to be mixed out of sight of the customer was presumably to prevent the return of the old saloon. The President, in proclaiming the adoption of the repeal amendment, asked that dom, now is the time for him to daylight saving." "no State shall by law or otherwise show it. authorize the return of the saloon either in its old form or in some modern guise." Prevention of the return of the saloon should remain the objective, with or without "hidden

In soliciting funds from the American public Hauptmann betrays a delusion of grandeur, evidently imagining himself some kind of a hero. Such delusions are so common that they entitle him to no especial scientific consideration.

Vaudeville and Crime.

The trial of Bruno Richard Hauptmann at Flemington was attended by many features which greatly shocked the country, the crowding of the court room with spectators eager for sensations, the spirit of ballyhoo which pervaded the entire proceedings to the end, the picnic spirit which prevailed on the part of the public. It became a veritable entertainment for thousands.

Now it is proposed by an enterprising amusement agent to engage the members of the jury that convicted Hauptmann to make a vaudeville tour. Offers of $500 a week have been made to the twelve men and sheets of paper, speak to us, amuse us, women and at latest reports seven of terrify us, teach us, comfort us, open them have indicated their willingness to accept, two having definitely re-

Sorth as a feature of an entertainment munication are in the reach of all. truthfulness."

ably to talk about their experiences and reactions during the six weeks of

The trial of a person for murder is a solemn proceeding and should a thousand times, and yet it happens never be made the occasion of diver- that there are individuals in high tisement. The brazen effrontery of the proposer of this plan betrays a as to begrudge a public library the total misconception of the function of the law which is invoked for the pro- maintenance and operation in the tection of society, and those citizens people's service. The pitiful error of who have served the State by sitting their attitude is betrayed in their in judgment and who then yield to simultaneous complaint against the the temptation to capitalize their prevalence of crime, but the contraservices in that capacity share in the diction is one which they do not care

The making of the Hauptmann trial an occasion of public entertainment was bad enough, but to send the jury around the vaudeville circuit would be an intolerable outrage against decency. It is to be hoped that all twelve of the jurors will see the utter reject the tender, as have two of them is to pay the penalty of his life for an abominable crime, will be subjected to a blasting condemnation.

Germany and Peace.

Germany's formal reply to the Anglo-French accord and to its invitation to the Reich to participate in solidifying European peace has now been delivered in London and Paris. It does not go the full length of acceptance, but Fuehrer Hitler agrees in broad principle with the British and French proposals, and to that extent the German answer represents progress toward the desired goal. It specifically leaves the way open for further discussions and proposes that Great Britain and Germany enter upon them forthwith.

Declaring its wish sincerely "to promote the safeguarding of peace," the maintenance of which is described as being in the interest of German security as well as in that of other European states, the Reich concretely is willing for the moment to consider Europe, whereby the signatory states would be pledged to come to the assistance of any victim of an unprovoked air attack. Beyond expressing willingness to join such a pact, Germany is prepared merely to enter into bi-lateral discussions with the British to clear up "basic preliminary quesproposals regarding Austrian independence. Germany's return to the suspend licenses, without appeal to League of Nations and an "Eastern Locarno

"would be an important step on the expensive in the end. road to European solidarity," but rant revocation of licenses—revoca- Hitler is unmistakably determined to tion in some cases amounting to forc- extort positive concessions from the purposes. Thus far the Germans to base enlightening comment. have stressed only equality in armaments as a condition, with corresponding recognition of their sovereign larger crops if they can be persuaded status. What else they demand they that the old plan of collecting for nonwill possibly reveal in the proposed cultivation was not an easier way to pension of his license for thirty days, conversations with Britain. If their aspirations comprehend any farreaching changes in existing European frontiers, the outlook for an agreement acceptable to Germany is not bright. But Hitler at least leaves the door ajar for negotiation. Developments and results will now depend on whether the Fuehrer or the shrewder bargainers. The prospects for a guaranteed peace in Europe cannot be said to have been very substantially advanced by Germany's

It appears that Germany can make better dirigibles than America can. Fortunately that particular style of ment under the new control law that craft is something that can be dishas evoked much criticism. The pensed with under almost any kind of circumstances.

reply, but they have at any rate not been made darker, and, under all the circumstances, that is something. An agreement on armaments is probably the crux of the situation.

