

Connally Applauds Dewey's Position on U. S. Foreign Policy

By the Associated Press.
Gov. Thomas E. Dewey's foreign policy speech at Louisville was applauded yesterday by Chairman Connally of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, who declared advocates of an international peace organization "welcome the support of the Republican presidential nominee."

"I am immensely gratified at Gov. Dewey's declaration in behalf of the international organization to preserve world peace," Senator Connally said in a statement. "It is most pleasing to observe his expressed desire that this vital subject shall be approached from a nonpartisan standpoint."

"The peace of the world—and that means the peace of the United States of America—transcends party and factional disputes. I am thinking of the well-being of America and her sons. I do not want to see another World War, because we shall have to pour out our treasure and shed the blood of our boys just as we have had to bear the heaviest burden in this war."

"The advocates of the international peace organization welcome the support of Gov. Dewey. America has the opportunity to lead the world and humanity. This is a noble enterprise—and should be removed from the zone of political shellfish and partisan bombardment."

Senator Burton, Republican, of Ohio called Gov. Dewey's speech "a constructive contribution to the policy of America in seeking both to win the war and to secure a lasting peace worthy of the price paid for it."

Senator Austin, Republican, of Vermont said he thought the candidate's expression "tends to show how far the Republican party has advanced toward unity on international policy."

While Senator Nye, Republican, of North Dakota made it clear that Gov. Dewey went much farther into the field of international commitments than he would go, he told reporters the nominee "did not say anything to cool my enthusiasm for his election in November."

trict attorney and then as Governor, was the most boisterous that has been given him so far during his campaign.

From every lamppost along the main street flew American flags and pictures of Gov. Dewey bearing the slogan, "Our Next President."

Has Faith in People

In his brief talk to the crowd assembled before the City Hall, Gov. Dewey called for an end this November to the "dreadful 11 years of unemployment" that preceded Pearl Harbor and added:

"We believe that with an administration that has faith in the people and is willing to trust them, we can release again the mainsprings that come from the main streets of our country."

In this campaign, Gov. Dewey said, "there are issues that are very much greater than any individual and any party. We represent this year the hope of what we believe to be the freest system of government, of what we believe will be the beginning of the long-term approach to peace in the world."

Gov. Dewey said he couldn't express "what a thrill it is to come home to a reception like this." He remarked that a good many years had passed since he lived in Owosso, but that he had been home last year and knew that the town could not have grown so much in that time.

"Some," he said, "I guess most of you are here, not to extend an individual greeting, but because you know I have the grandest mother in the world, because you like her and wanted to pay tribute to her son."

The Republican nominee's expression of hope for early victory in the war was made in Lansing while reporters were asking him if he expected to be kept informed of what happens at the forthcoming Roosevelt-Churchill meeting, in view of recent nonpartisan foreign policy conferences between Secretary of State Hull and John Foster Dulles, Gov. Dewey's representative.

Expects Dulles to Be Advised.

Gov. Dewey's answers indicated he would expect Mr. Dulles to be advised of any developments relating to the world organization for peace, or to sanctions to be imposed on the Axis powers, but that any military strategy planned at Quebec probably would be carried out before he could become President.

"Assuming the Quebec conference is chiefly in regard to strategy and military operations," a reporter asked, "do you think that in view of the election coming up and a possible change of administrations that the possible new administration should be kept informed of such broad strategy as will come up?"

"It is to be hoped," the Republican nominee answered, "that war with Germany will be over long before the next administration takes office January 20 and that the progress of the Japanese war will be so far advanced, if not completely executed, before January 20."

Doesn't Invite Himself.

He had explained earlier that the understanding between Mr. Hull and Mr. Dulles was that the Dewey spokesman was to be kept fully informed "as to the progress of negotiations for the formation of a world organization and for sanctions to be imposed on the defeated powers."

"The Quebec conference would include that?" some one asked.

"I am not informed as to the purposes of the Quebec conference," the Governor replied.

A reporter for the Los Angeles Times told the Governor his paper

OWOSSO, MICH.—DEWEY GREETED BY MOTHER—Mrs. George Dewey, mother of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, Republican candidate for President, looks approvingly on her son as they arrived at City Hall last night. will suggest editorially tomorrow that the Republican candidate, or Mr. Dulles should be invited to sit in on the Quebec meetings, to which Gov. Dewey replied:

"I never invite myself to private discussions."

