

House Expected To Ignore D. C. Bills Tomorrow

All Nine on Calendar Are Classed as Controversial

By JAMES E. CHINN. Although House leaders arranged yesterday to set aside tomorrow for consideration of District legislation, there is little likelihood of any of the nine local bills on the calendar will be called up because of their controversial nature.

Chairman Randolph of the District Committee, on the other hand, for the week end, could not be reached for an explanation of his plans. But since the nine bills have been on the calendar for some time, there are indications he will not make any effort to have them considered.

Would Give Right of Way.

At the office of Majority Leader Rayburn it was said the right of way would be given District legislation if Representative Randolph desired to call up any of the nine bills. In recent weeks, however, House leaders requested Mr. Randolph not to bring up any local legislation that would likely lead to a prolonged debate.

Heading the list of the so-called "controversial" bills long ready for House action is one authorizing the Public Utilities Commission to reduce the number of taxicabs in operation in Washington. Next is a measure sponsored by Representative Schulte, Democrat, of Indiana which would open the local milk market to milk and cream produced in any section of the country. Introduced at the close of the milk investigation a year ago, this measure, according to Mr. Schulte, would end the "monopolistic" control of Washington's milk supply by organized producers in Maryland, Virginia and parts of West Virginia.

Other Bills on Calendar.

Other bills on the House calendar which could be considered follow:

- 1. Providing for reorganization of the municipal government in the interest of efficiency and economy.
2. Permitting minors 14 years of age or over to take part in professional concerts and theatrical productions.
3. Authorizing the Alcoholic Beverage Control Board to control the retail price of liquor.
4. Amend existing law regulating insanity proceedings.
5. Tighten existing law regulating the practice of optometry.
6. Regulating professional engineers.
7. Prohibiting the sale of convicted goods in the District.
8. A national bill to prevent shipment of prison-made commodities in interstate commerce already has passed the House and is awaiting Senate action. Chairman King of the Senate District Committee tends to seek an amendment to this measure to allow the municipal government to continue to use brick, automobile tags and traffic signs produced in the industrial rehabilitation shops at the District Reformatory at Lorton, Va.

De Valera's Neutrality Statement Issued Here

The Irish Legation here yesterday circulated a brief statement by Eamon de Valera, Chief of Government and Dublin Minister of Foreign Affairs, strongly reaffirming Eire's neutrality. It said: "In order to prevent misapprehension which may be created by recent press and wireless statements, I desire to repeat that the government has no intention of departing from the policy of neutrality adopted last September as representing the unanimous will of the Irish people. The government is resolved to maintain and defend the country's neutrality in all circumstances."

New Juvenile Court To Hold Open House

The Juvenile Court will signal completion of its new building at Fourth and E streets tomorrow with an open house. There will be no formal program, Judge Jay Bentley has announced. Judge Bentley and her staff will greet professional associates and personal friends during an informal reception from 2 to 4 p.m., and the general public will be admitted to inspect the building between these hours.

Actual moving from the old quarters at 472 Indiana avenue N.W. to the spacious, three-story, limestone-facaded new home is to begin Tuesday, and it is expected the shift will be completed by the end of the week.

Romney Denies Rules to Restrict Capitol Visitors

There will be no unusual restrictions on visitors to the Capitol Building, despite reports to the contrary, according to an announcement last night by Kenneth Romney, sergeant-at-arms of the House. Mr. Romney, who also is chairman of the Capitol Police Board, made the announcement to contradict a published report that visitors would be required in the future to furnish credentials before entering the building. He said tourists are being allowed to inspect the building as always.

The only change in the regulations, Mr. Romney said, requires that employees who enter the Capitol after it is closed to the public carry identification cards. Mr. Romney denied reports that additional safeguards had been taken at the Capitol as a result of the bomb explosion at the New York World's Fair. He likewise described as untrue stories that members of Congress might be required to carry identification cards in order to enter the Capitol after regular closing hours.

Second Death Laid To Hit-Run Driver's Ride Across City

Woman Dies of Hurts Received When Struck By Car June 22

The second death from a hit-and-run driver's multiple-accident ride across the city on June 22 was recorded yesterday, when Mrs. Edna Mitchell, 40, colored, died at her home in the 800 block of Twelfth street N.E. Richard S. Nestlerode, 26, of the 1200 block of Maryland avenue N.E., alleged operator of the automobile, already is charged with negligent homicide in the death of Joseph Nappo, 59, of 1250 Twelfth street N.W. Police said Mr. Nappo was hit at Ninth and M streets by the same car that injured Mrs. Mitchell. Coroner A. Magruder MacDonald said that evidence in the Mitchell case will be presented to the grand jury in addition to evidence in connection with the Nappo death.