The Emperor of Ethiopia claims an ancestry dating back to King Solomon. If he inherits any extraordinary wis- time table now without worrying about Great Books.

It has been more or less commonly agreed that notable institutions of sticks and stone axes. civilization are the lengthened shadows of great personalities, and it would seem that the same principle might be applied in a judgment of books. Those works of literature which have most influence upon the thought and the conduct of their readers are, in sober fact, the fruits of character. They do not come into existence by accident, but rather are governed by the law of cause and effect-they mirror the intelligence, the integrity, the courage and the sympathy of their

John Milton, perhaps, summarized the verdict of all thoughtful lovers of letters in the epigram: A good book is the precious lifeblood of a master-spirit, embalmed and treasured up on purpose, to a life beyond life.

And Charles Kingsley concurred in that point of view when he wrote in If you a "sense of humor" find homelier language:

Except a living man, there is nothing more wonderful than a book!-a message to us from the dead-from human souls whom we never saw, who lived, perhaps, thousands of miles and yet these, in those little their hearts to us as brothers. William Ellery Channing, too, lent he power of his eloquent conviction program to show themselves and prob- In the best books great men talk to us, give us their most precious thoughts, and pour their souls into ours. God be thanked for books. the trial. But surely there should be They are the voices of the distant and sufficient public disapproval of this the dead, and make us heirs of the plan to cause them to reconsider, if spiritual life of past ages. Books are the true levelers. They give to all any of them have actually agreed to who will faithfully use them, the soprostitute their service as jurors for ciety, the spiritual presence, of the best and greatest of our race.

Such testimony might be multiplied positions so unresponsive to their duty small means which it requires for its to face.

Weakness in the Macon.

Testimony has been given before the naval court which is making inquiry at San Francisco into the circumstances of the Macon's collapse and loss off the Pacific Coast the impropriety of such a proceeding and other day to the effect that the dirigible narrowly escaped crashing last to face. already, and that the proposer of this April in Texas because of a structural scheme to make a profit out of the failure in the same part of the ship solemn service which has just been that collapsed on Tuesday. The witrendered, as a result of which a man ness, an officer of the Macon, said that he had then recommended investigation of the strength of the entire fin construction, that the Bureau of Aeronautics had made an examination and had ordered the strengthening of the defective girder, but had ruled that the repair work should not be allowed to interfere with the Macon's operating schedule. This work. said the witness, had not been completed when the airship started on her last flight.

> This raises a question of vital importance. Unless refuted, the testimony reveals that the Macon was permitted to continue cruising while under suspicion of structural weakness. The responsibility for permitting such a performance is a heavy one. The officer who gave the testimony regarding the structural defect went on to say that he felt that the ship was safe to fly in anything but raises a question of judgment that may bear upon the whole matter of the handling of the dirigible. It is idle to seek to deduce official responsibility for the disaster from such testimony alone, but the fact remains that the ship's structure was known to be weak and that she was kept in commission. In the light of the wrecking of the Shenandoah and the Akron in stress of weather it would surely seem to have been in order to keep the dirigible on the ground the Reich's note of the Anglo-French | until it was made capable of withstanding the strain of a storm.

The Nazi government feels that a the jobless. It will be an easier method can keep his speed—argument No. 1 they should attempt to do their think-Western European air convention than a dole, although it may be more for it—but he is not sure that he will ing is elsewhere, and beforehand.

Elihi Root, ninety years old, refused to be interviewed, which is to be reallied powers before committing Ger- gretted. No man in the world has a many to collective action for peace greater fund of information on which

Farmers expect permission to raise

The danger in an attack on a small country lies in the strategic advantage that may be foreseen by other countries in taking sides.

SHOOTING STARS.

BY PHILANDER JOHNSON.

Same Old Story. Here's a picture and a pose, Same old eyes and mouth and nose If it's girlish grace and ease, Same old ankles, calves and knees Leaves on trees look all alike. Yet a difference you'll strike If you study them with care. Each is like none other there.

Here's a killing or a theft, Same old features here are left. Little changes may amuse, Different names still make the news.

One Problem Disposed Of. "Are our problems disappearing?" "Some of them," answered Senator Sorghum. "At least we can study s Jud Tunkins says the munitions makers can't be held altogether to blame for war. Men were fighting years ago with nothing but sharp Reign Making.

