

American Invaders Of New Guinea Alert Against Air Attacks

By the Associated Press.
ADVANCED ALLIED HEAD-QUARTERS, New Guinea, May 5.—American invaders of Dutch New Guinea were on the alert today against expected counter-attacks by Japan's well-trained navy flyers.

As headquarters announced two amphibious landings which pushed the Yanks as far as 40 miles west of Hollandia, a spokesman sounded a precautionary note. He said there were indications the Japanese are throwing their naval aviation strength—their best pilots—are reported to be navy flyers—into Northwest New Guinea sectors guarding the approaches toward the Philippines.

(Aneta, Netherlands news agency, said in a New Guinea dispatch that Japanese air bases were being reinforced at Geelvink Bay, which is more than 200 miles from Hollandia, and on the Halmahera Islands, to the south of Mindanao.)

Jap Air Activity Sporadic.
So far, only sporadic enemy air activity has been reported in the Hollandia-Alto sector, where American invasion forces have captured five airfields within bombing range of the Philippines and killed more than 800 Japanese. A single night-raiding Japanese bomber caused light casualties at Hollandia earlier this week.

Today headquarters disclosed that a week ago a small amphibious group of the United States 6th Army landed at Demta, a village 40 miles up the coast from Hollandia and 16 miles beyond the previous westernmost holding of the Americans at Tanahmerah Bay.

Another amphibious force landed the same day at Torare Bay, 12 miles west of Hollandia. That is between Tanahmerah and Humboldt Bays, the points where big invasion forces opened the swiftly concluded pincer drive into Dutch New Guinea April 22.

Special Senate Group U. S. Army Superior To Nazis', Ordnance Chief Declares

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, May 5.—An American announcement of the development of battle equipment superior to that of the Nazis, Ordnance Chief declared today.

He said he was "in complete accord" with the statement of Gen. George S. Patton, executive director of the Ordnance Department, that "the freedom of world communications will go a long way toward eliminating misunderstandings and perhaps prevent wars," and he asserted that present discriminatory practices are not leading to a free interchange of news and opinions.

Continuance Granted Teacher in Assault Case

A hearing for Mrs. Marie B. Whitt, principal of the Bladensburg (Md.) Elementary School, on charges of assault and battery involving 7-year-old Roy A. Kirby, a second grade pupil at the school, was continued yesterday in Prince Georges County Magistrate Court at Hyattsville at the request of the plaintiff.

Mrs. Roy Kirby, 5906 Landover road, Cheverly, the boy's mother, asked that the trial be continued two weeks to permit attendance of the State's attorney or his assistant, both of whom were attending Criminal Court in Marlboro yesterday.

Mrs. Kirby charged the teacher spanked her child with a steel shoe.

President Asks Closer Lease-Lend Check as Senate Takes Up Bill

By the Associated Press.
The Senate took up the lease-lend extension bill today with what amounted to an assurance from President Roosevelt that the administration intends to tighten its bookkeeping on the program.

Along with a report that lease-lend and other forms of American expenditures abroad, including Army and Navy spending, had reached $30,362,887,262 as of April 1, the Senate Appropriations Committee made public a letter in which the President ordered the establishment of a central clearing house to keep track of overseas outlays of various Government agencies.

Mr. Roosevelt ordered the accounting agency set up in the Foreign Economic Administration headed by Leo T. Crowley, and said it would develop "comprehensive and consistent reports on foreign transactions, so essential to the planning and operations of our Government in the future."

Investigations Praise Step.
Applauding this step, Appropriations Committee investigators said in their report they had been unable in six months of work to compile complete and accurate figures on United States aid and reverse lease-lend, partly because of the lack of a central reporting agency.

"It is strongly recommended," the report said, "that the clearing house begin operation without delay, so that at the earliest possible date complete and detailed reports may be made to the Appropriations Committee and to the Senate on a quarterly basis."

Although Senator Bridges, Republican of New Hampshire said the report was compiled by committee investigators without consultation with the committee itself, and that "it's their report, not ours," the lease-lend extension measure was expected to encounter comparatively little opposition in the Senate.

Senator Taft, Republican of Ohio said he saw "no serious objection" to the bill as it passed the House recently, 324 to 21, but that he thought Congress might well consider a prohibition against the use of lease-lend funds for overseas projects of a post-war character.

Taft Cited Example.
Senator Taft said that, for example, "I don't want to see expenditures made on pipelines for after-war purposes."

He wrote into the bill an amendment prohibiting the President from making any final postwar lease-lend settlements with other nations that would commit the United States to any postwar economic or military policy, or any policy involving international relations.

Of the total listed overseas expenditures covering lease-lend and other forms of war and related aid, the report showed the British Empire received $19,700,297,674; Russia, $4,214,921,446; Latin America, $2,327,378,789; China, $920,340,451, and all others, $3,199,739,999.

Lease-lend outlays accounted for $21,794,237,819 of the total, and reverse lease-lend was listed as totaling $2,129,151,000, principally from Great Britain. Reverse lease-lend from Russia was shown as $1,000,000.

Admitting the Germans had some superior weapons early in the war, the general declared improvements to those now available for the Yanks "combine the best features of our weapons and those captured from the enemy."