Following an autopsy, Dr. MacDonald announced Mrs. Mitchell died from a pulmonary embolism, or blood clot, induced, in his opinion, by injuries received when she was struck while attempting to cross the street at N.E. Her death was the Capital's 37th traffic fatality of the year, as compared with a total of 45 on July 5 of last year.

Dr. MacDonald said last night he had issued a certificate of death by homicide and added he saw no reason for an inquest, inasmuch as all information available concerning circumstances of the accident was presented June 24, when a coroner's jury sat in the death of Mr. Nappo. Nestlerode's car allegedly struck several other automobiles before coming to a stop in a crash with a streetcar at Connecticut avenue and Q street N.W.

Mrs. Mitchell was treated at Casualty Hospital for a fractured leg and contusions for three days following the accident and then was released.

Parade and Concert Will Open Playground

A parade, speeches, and a band concert will feature the opening of a new playground located in the "Snow's Row" district, near Twenty-fourth and K streets N.W., at 5 p.m. tomorrow. Maj. Ernest W. Brown, superintendent of police, William A. Yutz, traffic director, and E. F. Harris, president of the Lincoln Civic Association, which was instrumental in obtaining the new playground, will be among the speakers. The Metropolitan Police Boys' Club Band and drum corps from the National Training School for Boys will furnish music. The "row" is known as one of the worst slum areas in Washington.

Two Are Drowned in Potomac; Searches Made for Bodies

James P. Pannill, 19, And a 'Mr. Young' Are River Victims

Lifeguards and volunteers were to renew their search this morning for the body of James P. Pannill, 19, of 245 Twelfth street N.E., department store salesman, who was drowned yesterday afternoon while swimming from a rowboat about a half mile off Colonial Beach, Va. Another searching party on the Potomac was to resume the hunt for the body of a man said to be a "Mr. Young," about 62 years old, of the 2500 block of K street N.W., who disappeared Friday night while on a fishing trip near Quantico, Va.

On Fraternity Party. Pannill and fellow members of the Phi Alpha Fraternity of Eastern High School were on a house party at Colonial Beach when the accident occurred. He and three other young people, including Miss Helen Cooles, 21, of 1626 Gales street N.E., rowed out in the boat about 3 p.m.

Pannill and another youth were diving from the boat in about 25 feet of water. Pannill apparently suffered a cramp. The others noticed that he was drifting away from the boat, but did not suspect he was in trouble until he sank and did not reappear immediately. Pannill's friends at first tried diving for him. Unable to locate the youth, they rowed in to get help. Life guards and volunteers searched for the body until dark by diving and using drag hooks. The search was to be continued today, it was said.

Court Ruling Sought by D. C. On 'Domicile'

70 Picked Income Tax Refund Claims Rejected; Suits Hoped

District officials are moving to get a court ruling on the meaning of "domicile" in the District income tax law, it was learned yesterday. Tax Assessor E. A. Dent said he has selected 70 refund claims from the approximately 4,000 protests filed and has notified the taxpayers that the refund has been denied. The selected cases cover most of the troublesome phases of the domicile question, he indicated, although the amount involved is only $2,627.

The Court of Appeals has already ruled on the meaning of "domicile" in a case involving the now extinct intangible personal property tax. The court held that residence in the District was not "domicile" if legal residence was maintained elsewhere. The District has claimed under the income tax residence is "domicile." Mr. Dent hopes enough persons out of the 70 will appeal the issue to get court clarification of the word as it relates to the income levy.

The assessor said the remainder of the protests would be held in abeyance pending some action on the test cases.

Appeal to the Board of Tax Appeals is the next step in the procedure and Jo V. Morgan, sole member of the board, said that only one protest has as yet been placed before him. It was pointed out that the others have 90 days in which to indicate their intent to appeal. Meanwhile Mr. Dent is busy preparing the real estate bills for the present fiscal year, the first half of which will be paid in September. He said 160,000 bills are being prepared on real estate valued at $1,235,000,000. Last year the value was $1,211,000,000, the increase being due to improvements on the property rather than to any rise in actual value of the land, he indicated.

The assessor pointed out that property owners can have their bills mailed to them if they send in their address and lot number, but that otherwise the bills would have to be called for. The last installment of the bills is due next March.

Hearing Set Tomorrow On Elgen Nomination

A special subcommittee of the Senate District Committee will begin public hearings tomorrow at 2 p.m. on the nomination of Riley E. Elgen to serve another three-year term on the Public Utilities Commission.

The subcommittee, appointed by Chairman King of the District Committee, is composed of Senators McCarran, Democrat, of Nevada, and Capper, Republican, of Kansas. It was said at the office of Senator King all persons interested in the nomination to testify before the subcommittee. Thus far only one person has asked for time. His name was announced as John Savage.