A war cloud threatening on high O'er Africa is shown. In Europe and in Asia nigh A similar threat is known.

George Washington advised us well

In saying we should try

Farmer Corntossel.

To hoist the patriot's umbrell And let the clouds roll by. Rig Figures. "What is your boy Josh doing at present?" asked the neighbor. "He's studyin' astronomy," answered

"Earning anything?" "No. He's so busy with light years that two bits don't mean a thing to him."

Sense of Humor. Incipient in your struggling mind, Don't hesitate! Dismiss it quick And turn to your arithmetic. A poet sought in days gone by To shoot the Follies as they fly, But now where dignity should be Some things ridiculous you'll see. With care you must restrain your chaff, It might be impolite to laugh.

external world and becomes less and 'What I don't like about hard

THIS AND THAT

BY CHARLES E. TRACEWELL.

Severe Winter weather, with its snow and ice, worries many a city dweller.

Yet even amid his growls he feels slightly ashamed of himself.

Would Daniel Boone have com-What would Davy Crockett have

It is reasonable to believe that these great old pioneers, and hundreds like them, laughed in the face of the gale. mostly because there was no helping it. There is one thing the modern urban dweller many think, to solace himself. and that is that with all their hardships the pioneers knew nothing of shell of a car, are just so much flesh, asphalt and concrete streets with ice bone and blood before them. on them.

The slipping and sliding they may have done was over small hills and depressions in the ground. If they wanted smoothness, they went out over the ice, and got it. Ice on sidewalks and streets, especially under modern traffic conditions, is a condition pioneers did not have They faced so much that we must be glad they did not have to encounter

No wide, smooth streets for snow and ice to lie on for weeks at a time. No automobiles!

be ended with a bare bodkin, or They had buffalo, of course, but also they had their trusty rifles to offset brute strength of the bison. Today one cannot use a rifle on an automobile, although it is a very dangerous thing, in many instances, much more so than a herd of bison.

Every age has its dangers. America gave up the roaming bear and got the hit-and-run driver. Recently, reading in some papers of the great Audubon, we came to an account of a bear chase at night. The bears had gotten into a comfield and were making merry there filling their furry stomachs with fresh

The owner of the land decided he was losing too much maize. Promptly he harried out his slaves and they rustled up his friends and the entire party went to the cornfield with torches flaring. In an hour or so they had disnatcted the animals, but, according to Audubon, had done more damage to the corn in an hour than a whole extremely violent air, which again forest of bears would have done in the > Dangers of icy city streets are very well realized by automobilists, as a but if we may judge from the thoughtless actions of pedestrians the latter often disregard them. There is nothing more common than to see men and women afoot walk directly out over an icy street to a the vehicle has started, when they could street car without seeming to give a as easily have gone across before. single thought to the fact that passing their path.

car drivers that you never can tell purely personal one, a problem which what another motorist is going to do. How much more likely this is to be have not conceived the idea of the long as he is going directly forward and but then it may be too late. Where not have to slow down or swerve Even then they will be taking an

Then he may skid.

in a curious partnership.

Wednesday night.

strange habit.

both fields before the Medical So-

Notable examples cited from the records of St. Elizabeth's Hospital were those of insane patients who,

over periods of years, have swallowed mouths and which have accumulated for months and years in the stomach.

One of these cases was that of the spent much of her time in the sewing room. For about 15 years she swallowed needles-literally hundreds from time to time showed these needles in a great mass, which, over endurance, or they were completely oxidized and eliminated as rust. There wallowed hundreds of articles-were eliminated, as in the case of the pin-eater, but the larger ones renained in the intestinal tract, forming the strangest junk-heap in history. It finally became so large that

There are many other less striking cases on the hospital records in spite of the precautions taken to keep such material away from the swallowers.

These instances were reported by Dr.

Alexander Simon of the St Edga-beth's staff. They are usually associated with some form of dementia pre-cox, a psychosis in which the patient tends to drift back to the behavior evels of early childhood. Dr. William

A. White, superintendent of the hospital and world famous psychiatrist.

presented a tentative explanation of he phenomenon based on this association and on the well-known swallowing of hard objects—stones, safety

The human being comes into the world, Dr. White explained, with a yearning for security. For the infant this comes from the intimate association with the mother. She is its ever present and omnipotent protector. Closely associated with the mother is the act of nursing and, in consequence, the full stomach. Hence neural association is built up which remains subconsciously through the pins, pennies, etc.—by infants.

chosis in which the patient

jack-knives, spoons, iron-

X-ray photographs taken bjects they could get into their

First duty of the modern urban pedestrian in an inclement Winter things that might happen to him.

is to try to foresee all the harmful

Granted that this is a large task, surely it is worth all the care it takes, because there are two sides to the traffic question of course, just as there are two sides to most questions.

