More Rules For Movie Aspirants

Specifications for Film Beauties Set by Artists.

BY HARRY MACARTHUR.
FRANK LA PALCE, the fellow who peddles Warner Bros. pictures to the press, seems determined to send every attractive girl in town to Hollywood. He's been flooding this office with all sorts of stories as to how it's easy to brief into the movies.

First he sent down a yarn that would have been somewhere about this page yesterday only somebody poured cold water all over the space and it shrunk terribly. It was a yarn proclaiming it is easy to break into the movies if you are ravishingly beautiful, devastatingly gorgeous and breath-takingly graceful as you dance by the table at the Coconut Grove, where Director Raoul Walsh and six world-famous artists are holding a story conference.

That is how Sandra Storme, who decorates "Artists and Models," coming to the Earle Friday, did it. Now Frank sends down an item starting out: "Want to be a movie beauty? Seems it's a cinch. All you have to do is fit the measurements by which Russell Patterson, Peter Arno, McClelland Barclay, Arthur William Brown, Rube Goldberg and John La Gatta (six count 'em, world-famous artists) selected the beauties for "Artists and Models."

The specifications are: Ankles, 8 1/2 to 9 1/2 inches; calf, 13 to 13 1/2 inches; knee, 15 to 15 1/2 inches; waist, 25 1/2 to 26 inches; hips, 35 to 35 1/2 inches, and bust, 33 to 33 1/2 inches. The artists all say they prefer models about 5 feet 6 1/2 inches tall, but they also say they will consider taller girls if they are beautiful. (So will we. Or shorter ones.)

All girls fitting the specifications are requested to register here before leaving for Hollywood. Especially if they are not leaving for Hollywood. The acrobatic dancer in vaudeville whose specialty is sitting on her head is maybe a slouch compared to Barbara Stanwyck. Story has just arrived announcing that Miss Stanwyck refused to wear a wig during the making of "Stella Dallas" because "she couldn't do anything with her hands, like running them through her hair."

Nextest trick of any week, that would be.

John Trent, whom you will see again at the Metropolitan come Friday in "The Great Gambini," boasts one of the most unusual contracts in Hollywood. Most players are not permitted to leave the ground during filming of a picture, but Trent can fly when and where he pleases. He is allowed to keep his commission in the Air Corps Reserve, to attend his battle practice training school every year and to keep his transport pilot's rating by making at least one mail and passenger flight a month.

Trent was a captain-pilot for T. W. A. when discovered by E. P. Schulberg.

Shooting From the Cuff: "The Late Christopher Bean" begins its four-day run tonight at the Cross-Roads Players' Theater at Bailey Cross Roads, Va. Annabella will not arrive at Twentieth Century-Fox this month, as was expected. . . . has another film to do in England before she can get away. . . . Eleanor Powell dances with a partner for the first time in "Broadway Melody of 1938," opening at the Palace Friday. . . . He's George Murphy. . . . Sid-Lust's Cameo Theater at Mount Rainier is being renovated and air conditioned. . . . Water Huston, Brian Aherne, Humphrey Bogart and Walter Connolly will appear in "Henry IV" when it's aired over Columbia next Monday night. . . . United Artists' release of "Trans-Atlantic Merry-Go-Round," starring Jack Benny, will open at the Rialto Sunday. . . . Came out at that point in the depression (remember?) when not so many people were going to the movies.

Cadets Earn Aviator's Rank.
A dozen aviation cadets of the Naval Reserve have been designated as naval aviators, the Navy Department announced today. They will be detached from the Naval Air Station at Pensacola, Fla., about August 23. The new aviators will be ordered to active duty with the aircraft squadrons of the United States fleet.

OIL RICHES GROW IN ILLINOIS AREA

Southern Section of State Convinced Industry Will Be Permanent.

By the Associated Press.
CENTRALIA, Ill., August 18.—In one torrid Summer the Southern Illinois oil development has advanced from a boom into a permanent industry.

Major wells in the 30-mile area around Clay City, Casne and Noble alone are pouring into pipelines at least 9,000 barrels a day, oil company officials estimated today.

Towns formerly consisting of an elevator and a general store, for the most part, now are painting up, modernizing and reaping the harvest. The prices of crops are forgotten.

Celebration Arranged.
Convinced they have a permanent thing, the "New Illinois Oil Field Civic Committee" will hold an official celebration at Olney Friday.

The event is heralded as celebrating the "advent of the new oil field in Richland, Clay, Wayne and Jasper Counties."

It was estimated that between 5,000,000 and 6,000,000 acres are under lease in Southern Illinois. While oil men admit there are going to be some fizzlers among the skyrocketers, enough pools have been opened to justify the laying of miles of pipelines.

While the main fields of development have been concentrated in about four counties, actual drilling tests are under way in an area fully 70 miles long and 60 miles wide, with a mad scrambling for leases through a territory at least 50 miles further south. Land values have increased tenfold in less than a year.

Nine Wells in Area.
There are nine wells in the area producing more than 1,000 barrels each a day. At Noble, seven miles east of Clay City, one oil company struck a heavy producer which brought the village to a fever heat. Within a few days the village had leased a park, a base ball field and even a portion of the cemetery for oil.

The boom has spread into almost every industry. Oil companies and seismograph crews have taken over office spaces in many communities, particularly Olney, Mattoon and Centralia.

MISSING WAR VETERAN FOUND AFTER 3 MONTHS

By the Associated Press.
GORDONSVILLE, Va., August 18.—Unable to account for the three months since his disappearance from home, Seldon Rhoades, 50, of Gordonsville, a veteran of the World War, was found near exhaustion yesterday in woods 2 miles from Gordonsville.

Mayor W. C. Stratton said Rhoades was seen near the town Monday, but disappeared again until hounds were brought from the State farm to pick up the trail.

When members of the large searching party came across Rhoades he spoke clearly for a few moments and then lapsed into mumbling. He was removed to the Veterans' Hospital at Roanoke.

Rhoades was wounded and gassed during the war. Mayor Stratton said. He had been missing since May 15 and told his rescuers he had lived on berries and raw corn. Acquaintances said he had lost about 85 or 90 pounds.

POTOMAC POLLUTION FUND LACK DECIED

Virginia Health Officer Disappointed by Mere Creation of Conservation Authority.

By the Associated Press.
RICHMOND, August 18.—Dr. I. C. Ruggin, State health commissioner, expressed disappointment yesterday that no Federal funds were provided in a Senate resolution approved by the House Rivers and Harbors Committee for the creation of a "Potomac Valley conservancy district" to handle pollution problems.

Dr. Ruggin, a member of the Virginia Potomac River Pollution Commission, said it had been hoped that funds up to $15,000,000 would be provided for the prevention and abatement of pollution.

The pending resolution merely authorizes the creation of the authority among the States of Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia and Pennsylvania and the District of Columbia.
