La Salle Apartments Property Sale Is Approved by Court

Bids of Noteholders' Committee Held Fair And Reasonable

Justice Oscar R. Lühring of District Court yesterday approved the sale of the La Salle Apartments property, Connecticut avenue and L street N.W., for $788,000 to a noteholders' committee as a result of a recent auction sale on the court-house steps.

A decree confirming the sale was signed by Justice Lühring, who observed that under all the circumstances the bids of the noteholders' committee of $566,000 for the south section leasehold and $220,000 for the north section leasehold were "fair, reasonable and adequate," and that there is no likelihood that upon resale a larger sum would be bid for both leaseholds together or for either separately.

The sale of the La Salle leasehold estates was made to Stanton C. Faelle, Walter B. Guy, Edmund D. Campbell, L. Russell Alden and Francis W. Hill, jr., representing the committee. Trustees for the north section of the La Salle Apartments are Stephen F. Colladay and Ralph D. Quinter, while those for the south leasehold are James A. Purcell and Mr. Quinter.

The south section has a heating plant, elevators and other facilities, as well as the lobby, but these are used by both sections of the apartment house. Henceforth the noteholders propose to operate the two sections as one complete enterprise. Justice Lühring was advised that the appraised value of $700,000 covers the leaseholds of north and south sections.

Longfellow Stamps Place on Sale

By the Associated Press.

PORTLAND, Me., Feb. 16.—One-cent stamps commemorating Henry Wadsworth Longfellow went on sale today in this city, where the poet was born, and Postmaster Helen C. Donahue estimated more than 150,000 "first day covers" would be sent to philatelists.

Among them was a special envelope, almost 2 feet long, addressed to President Roosevelt, the Nation's No. 1 collector. It contained a rare engraving of Longfellow in addition to full sheets of the stamps.

Twenty-five special clerks were employed at the post office to handle philatelists' mailings as well as window sales.

Mrs. Donahue said several thousand covers held up at Boston yesterday by the blizzard would be given first-day treatment even if they did not arrive in time for mailing today.

Students' Concert Scheduled Today At Eastern High

More Than 1,300 Pupils Expected; Season to Close on March 16

The last concert in the second series of students' concerts by the National Symphony Orchestra will be played today at 2:30 p.m. in Eastern High School. Francis Garcia, assistant conductor, will direct, and C. C. Cappel, manager of the orchestra, will provide living program notes.

More than 1,300 students from two high schools, three junior high schools and 14 elementary schools are expected to attend.

They will hear the program which has been presented by the National Symphony at four other of the city's high schools during the last 10 days. Illustrating the theme, "How the Symphony Grew," it is comprised of three excerpts from Handel's "Water Music" (allegro, air, bourree), three dances from Tchaikovsky's "Nutcracker Suite," Bach's "Suite No. 2 in B Minor," "Musette," from Gluck's "Armide"; introduction to the third act of Wagner's "Lohengrin," Haydn's "Toy Symphony," the second and third movements from Mozart's "G Minor Symphony" and the entrance of the comedians from Smetana's "The Bartered Bride."

The concert will end with the audience singing "Dixie" and "The Star Spangled Banner" with the orchestra. Dr. E. N. C. Barnes, head of the music department of the public schools, is conducting.

The final students' concert of the season will be given in Constitution Hall at 11 a.m., Saturday, March 16, with Hans Kindler conducting the National Symphony.