Crossing streets, either with or without traffic lights, is not all there

A prior consideration must be

state of mind, both of pedestrians

A good frame of mind for automo bilists is that of real concern for those human beings who, deprived of the

The motorist who keeps this fact plainly in mind as he drives along will not be anywhere near so liable to run down a pedestrian, no matter

the man braced behind the wheel

* * * *

the instability of the human body, and its utter inability to dispute the right of way with a machine made

The modern pedestrian must keep

How much larger than a dagger is

And when there is a greased slide,

as it were, all ready to precipitate the thing just a little harder than usual, and especially at a tangent no one could anticipate, how foolish not to try to be prepared for just such

* * * *

So much for the theory of the

The theory is trite, no doubt, but

Yet more persons than not utterly fail to look where they are going,

in the streets, and particularly do not look what is coming.

They trust too much to the hope

This hope is so large, with some of them, that they honestly do not think any one is going to be so Many persons evidently would rather trust to fate in this matter than go to the little extra trouble of Evidently many persons would over than miss their street car. We have noticed this thousands of times.

People of uncertain ages will run squarely in front of a bus, just after

Why they do it at the time they do each must solve for himself. They awful chance, especially when streets are slippery with snow and ice.

its application is very much to the a modern automobile, and especially in mind Hamlet's idea that life can dagger, very easily and quickly.

how much heavier it is!

an emergency!

point in the daily life.

look around them.

thing

A good prior state of mind, on the

is to safety in traffic and motorists.

may exhibit.

of steel and glass.

BY SARAH G. BOWERMAN.

THE LIBRARY TABLE

THE HEROIC YEARS. Fourteen

Years of the Republic. 1801-1815.

Harrison Smith & Robert Haas.

By Fletcher Pratt. New York:

In February, 1801, the House of Representatives balloted for President, at first without result, but finally elected Jefferson. Fletcher Pratt, whose first book this is and who, we gather, favors the free style of history not too closely bound documents, reports a conversation be- were imported Royal Minstrel and tween Mr. Bayard of Delaware, Federalist leader of the House, and Mr. Hamilton, as follows: (Mr. Bayard) What do you think? Shall we approach Burr and offer him continued support in exchange for backing our measures? If we hold him stoutly out there are enough Democrats who the world. will eventually join us to put him in." (Mr. Hamilton) "In Heaven's name, no! Jefferson has principles, even if wrong-headed ones, and pretensions to character. Burr has neither charwhose fault it is, as he who harbors acter nor principles, a mere conspirator. I know the rat-he would any of the other states of mind which betray you and the country as he is now betraying Jefferson by refusing to withdraw. Jefferson at all costs." Mr. Pratt's far from sedate historical style is further illustrated by his part of the walker, is realization of comments on the retiring President John Adams, in the chapter entitled, "Death of an Iceberg." He says: John Adams was dead. By a pardonable oversight they neglected to inter the corpse for another quarter of a century, and for two and a half months a bad-tempered old gentleman remained in the half-finished, that it rocks gently in the wind and imitation renaissance Capitol, signing papers 'John Adams' with such viciousness that the pen was sometimes driven through the parchment. But every one knew that the stiff little figure was only the ghost of a bygone era." The period covered by Mr. Pratt begins with the elec-

> * * * * WOMEN WORKERS THROUGH et?-S. C. THE DEPRESSION. A Study of White-Collar Employment Made Ph. D. New York: The Macmillan

battle of New Orleans.