Mr. Elgen rounded out his last term as a member of the commission June 30. He had served as chairman of the commission since his first appointment.

D. C. Heads Approve Bill For P.W.A. Building Fund

The Commissioners have notified the Budget Bureau of their approval of a bill permitting the District to make use of $450,000 of P. W. A. funds in providing a new building for the Recorder of Deeds, it was learned yesterday. The municipality has borrowed all it could from P. W. A. under present law, and the bill to extend this amount for the new building has been approved by both Houses of Congress. The new edifice would be constructed on the site of the old Police Court.

NEW LOW-RENT HOUSING PROJECT—As conceived by the architect of the Alley Dwelling Authority, the Frederick Douglass dwellings, to be built on Alabama avenue and Twenty-first street S.E., contain some novel features for low-rent housing. In all, 313 units will be provided for colored families on 30 acres

D. C. National Guard Recruiting Drive Nears War Figures

75 Enrolled in Six Days; Strength Now Is at 1,250 Men

An enlistment record approaching wartime figures was established last week by the District National Guard's recruiting station in the Woodward Building. In the last six days 75 recruits were enrolled, including executives in Federal departments, engineers, attorneys and several newspapermen, Guard officials announced.

The 260th Anti-aircraft unit is backing up the recruiting drive with a display of anti-aircraft guns, machine guns and searchlights at the Woodward Building. The exhibit and daily demonstrations are attracting considerable attention. At the present rate of enlistment, it was said, the full-strength quota of 1,450 men will be more than filled before the Guardsmen go to camp for three weeks August 4. The strength of the Guard now is 1,250 men.

Officers expressed gratification at the spirit of Washington employers, many of whom are not only granting time off for the Guardsmen but supplementing their salaries so their earning power will not be reduced while in camp. Almost all the recruits are high school graduates and a large proportion have had at least two years at college.

$10,000,000 Bond Issue Is Planned by Pepco

The Potomac Electric Power Co. has applied to the Public Utilities Commission for authority to sell $10,000,000 in first-mortgage bonds to a limited number of private purchasers, the money to be used to extend and improve its plants, it was learned yesterday. The issue would pay 3 1/4 per cent and mature in 1974. A public hearing will be held on the application, the commission said.

The money will be borrowed, according to the commission treasury, to reimburse the company treasury to reimburse the company treasury for previous capital expenditure and to cover capital expenditure for the remainder of this year and next for additions and extensions to its plants.

Among the improvements intended is completion of a 50,000-kilowatt turbo-generator at Buzzard Point and construction of another similar turbo-generator at the same place. Other money would go to improving the plant at Benning and the distribution system, it was understood.

Bid Openings Tuesday For Coolidge High Gym

Bids will be opened Tuesday at 2 p.m. at the District Building on the girls' gymnasium of the new Coolidge Senior High School for which a special appropriation was required when the original allotment was found to be insufficient. Because gym construction had to be postponed until the supplemental money was made available, District officials estimate the District is losing about $30,000. Had the gymnasium been built along with the rest of the school, it could have been done for about $50,000, it was stated. The present estimate is about $86,000.

The school was completed, except for the girls' gym, last spring and will open in the fall. The gym will require 180 days to build following the letting of the contract.

Dances in Streets Planned by W. P. A.

Plans for a series of weekly dances on streets and playgrounds for the rest of the summer were announced yesterday by the District Work Projects Administration. The dances will be part of the Music Project's program. One unit already has put on several dances on playgrounds and will continue with weekly events at a different location each week. The colored dance unit will play for its first entertainment July 23 on Fenton street N.W. in co-operation with the Community Center Department. Thereafter weekly dances will be held in various sections of the city.

On July 22 the newly formed W. P. A. Symphony Orchestra will present a program of popular melodies for patients at Naval Hospital.

If inclement weather should force postponement tonight the concert will be played tomorrow night. If it should rain again tomorrow, ticket stubs may be exchanged for tickets to the second concert, on Wednesday, at the symphony box office in Kitt's music store, 1330 G street N.W.

During tonight's concert a harbor police detail will patrol the waters around the concert barge to keep noise from river craft at a minimum. Some countries reportedly plan to issue stamps to sell for a sum slightly in excess of their postage value, with the difference going to the lighthouse fund. It is understood the United States, Cuba, Haiti, Dominican Republic, Colombia, Ecuador, El Salvador, Honduras, Guatemala, Bolivia and Panama have indicated their willingness to join in the program.

Housing Plan Asks Bids on 313 Homes

Project in Southeast Washington Is Aid In Slum Clearance

By NELSON M. SHEPARD. Plans for the construction of its fifth public housing project under a Federally aided program were announced yesterday by the Alley Dwelling Authority, which invited bids for 313 new homes on a vacant 30-acre site on the east side of Alabama avenue southeast, between Stanton road and Twenty-first street, intended for colored families of low income.

