HOOVER PROPOSED TAXES OPPOSED RUSSIAN DICTATOR

Need for One Man to Put Appointment of City Man-Country on Feet Cited in '19.

By the Associated Press. Confidential documents in the State Department files, made public yesterday disclosed that in 1919 Herbert Hoover proposed to President Wilson that a one-man "economic dictatorship" be set up to save Russia.

The proposal was made in a letter from Hoover, then director general of relief on the Supreme Economic Council, in Paris, to President Wilson. dated June 21, 1919.

State Department officials said they had no knowledge of its previous publication and included it in a volume of diplomatic correspondence concerning American relations with Russia in ager Is Suggested During Discussion.

Opposition to any additional taxes for the District was voted unanimously last night by the Brightwood Citizens' Association, meeting at the Summer home of President Charles W. Ray in Sandy Spring. During a general discussion of the District tax situation, it was suggested that appointment of a city manager might solve present problems and prevent their recurrence. It was suggested by Jesse C. Suter that the District should be privileged to procure temporary advances from the Federal Treasury, pending collection of necessary local revenues. Ray proposed that a vote for District residents would provide the real solution of the Capital's fiscal problems. The proposed income tax, with its numerous suggested exemptions for members of Congress, their secretaries. Federal employes and others, and a gross business profit tax also were disapproved. The association adopted a resolution indorsing the action of the Joint Civic Committee on Traffic of the District. survey and requesting the Commissioners, the National Park and Planning Commission and Congress to

Out of that conference came the appointment of a subcommittee composed of nine representatives, whose daily duty is and shall be to carefully watch and safeguard the interest of Government employes on Capitol Hill.

"I was chosen as a member of that subcommittee and have kept my hand on the pulse of Congress ever since. Notwithstanding this fact, there is still a clamor among some selfish temporary employes to make a loud protest by way of mass meetings rather than to proceed along orderly lines as outlined by President William Green and the international presidents. "My experience covering a period of over 15 years on the Hill strongly convinces me that these mass meetings serve no useful purpose and very frequently, because of wild statements made from the platform, create real danger to the cause which we représent. Already I have been told by the director of legislative work of the A. F. of L. that if such action continues there will be real danger of inciting some Congressman to introduce drastic economy legislation.

"I am writing you at this time because of so many misrepresentations being made by those who would selfishly destroy the general welfare of Government servants in order to maintain themselves in a smug position. I shall carry on in the manner outlined above and hope to be able to report at our forthcoming convention a most favorable situation."

The probability is, Dr. Armstrong said, that hundreds have it and that vast numbers have poliomyelitis and even encephalitis at some time, but never become sick enough to call a doctor. Only when the system is in just the right condition is the infection likely to become serious.

In the actual cases reported, Dr. Armstrong said, the first evidences of the disease were superficially indistinguishable from a bad cold, usually accompanied by headache. It is an experience common to nearly everybody every year or so. If it clears up in a day or so, no further attention is paid to it. The only permanent effect is that the antibodies are formed in the blood.

There is also evidence, Dr. Armstrong said, that there may be four or five strains of the virus. It was possible to find it in almost alyl human tissues. Very likely, Dr. Armstrong said, the disease may be wrongly diagnosed by attending physicians as encephalitis or poliomyelitis, or even spinal meningitis. So far as known there are no bad central nervous system infective dis-

Ticks Cause Paralysis.

A peculiar paralysis caused by the bite of a wood tick and most often affecting children was described by Dr. Edwin J. Barnett of Spokane, Wash.

"The child," he said, "awakens in the morning feeling entirely well. However, as soon as he attempts to stand alone he collapses. Within a few hours, walking, and even standing with support, become impossible, because of the progressive and increasing muscular weakness. It is generally difficult for the child to fed itself. After a few hours self-feeding becomes impossible."

The treatment, he said, is speedy removal of the tick. Unless it is found and removed quickly the paralycontrol breathing are affected and the child dies. Prompt removal is followed by complete recovery in about 48 hours. Surgery now gives good relief for that form of facial neuralgia known as major trigeminal neuralgia, Dr. Francis C. Grant of Philadelphia reported. No one ever has found, Dr. Grant said, an adequate cause for the dreadful pain of this disease which "appears as abruptly as a flash of lightning, lasts for one or more seconds, and ceases as abruptly as it appears.

A "trigger zone" frequently exists. Dr. Grant said. This is a small area lying in the distribution of one of the three branches of the fifth cranial nerve, irritation of which causes pain to flash through the entire side of the face. and their position changed often. Only surgery gives any promise of saving lives in gas bacillus infection which spreads like lightning and kills never know it-just as it is likely nearly half its victims, Drs. E. P. Colman and D. A. Bennett of Canton, Ill., reported. The infection occurs most frequently in severe wounds. Serums are of little use because more than one organism is responsible for the disease. Either complete amputation or severe slashing away of the infected tissue is required to save life.

Rabbit Serum Speedier.

Pneumonia serum made from rab bits is faster, easier and cheaper to produce than that made by immunizing horses, it was reported by Dr. Frank L. Horsfall, jr., and his associates of the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research. During the year they have treated 25 patients with rabbit serum.

They warned, however, that the drug does not fundamentally and permanently alter a mental disorder and that persons who are highly anxious, nervous and already stimulated tolerate it poorly.

A new test for diagnosis of certain types of headache was announced by Dr. Temple Fay of Philadelphia. He has devised a means of measuring the pressure of the cerebrospinal fluid and had found high and low points at which headaches occur, with a "zone of comfort" between them. FIGHT MARIJUANA

Ask Laws to Bar Drug's Distribution-Attack U. S. Rum Sale.

Reiterating several of the resolutios adopted by the World Women's Christian Temperance Union at its recent convention here, the Executive Committee of the national organization, meeting in post-convention sessions at the Washington Hotel yesterday, assailed the Government for establishment of rum distilleries in the Virgin Islands and asked that State and Federal legislation be enacted to curb the sale of marijuana. The Government was attacked for establishing the island distilleries after "finding itself unable to secure the investment of private capital" and for advertising "Government House" brand of rum in the United States with the slogan, "You'll certainly want to try it." The organization pledged itself to attempt to bring information regarding the nature and affects of marijuana "to the attention of the public school teachers and to all social agencies. The use of it as a drug is on the increase in the United States, with its appalling consequences and a corresponding increase in sex crimes," the resolution read. A resolution also was adopted regarding "the gambling spirit (which) is making such tremendous headway in our country with the approval of most motion picture theaters, of many civic and philanthropic organizations and with the use of chances, raffles and prizes even by some churches."

Liquor advertising was dealt with in a resolution which deplored "the super sales-promotion of beer and wine as 'the temperance drink of the Nation.' The organization pledged itself to "s continued, intensive campaign against education for moderation and the use of beverages of low alcoholic content.' The concluding resolution read:

"Whereas, the use of alcoholic beverages is one of the largest contributing causes to the spreading of syphilis and other social diseases, and also a contributing cause to the increasing number of deaths from tuberculosis, we hereby call upon the United States and State Departments $5. of Public Health to include in their education program as a method of prevention in stamping out both biseases a warning against even a moderate use of alcohol."

Mrs. Ida B. Wise Smith, president of the national organization, presided at the sessions as preliminary plans were laid for the national convention to be held in San Francisco in July or August, 1938. The National Executive Committee met yesterday and Thursday.