Relief work during the depression, until the invention of an American here and abroad, seems to have been concentrated on the manual worker. The white collar worker, whose right to live is equally important, has too granted to teachers by the Carnegie often been supposed to be able to crude as to slide an automobile into get along, through assumed past savings or the aid of relatives. Often pensions have been granted to teachhis need for work, for his mental ers in 41 different States, six Canahealth, has been as great as his need dian provinces and Newfoundland by for money. In this study of more than a thousand women in 90 dif- vancement of Teaching. erent occupations, Dr. Pruette and rather take a chance on being run Dr. Iva Lowther Peters, director of research, have asked and tried to answer from their investigations several crucial questions. What life preserver does the self-supporting woman find most effective in a depression? Is it college education, or special training, or both? Is it long automobiles might skid directly into is something of a mystery, unless service and loyalty in an old job we realize that they have never or adaptability in a new one? Is It is a well-known saying among thought of the traffic problem as a youth more valuable than long service? Is one's own business one affoat longer, investments or savthan a salaried position? Which keep duced in New York City?-L. H. true when streets are covered with ice necessity for prior thought in the ings accounts? The answers to these were first used. In 1885 cable cars were similar to that of an airplane? and snow! Even the most careful matter. They wait until they are questions are important not only to added and in 1893 underground cur-Mussolini may make a war in Ethi driver cannot be sure that his car will on the curb, or even in the middle the adults who have been struggling rent was introduced. In 1900 the first

A. The modern glider is a soaring with the present depression but also contract was awarded for a subway. to all the young people who are coming forward each year, hoping to find a place in the scheme of things. From the individual stories in this book land?-B. L. conclusions of general significance

ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN.

A reader can get the answer to question of fact by writing Washington Star Information Bureau, Frederic J. Haskin, director, Washington, D. C. Please inclose stamp for reply.

Q. How did Singing Wood, the race horse, get his name?—C. R. A. Singing Wood's name is derived from the fact that his sire and dam

Q. Where is the noisiest street corner in the world?-B. C. A. Dr. E. E. Free says that Thirtyfourth street and Eighth avenue. New York City, is the noisiest corner in

Q. Did some American citizens vote in the Saar plebiscite?—S. A.
A. There were about 387 American citizens who went to Germany to vote in the Saar plebiscite. In all, 539,541 persons who were residents of the territory on June 28, 1919, when the Saar first went out of German custody, were entitled to vote regardless sex, race or present nationality. Of these, 528,005 voted,

Q. In what year was John D. Rockefeller born?-F. J. A. He was born on July 8, 1839.

Q. How much does the rocking stone of Tandil weigh?-N. S. A. This stone in Argentina weighs over 700 tons, and is so nicely poised can be made to crack a walnut.

Q. How did fox hunting become such a popular sport in England? started in 1920 such a patrol as a con--T. W. A. It originated in a very real need to reduce the number of foxes, since for their extermination. Q. Who invented the railroad tick-

A. Thomas Edmondson of Lancasby the American Woman's Asso- tion master and booking clerk on the is done by contract with commercial ciation. Edited by Lorine Pruette, Newcastle and Carlisle Railway. He plane companies, since the Forest also invented a ticket case which re- Service does not own planes used. mained in use without improvement

Q. How many pensions have been

Foundation?-F. T. M. the Carnegie Foundation for the Ad-

Q. What is the word that means the condition of having unusually large ears?-B. R. G. A. The word is macrotia.

Q. What is the American Veterans' Association?-L. V. B. A. It is a newly-organized corporation of about 1,000 veterans who are against the payment of the soldiers'

Q. When was rapid transit intro- the floor below Statuary Hall

College established at Sandhurst, Eng- greatly simplified, all parts being

Q. What is the derivation of the word sarcophagus?-R. S. J. A. It is from a Greek word which means flesh eater. The name originated in the alleged property of a certain limestone of consuming the whole body, except the teeth, within 40 days. Q. Who was the leader of the German Flying Circus after Richthofen was shot down?-C. R. W.

A. Herman Goering, Hitler's air minister, was its flight commander. Q. Is the Suez Canal controlled by the British government?-A. E. A. Although the British government holds seven-sixteenths of the shares, the Suez Canal Co. is, as a matter of fact, predominantly French for purposes of administration. On the board of management there are 1 Dutch, 10 British and 21 French mony. Of the 10 British directors, 3 represent the British government in respect to their large holding of shares and 7 represent the shipping and commercial interests of Great Britain, which now supplies about 57 per cent of the total traffic through the canal.