The tract of high, rolling land is located in the long-established colored community of Douglass Heights, also known as Garfield. Schools, churches and recreational facilities for the families to be housed there are conveniently located nearby. Financed by U. S. Loan. The new project, which will be known as the Frederick Douglass Dwelling, will compensate in part for slum structures razed by the A. D. A. and other governmental agencies in various sections within the past year. The A. D. A. estimated yesterday that 300 families had been forced to move from their homes as a result of the demolition of houses and apartments on three slum-clearance sites now being developed. Tenants Are Waiting. Most of these families were assisted by the Authority in obtaining living quarters elsewhere. Since the fundamental idea behind the whole public housing program is the rehoming of slum dwellers, it was expected that as many of these families as possible will eventually be accommodated in the new A. D. A. homes. There is no definite assurance on this score, however, as rigid rules of tenancy are set up for public housing projects and families must meet certain requirements of low income. The Frederick Douglass Dwellings, it was announced, are to be semi-detached and community typed, two stories in height, with some one-story structures for architectural purposes. Each dwelling will be equipped with gas for cooking and electricity for lighting. Space and connections are provided for refrigeration. Most of the units will be heated by individual hot-air circulators, fueled by coal, although oil circulators are provided for 42 of the houses. Convertible Arrangements. A novel feature provided by Hilward R. Robinson, architect under contract with the Authority, is a system of convertible room arrangements. This will permit the shifting of the use of one bedroom from the adjoining three-room dwelling, thus providing two four-room dwellings. The living accommodations for the 313 units will range from three to six rooms to meet the housing needs of families of various sizes and compositions. The "convertible" bedroom will be used to avoid the necessity of a family from moving for lack of adequate living quarters.

Associated with the architect in planning the development were James Posey, mechanical and electrical engineer, and David A. Willis, landscape architect. Rents, which are to be established after all costs are known, are to be graded so as to provide for families of various income levels. In the lowest groups, generally, a ceiling of about $1,100 a year is applied, such incomes at public housing projects financed with U. S. H. A. loans. The planning of this new project was a difficult one for the A. D. A. It is the first large outlying project for Negro occupancy. According to John Hilder, executive officer of the authority, the planning suffered one delay after another.

Record Was Problem. The chief trouble seemed to be in obtaining accord on the type of houses in terms of site development. Then, too, was involved the routing of the Port drive, part of which will extend along one side of the property. This was worked out with the National Capital Park and Planning Commission through a mutually satisfactory exchange of some land. The exchange gave the A. D. A. sites for three buildings in place of two, and frontage on both sides of Bruce place instead of one only.

When work starts on the site the authority will have under actual construction approximately 842 dwellings. The program is gradually rounding into shape, although it calls eventually for nine projects. The first project was started last November on Ridge road in Anacostia for 326 white families. More Are Planned. Two slum clearance projects, one for white and the other for colored occupancy, also are under construction. They are the Ellen Wilson Dwellings at Navy place in the Southeast where about 218 homes are being built for white families. Adjacent to the Navy Yard, a colored project for 314 families is being built. These two developments entail the demolition of numerous sub-standard dwellings. A third slum site is being demolished just south of Howard University and on it will be erected some 170 dwellings for colored families. Bids have not yet been asked. Other projects for colored occupancy, one near Marshall Heights N.E., the other at M and P streets S.W., between Half and Canal streets.

Plans were completed by House leaders last night to give the right of way Tuesday to a Senate-approved bill amending the Hatch political practices law—changes that will class virtually all of the 14,500 employees of the District government with employees of a State in so far as participation in "pernicious political activity" is concerned. The only specific exemptions locally are the three Commissioners and the recorder of deeds. The bill is to be called up under a special rule limiting debate to four hours. A vote is expected Wednesday.

Heavy Penalty Provided. As passed by the Senate and approved by a majority of members of the House Judiciary Committee, the measure provides that a State or District employe not specifically exempt shall be faced with a penalty of not more than a fine of $1,000 or a year in jail who: "Uses his official authority for the purpose of interfering with or affecting the election or the nomination of any candidate for the office of President, Vice President, presidential elector, member of the Senate, House of Representatives or delegate or resident commissioner."

Original Restrictions Liberalized. Since the majority of District employes are voteless, those who have studied the bill declare its only application will concern those who want to be active on the Republican or Democratic committees for the District. There is a provision in the bill which liberalizes the restrictions of the original Hatch Act against political activities of Federal employes in Washington. It will allow them if they live in nearby Maryland or Virginia to take part in local community elections and even hold office.