Gov. Dewey made the pointed statement that "the date (for the Quebec conference) was not fixed until after my campaign opening date was made public," but he refused to be drawn into implication of political significance in arrangements for the Roosevelt-Churchill meeting.

Another newsman asked if he meant to imply that the Quebec meeting was planned to "take the play" away from the Dewey campaign trip, but the Governor would not elaborate on his previous reference to the time, which he called "a simple statement of fact."

At another point in the press conference, Gov. Dewey took a sidig at his opponent in the presidential race when someone asked him if he expected his speeches to go to the soldiers during the campaign.

He said he had read in newspapers that his first two speeches were to be short-waved, but he had no further information. Then he added, "You mean like going to Hawaii?"

Two reporters sought to draw him out further on his recent charge that the administration is considering holding men in the armed forces after the war, to keep down unemployment. One asked him if he has any concrete plans for carrying out his declaration in favor of speedy demobilization.

Administrative Matter.

"I think those statements speak for themselves rather thoroughly," he replied, referring to his remarks in Philadelphia and Louisville. "It is an administrative matter. All it requires is good intentions and a competent administration, with confidence in the United States."

The second newsman asked if he meant demobilization could start today or tomorrow.

"I said no such thing, or even remotely resembling that," he replied. "It means when victory has come and peace is total, as I said in my speech."

Both in Lansing and here in Owosso the Republican candidate was received enthusiastically, and students of Michigan politics predict the State will give its 19 electoral votes to the Dewey-Bricker ticket by a substantial majority. One veteran follower of Michigan campaigns estimated Gov. Dewey's lead in the State would be 100,000, based on the expectation of a heavy Republican vote outside of Wayne County (Detroit), especially in rural sections.

There is one factor, however, that is said to be giving Republican workers some concern. Michigan in recent years has adopted the system also followed in Ohio of having separate ballots for the National and State tickets. One ballot carries the candidates for President and Congress, the other the State candidates.

Michigan's present Republican Gov. Kelly is regarded as a strong prospect for re-election, and some political seers believe his strength would help the national ticket if the old-fashioned combined ballot was still in use. Some view the separate ballot as making it easier for voters to split their choice as between governor and President.

Big Reception in Lansing.

Several thousand persons crowded around the train as it arrived in Lansing, and cheered the Governor and Mrs. Dewey when they appeared on the rear platform with Gov. Harry F. Kelly of Michigan. Gov. Kelly's 15-year-old daughter Joann presented Mrs. Dewey with a bouquet of flowers.

"I have been coming to Lansing for over 40 years," Gov. Dewey told the crowd, "and this is the largest number of people I have ever seen in Lansing in my life. I am coming back today to the finest town in which I ever lived. From the time my mother brought me here, when I was 2 months old, until I was 4 years of age I was one of your townspeople. I am grateful to you for the way you have received me."

As in every city he visits, Gov. Dewey spent most of the day conferring with political leaders, as well as the customary groups of spokesmen for large voting groups.

Owosso Turns Out.

Along the streets of Owosso Gov. Dewey rode through cheering lanes of townfolks, with his mother and his wife. After Owosso had done its best to welcome him back, Governor and Mrs. Dewey went to his mother's home to spend the night

Tobin Again to Head Democratic Labor Union

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—Daniel J. Tobin, president of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters (AFL), said today 5,000 interstate truck drivers were out of work and there was a danger the unemployment would spread because of a critical shortage of heavy tires and automotive parts.

He made the assertion at a press conference at Democratic National Headquarters where Robert E. Hannegan, Democratic national chairman, announced that Mr. Tobin, at President Roosevelt's request, again would head the labor division of the Democratic Campaign Committee. He headed the division during Mr. Roosevelt's previous campaigns in 1932, 1936 and 1940.

Mr. Tobin said the brotherhood conference, which Mr. Roosevelt will address September 23 for his opening campaign speech, was called to study the tire situation.

"If necessary," he said, "we will bring the seriousness of the situation before the House and the Senate."

Asked if he would work with the CIO Political Action Committee, which favors Mr. Roosevelt's reelection, Mr. Tobin replied:

"I'll work with every group that has the re-election of President Roosevelt as its objective. I've had no disagreements with any branches of labor."