Q. How many Japanese are there in California?-R. M. A. In 1930 the number of Japanese in California was 97,456.

Q. Does the Forest Service have an air patrol to detect forest fires?-J. L. M.

A. The Forest Service says that there is no continuous air patrol operating at the present time. There was tinuous service, but it was found that it would not pay. The airplanes could not compete successfully with the sevthey preved upon chickens and other eral lookout stations on mountain tion of Jefferson and closes with the small animals. Bounties were paid tops maintained by the Forest Service. Now planes are used to observe large fires especially and in transporting men from place to place, in both cases of which days or even weeks are saved, only a few hours being reter, England, in 1836. He was a sta- quired to cover the space. The work

> Q. How many stripes do zebras have as a rule?-K. F. A. Animal experts have found that ordinary zebras have but from ninety to ninety-nine discernible stripes from nose to tail tip. An African A. All told, 2,201 allowances and zebra born in Fleishhacker Zoo. San Francisco, recently has been found to have one hundred stripes. Q. In what magazine did "Rain" appear as a story under some other title?-K. L.

A. The story from which the play was made was called "Miss Thompson," by Somerset Maughan, and came out in the Smart set. Q. Who are the two other figures with Susan B. Anthony in the statuary group in the Capitol?-A. W. H. A. The two other are Elizabeth Cady Stanton and Lucretia Mott. The statuary group-"Three Pioneer Women in Suffrage"-is in a crypt on

Q Is the construction of a glider an extremely light airplane without Q. When was the Royal Military an engine, while the construction is made as light as consistent with A. The school was founded at Great strength and the lifting surface so Marlow in 1802 and removed to Sand- designed and set as to give high lift at low speeds.

Johan Zimri, son of a Hungarian Dictatorship in Louisiana Debated as Federal Problem have turned the eyes of the country and his "share-the-wealth" plans.

out of the sails of Dr. Townsend, when York Herald Tribune, "it would be hard not to feel that of the two the good doctor is the more humanitarian. of his people so vast that his testi-Ways and Means was on an equally generous scale. Our Huey is a materialist. He is thinking of cash in the voters' pockets as translated into votes for Huey. The good doctor, on the other hand, is thinking of money to be spent so as to bring peace, prosperity and plenty to every one." The Herald Tribune concludes that "so open-handed are the spenders that

The Macon (Ga.) Telegraph declares the "share-the-wealth" plan is "absurd," pointing out that about 87 per cent of the entire national income goes into wages, and the remaining 13 per cent goes to the rent of capital. The Telegraph argues: "It is high time to explode some of these myths to the effect that 2 per cent of the people own 80 per cent of the wealth and that things would be a great deal better if this wealth were redistributed. Time and again it has been pointed out that if we took from every man in this country all income over $10,000 a year and distributed it among those who toil it would only

"He makes no secret of his desire to be President," declares the Providence Journal, "and there is no doubt that he has a following beyond the borders of his home State of Louisiana." The Davenport (Iowa) Times concludes that "his program will not carry a popular appeal when there is associated with it the peril to the liberty and freedom which the Nation Viewing the Long ambitions as a factor in national affairs, the Birmingham (Ala.) Age-Herald argues: "Regardless of all other considerations, it remains true that the Democratic landslide of 1932 came as a result of the promise of 'action,' which was taken to be the same thing as a promise of a return to prosperity. In case the expectations of foot-loose the ancient Egyptians and Sumerians its complexities and its curious ven-

Appeals of the anti-Long forces in | time by the words of a leader whose Louisana for Federal intervention promises extend far beyond those of Mr Roosevelt With such consideraupon the political situation in that tions in mind, it is no wonder that State and aroused national interest the balanced Democrats have already in the methods of Senator Huey Long | come to the conclusion that it is now incumbent upon them to do every-"Even if the redoubtable Huey had thing possible to stop the mad rush not taken a large part of the wind of the Louisiana Kingfish. It is inconceivable that he could ever become President. But-under conditions favorable to him-it is not unthinkable that he might open the way for a Republican opponent of Mr. Roose-

> Referring to the attack upon a newspaper photographer by a Long follower, the Kansas City Times re-"There you have the temper of the true dictator." The Tulsa (Okla.) World calls the conditions 'absurd' under the Senator's control. and the St. Joseph (Mo.) News-Press describes his Legislature as "incrediole." Lack of freedom in Louisiana is emphasized by the Okalomha News, and the Charleston (S. C.) Evening Post predicts that the "people of the State will get rid of him," while the Brooklyn Times-Union is convinced that "he will be shorn of his power."
> "It is a State problem," say the Cleveland News and the Huntington (W. Va.) Herald-Dispatch, but the Helena (Mont.) Independent advises: "This is a situation that vitally concerns every other State. The National Government should recognize the emergency and take appropriate action-before it is too late.

