

Homesteads to Battle Newark in Twin Bill In Season's Debut

The Homestead Grays, world champion colored baseball team, play an exhibition double-header with the Newark Eagles this afternoon at Griffith Stadium to open the host club's season.

The Grays face the season with almost the same line-up that topped the championship last year. Only Johnny Wright, pitching ace, now in the Navy, will be hard to replace. The old slugging trio of Josh Gibson, Buck Leonard and Jerry Benjamin will be on hand. Joe Spencer will be on first, Jelly Jackson in short, and Jud Wilson at the hot corner.

In the outfield "Papa" Bell will be in left, Jerry Benjamin in center, and Dave Warty in right.

The Newark Eagles present a strong line-up. Willie Wells and Ray Dandridge, one of the best double-play combinations in Negro baseball, give the Eagles a punch in the infield.

First game is at 2 o'clock.

Loveday, 8-Year-Old, Gains Flashy Victory

By the Associated Press.

PAWTUCKET, R. I., April 22.—Mrs. William R. Flemming's hard-hitting mare, Loveday, now 8 years old, scored a thrilling victory in the $5,000 added Roger Williams handicap today at Narragansett Park.

Second choice of the crowd of 25,000 which bet $1,245,342 the third million dollar handle of the season, Loveday came from far back in the field of 10.

At the finish of the 11-1/2 mile race, she was just a head in front of the Merry-Ho Stables' Scotch Abbot. The time was 1:45 1/2.

Third went to Dr. W. I. Lunt's Boot and Saddle.

For her second consecutive triumph, Loveday earned $4,590 and paid $720.

Annandale Horse Show Is Scheduled May 14

THE PROPER WAY—Mrs. H. W. Glassen of Arlington is demonstrating how to show a setter. The dog is Champion Blue Dan of Maple Lawn, which twice has been judged best in show of all breeds. Dan will make bids for more top honors in the Rock Creek Kennel Club and the National Capital Kennel Club shows at Meadowbrook next Saturday and Sunday, respectively.

Lists for Two Dog Shows Here To Close Tomorrow at Noon

By R. R. TAYLOR.

Entries for the National Capital Kennel Club show and for the Rock Creek Kennel Club show, both scheduled for next week end at the Meadowbrook Saddle Club, must be in the hands of the Foley Dog Show organization by noon tomorrow. Information, which consists of the dog's breed, registered name, A. K. C. number, birth date, sire and dam, and breeder, may be wired to 2009 Ransdell street, Philadelphia. A special delivery letter mailed today would also probably arrive on time.

Those who plan to show at the Baltimore County Kennel Club show today at Towson, Md., may leave entries for the Washington shows at the superintendent's desk at the Towson event.

Mrs. Wolford Kennel Treasurer.

Old Dominion Kennel Club has elected a new treasurer. She is Mrs. Ruth Wolford, who has been doing such able work as chairman of the Trophy Committee.

A surprise visitor at the meeting was George Berner, one-time president of the club and delegate to the American Kennel Club. He still is a member, although he now lives in Chicago.

Already National Dog Week is in the making. This year it will be celebrated September 17 to 23. Contributors of $1 or more to the National Dog Week fund will receive a special copy of the dog map of the world, size 17 by 22, and suitable for framing. If requested, it will be autographed by Will Judy, who founded National Dog Week 17 years ago.

Nationals and Red Sox to Be Dinner Guests
Of Traffic Club of Washington on Wednesday;
Summer Resort Hotels Announce Opening Dates

It will be baseball night beginning at 6 p.m. Wednesday at the Mayflower Hotel with the Traffic Club of Washington playing host to the Nationals, Red Sox and the Sparks writers of the Capital.

Clark Griffith and most of his baseballers and Joe Cronin and his apple-tossers from Boston have accepted the invitation for the dinner at which Arch McDonald will be master of ceremonies and Nick Altrock will supply the comedy touch.

It will be a memorable meeting for the Traffic Club with the newly elected officers presiding over the affair. These include: President Charles A. Miller of the Chicago & Northwestern Railway, Vice Presidents Rowland E. Dobbins of the Food Distribution Administration and Gaylord F. Allen of the Union Pacific Railway, Secretary-Treasurer Charles E. Milford of the Finance Office, United States Army.

Board of Governors includes Walter W. Coe, junior administrative officer, Marine Corps; G. N. Smull, Navy transportation specialist; Lt. Col. J. C. Olsen, War Department transportation; Arden W. Lloyd, Wheeling & Lake Erie Railway Co. and C. A. Cromwell, Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railway Co.

Gaylord F. Allen, general agent for the Union Pacific, was given a party here last week by 200 of his associates and friends in Government service. Mr. Allen has been transferred to San Francisco, where he takes over the post of general freight agent. F. S. Payne, from the railroad company's general offices in Omaha, takes over Mr. Allen's post.

The fence which property owners put around the famous hoofprints of Bath in Beaufort County, N. C., has been removed and attempts to capitalize on the legend given up, at least for the duration. But the hoofprints are there and belief in North Carolina's ghost story persists.

In 1813, according to the legend, a profane man, named Jesse Elliott, and some wayward companions were racing their horses on a Sabbath morning. Elliott fell behind in the race and, spurring his steed madly, shouted to the animal to take him in a winner or take him to hell.

Whereupon the obliging animal is said to have dug its hoofs in the soft earth in two mighty leaps and hurled the rider against a nearby tree, killing him instantly. Ever since the prints made by the horse's hoofs have resisted eradication and awed natives think Elliott was riding Old Harry himself when he got his neck broken.

If you don't believe in tall tales you have to believe in the prints. There are eight slight depressions in the soft earth, so spaced they suggest horse's hoofs. The tracks—no larger or smaller—persist in the face of the elements. Oldest inhabitants say that when they were children their parents would fill the prints with dirt and, on returning later, would find the tracks fresh again.

One practical observer suggests the pits persist because they are vents for some underground pocket of salt veins.

Bath is a fitting setting for such a tale. Oldest town in North Carolina, it once was a rendezvous for Blackbeard the pirate, who there met and reputedly trafficked with Tobias Knight, Secretary of State. The village never grew, moreover, and this also is said to be due to Divine intervention. In 1739 George Whitfield, evangelist, wrote from

Sure it was tough... BUT LOOK AT THE RESULT!

Due to the Army's need for specialists and the manpower shortage, Pontiac dealers had to do the unusual to maintain a satisfactory staff of skilled mechanics. This called for special effort and special training. It cost time and money.

As a result of carefully worked-out inventory methods and intelligent forward planning, they have maintained adequate stocks of genuine replacement parts—especially those essential to actual car operation. This was accomplished despite exceptional difficulties.

During the past year, Pontiac dealers served more Pontiac owners than ever before in history.

To accomplish this, we had to meet and solve unusual problems... streamline our organizations... add hours to the working day and days to the working week. All this was done as part of our avowed pledge to do everything possible to keep America's motor cars rolling.

But without the full and wholehearted help given us by Pontiac owners, we could easily have failed. Pontiac owners, fully realizing our problems, have worked with us by permitting us to schedule work through our shops, by correcting little things before they became big things, by granting us time—whenever possible—to do our best work.

For this splendid cooperation... for this complete understanding of wartime conditions and problems, we, the Pontiac dealers of America, wish to publicly thank the Pontiac owners of America.
