Top Officials of Navy Are Expected to Join Forrestal at Pentagon

By John A. Giles
Defense Secretary Forrestal gradually is moving top officials of all major segments of the National Defense Establishment into the Pentagon, and present chances are good that high officials of the Navy will be moved there from World War I temporary building on Constitution avenue, it was learned today.

Navy officials are reluctant to make the move for one reason or another, but Mr. Forrestal is said to be anxious to have them transfer so that they would be readily available. The Navy move still is under consideration, but no final decision has been reached, a spokesman in Mr. Forrestal's office said. A decision is expected soon, however.

Space a Major Consideration.
A major consideration in connection with the move probably will be space in the Pentagon. Already Mr. Forrestal has moved or is moving a large number of defense boards and agencies into the Pentagon, the latest being the Munitions Board, which will displace the National Guard Bureau.

One plan advanced for use of the Pentagon was to allow the three services roughly 30 per cent of the space each, having 10 per cent for Mr. Forrestal's office and the other top boards and agencies created by the National Security Act of 1947. To bring only the top Navy officials into the building as now is being studied, would require about one-sixth of the space.

One thing being taken into consideration by officials studying the projected move of the Navy is whether, in case of an emergency, it would be well to "have all our eggs in one basket, so to speak," one official said.

Communications a Factor.
"There is no doubt that the move would improve the functioning in the top echelons, but whether this would be offset by the poorer functioning in the lower Navy echelons also has to be considered," he added.

The Navy has extensive communications facilities in the department building on Constitution avenue which would either have to be moved at great expense or connected with the Pentagon by relays.

The Pentagon, which cost $63,645,954, was completed in January, 1943. It is three times the size of the Empire State Building and provides 3,333,000 square feet of usable space.

Miss Overell Ends Rest, Goes Apartment Hunting

By the Associated Press
LOS ANGELES, Oct. 22.—Louise Overell is apartment hunting. Her uncle, Fred and Emmanuel Jungquist, disclosed that the 18-year-old girl, acquitted October 5 after a 19-week trial with her now jilted fiancé, George Gollum, of charges of murdering her parents, has returned from a rest in a northern California sanitarium to begin "living her own life."

She was in seclusion, however.

The mansion of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter E. Overell who died March 15 aboard their dynamited yacht, will be up for sale tomorrow in settlement of their $400,000 estate.

Two Dead, Two Hurt as Gunman Shoots, Casually Strolls Away

By the Associated Press
NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—A tall man wearing an Army jacket casually strolled up to a group of people chatting on a Greenwich Village stoop shortly before midnight last night, drew a gun, fired a number of shots at them, and then casually strolled away—leaving two dead and two others wounded.

Police said the man made his escape easily as the crowds on Tenth street, near Bleeker street, where the shooting occurred, were thrown into panic. People poured out of nearby village nightspots when they heard the fusillade. Women screamed as the wounded lay writhing on the ground while others ran for cover.

The dead were identified as Patsy Graziano, 19, an Army veteran, and Mrs. Raffaella Passorella, 66. Police said the woman, although wounded in the back, might have died of shock or a heart ailment.

mystery and without an apparent motive.

Police said Mrs. Passorella died to save her son Anthony, 19. She was standing beside him at the top of the stoop when the gunman started firing. Mrs. Passorella, police said, knocked her son sprawling out of the line of fire only to be hit herself.

Here's Where Your "Thanks" is Tip Enough!

Thanks to a courteous, competent crew aloft—who make every trip on a TWA Starliner a well-prepared, well-charted, well-skippered voyage. And on the ground, you'll want to give equal thanks to the TWA's without wings—the maintenance workers, traffic and ticket personnel, cargo and baggage handlers, ramp agents and operations staffs.

Thanks to the food that's fine yet free aboard every TWA Starliner in flight at mealtime. For TWA's free meals and no-tipping policy cut the cost of air travel—cut it to a price that's comparable with first-class surface transportation.

Thanks to Extra Service for Washington
To Cincinnati—flying is the way to travel and TWA the way to fly. Flight 301, non-stop service, leaves Washington daily at 4:30 PM, EST and arrives Cincinnati at 7:35 PM, EST. Flying time—3 hours, 5 minutes.