Russia Rebukes Japan. From the Rock Island Argus.

There are some who think that Russia and Japan will inevitably go to war. Premier Molotoff of Russia has rejected the suggestion made in the Japanese Diet that the Soviet Union should demilitarize the Manchurian border. The premier charges the Japanese with violating the treaty of Portsmouth by their presence Manchuria. Japan, he affirmed, has forgotten the treaty requirement that both Russia and Japan evacuate Manchuria, whereas Russia has lived up to the treaty.

It appears that Outer Mongolia is an independent people's republic, according to the Soviet government. It has close economic and political relations with the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, but is not a part of the U. S. S. R. It is claimed that not one Soviet soldier is in Outer Mongolia. No prophecy that the Soviet Union would consider a Japanese invasion of Outer Mongolia as a cause of war is available.

Jeers greeted mention of Japan's activities in Manchuria when the Soviet Congress convened. The newspaper Pravda said: "History is working in our favor, and know ye, Mister Imperialist, that if you impose war on us, we will fight not on our territory, army on the basis of revelations of its strength, this newspaper adds the statement: "Woe to any who attack lay hostile outbreaks.

Drink and Traffic.

very definite feeling of something in an interval of 10 years, increased the stomach, even though it be a J. B. Lippincott Co. and decreased in size, as the woman painful feeling. Hence the swallow-In a wild and thrilling tale of in-ternational politics, Laurence Meynell tells of another adventure of that kept constantly on her unappetizing ing of needles and jack-knives. diet. Apparently the body itself eliminated the needles, keeping the accumulation within the limits of Another curious brain-stomach

BY THOMAS R. HENRY.

ciety of the District of Columbia lows anything that comes to hand.

was no surgery and when the needle lobe of the brain. Cases were deeater finally died it was from causes scribed by Dr. J. W. Watts of the University of Pennsylvania. frontal lobe is the part of the Another patient over about 10 years cerebral cortex, or top layer of the brain, which lies behind the forehead. It used to be considered the seat of tined forks, two fairly large cruciintelligence—hence the term "highfixes, coins of every description, pins and numerous strips of wire. The brow." Evidence for this contention has become quite tenuous in recent years, but it has been shown concluhospital staff cannot understand how any man could have gotten such sively that a slender strip of the posterior part of this lobe contains, very articles down his throat. Doubtless many of the objects he swallowed specifically, the centers for hand, fin-

in the sense that she was present to the new-born infant. But the patient can get a suggestion of the old sensation of security by the act of swallowing, especially if it produces the ger and other movements. Now, Dr. Watts' surgical experiments with monkeys show, directly in front of this motor strip lies an area which is closely associated with the gastroit was necessary to operate and 610 intestinal tract and apparently with centers that both activate and inhibit the action of peristalsis, the involuntary contractile wave-like movement of the stomach and alimentary canal which is responsible for the movemen > of food through the body. Lesions in some parts of the frontal lobe apparently serve to activate this peristalsis-or eliminate the inhibition which would amount to about the same thing-with the result that it proceeds much faster than is normal Food is hurried through the body without giving the digestive processes sufficient time. The result is that there is little nourishment and the victim needs vastly more food-two or three times as much as would normally be called for-in order to exist The stomach continually is calling for more—hence this strange pathological hunger. And despite a two-fold or three-fold increase in the diet-two or three pounds of beef and five or six no increase in weight.

Plenty of Cards. Prom the New Haven Journal-Courier There were enough playing cards The nursing period ends and, as manufactured last year to girdle the the child grows up, the mother is globe if placed end to end. Perhaps withdrawn more and more into the that explains the fervor for new deals.

STARS, MEN AND ATOMS plumber, becomes a miracle worker and through some mysterious power Notebook of Science Progress in Field, Laboratory and Study.

performs wonderful cures. The peasants all over Danubia idolize nim. but priests and politicians fear him as a menace. He takes no pay for his services and with the physical healing he also imparts a new sense of values. He believes that poverty Brain and stomach are associated | something of the infinite comfort and should be abolished and thus incurs security of life's earliest days through the hostility of those rich people who Some of their strange interrelations | the sensation of a full stomach. That accept the poor as a necessary, even were described in a symposium par- may be the reason the small boy or desirable, part of society. Eventually ticipated in by medical specialists in girl, just through with the nursing his influence is felt throughout Euperiod and beginning to crawl, swalcomes the victim of a mob. His This practise is outgrown as it is associated with social disapproval and side him: "Must truth always be limit to an individual fortune of common sense, with the emergence baptized in blood?" from early childhood. Then someone often repeated in history, even minimum of $15,000," says the New thing goes wrong with the brain. It before Socrates, before Christ, before no longer is able to cope with the Joan of Arc, and many times since problems of life on an adult level. The innovator is likely to be the The harassed individual goes back to the infallible childhood way of dealhumanity. This story, full of alleneedle eater. She was a woman who ling with them-appeal to the omnipotent mother. She is no longer there.

DESTINY'S MAN. By J. F. Tweed.

New York: Farrar & Rinehart.

* * * * ODDS ON BLUEFEATHER. By Laurence W. Meynell. Philadelphia:

woman. When they finally escape from the house on the island, they are pursued by five armed desperadoes. Paul must be in London in three days or the pact will fail. Of course he gets there. More than the usual amount of suspense marks this story of mystery and adventure and, a pleasant variation from type, it isn't a murder story.

Ocean. By Martin D. Stevers and Capt. Jonas Pendlebury. New York: Minton, Balch & Co. The authors of this book feel that most romantic stories of the sea, even though authentic, are fuller of romance than of fact. They are likely to assume much more knowledge of the sea and its navigation than the average reader possesses. On the other hand, the books about the sea which are filled with technical explanations are often lacking in the uman experiences of the men who master the sea or are defeated by it. the evolution of ships and their navi-gation is followed, from the ships of Pendlebury's experience has been with martyr, however much he may love In fact, his heart is so big and his gorical content, by the author of "Gabriel Over the White House," is mony before the House Committee on sincere in theme and simple and powerful in style.

young man George Stanhope phenomenon is the morbid hunger Berkley, friend of the chief of Scotasosciated with tumors of the frontal land Yard, who in some unaccountable way has become the only hope of the world for peace. The nations of the world, through their representatives, are about to sign a great peace pact, when Paul Verney, chief peacemaker, who is trusted by all nations (a remarkable man) disappears. Berkley goes in search of him and finally finds him, only to realize that difficulties have just begun. The two men are held captive on a small island by a vicious madman whose symbol is a blue feather and v-hose aide is a beautiful and dangerous

SEA LANES. Man's Conquest of the friend, Groner, cries, as he falls be- he advocated a maximum potential

The situation is $3,000,000, together with a mandatory

it becomes a joke." amount to a few hundred dollars has prized so highly."

voters are not realized by 1936 it is not too much to hint that they might find themselves fascinated at that Capt. Pendlebury, who has for years been in command of world and West Indian cruises, have attempted to the Railroads," and for her sea power when the Armada of Philip II boldly entered the English Channel; the beginning of bine a narrative of man's centuries of water transportation, the clipper struggle to master the sea with suffi- ships-"sail's last stand," and the vic- us!" While the relations between the cient explanation of the devices and tory of steam-"exit America." The two countries are strained, financial volume abounds in episodes of sea life considerations, it is thought, will deplished it. No stereotyped historical and the routine on a big ocean-going method is followed, but in the course vessel of the present time. The modof the rather disconnected narrative ern liner receives the major share of fine figure and three not yet decided.

From the Philadelphia Evening Bulletin.

There is perhaps no way to stop this thoroughly improper proceeding. The jurors are doubtless at liberty to go

There is perhaps no way to stop this fine power of his eloquent conviction and security remains. The individual may try to suppress it, but it comes to the surface enjoy intercourse with superior minds; and these invaluable means of complexities and its curious venturings into the harbors of all lands. It is chiefly through books that we enjoy intercourse with superior minds; and these invaluable means of complexities and its curious venturings into the harbors of all lands. A sax of the suppress it, but it comes to the surface in enjoy intercourse without bein' suspected of unstory without b