Boy, 4, and Sister, 2, Elude Sitter To See Grandpa, Hike 7 Miles

"Robbie" Wagoner and his sister, Janice, peer from between the bars of Robbie's crib after the two had been brought back from an unscheduled trip to Grandpa's place yesterday.

Robbie Wagoner, 4, swung on the rail of his crib last night, and smiled. He had had quite a day, even though he hadn't been able to finish a 15-mile hike.

"I wanted to go see Grandpa," he said, jumping to the floor. "Janice wanted to go, too." He pointed out his two-and-a-half-year-old sister in a nearby crib.

"I was playing Indians, but I got tired. Grandpa's got chickens, and dogs. And you can run around."

"But Daddy and Mother went away today," he said, and climbed along a bureau drawer. He was abruptly pulled down.

"I knew just how to go to grandpa's. We go there lots of times, in Daddy's car." That was why he was sure he and Janice could make it walking.

"We were all right," Robbie said. "Janice ran in front of a car, but I pulled her back. We went over a great big bridge, but I told her not to cry."

"We went to a lady's house. We had milk and saw television," Robbie recounted. "I was tired."

"I had fun," put in Janice unexpectedly.

Robbie climbed in Janice's crib. "I don't want to go bed," he said. "I want to go to Grandpa's. And I will again if I want to."

Such was Robbie's explanation of a hike which yesterday took him and his sister 7 of the 15 miles from their home at 3720 Ely place S.E. to Grandpa's place in Cottage City. They were found near the Pennsylvania railroad tracks on Kensington avenue.

A dozen neighbors and police had searched for them since Ann Halcombe, 15, of 2109 Fairlawn avenue S.E., their babysitter, had reported them missing at 11:45 a.m. Their parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Wagoner, Jr., had gone to a football game. The children were found about 3:30 p.m.

Virginia's High Court To Hear Case Testing State 'Blue Sky' Law

By the Associated Press
RICHMOND, Va., Nov. 13.—A test case going to the heart of Virginia's "blue sky" law will be argued before the Virginia Supreme Court of Appeals during the November session which opens Monday, court records disclosed today.

Twenty-one cases are expected to be presented to the court during a session scheduled tentatively to adjourn on November 23.

Among these will be the mandamus proceeding brought by the attorney-general to test the constitutionality of Virginia's 1940 revenue bond act. The "blue sky" case involves an appeal taken by the Travelers Health Association from an order of the State Corporation Commission enjoining the association from further promotion in Virginia of its mail health insurance business.

The case was carried by the SCC on its recent docket, and little has been heard about it. Evidence in the case was that the Travelers Health Association is a Nebraska corporation with its principal office in Omaha. It maintains no offices in Virginia, has no insurance agents here, and conducts no business within the State borders. But from Omaha it mails promotional material to residents of Virginia, urging them to buy the association's insurance contracts. Some 800 persons in Virginia have purchased the association's mail order policies. The commission looked upon these contracts as securities within the scope of Virginia's securities law. It ordered a cease and desist hearing on the matter and sent a notice of the hearing to the Nebraska company by registered mail.

One of the principal contentions made by the company before the Supreme Court is that this registered mail service is not sufficient in a quasi-criminal proceeding, a proceeding "in personam." Other contentions are that the Virginia Corporation Commission cannot constitutionally issue or enforce any order aimed at the use of Federal mails by an out-of-state corporation.

To Hear Unusual Case. Because virtually all of the securities division's injunction proceedings are filed against out-of-State promoters, the Supreme Court's decision in this case is regarded as highly significant. The commission repeatedly has enjoined Canadian gold and silver mine stock promoters from operating in Virginia.

In an opinion on the case when it was before the SCC, Commissioner L. McCarthy Downs said the commission did not feel the Constitution could be perverted to overcome the State's Police power to protect its citizens from out-of-State promoters and manipulators.

The High Court will open its November session by hearing argument in five Commonwealth cases, including one unusual habeas corpus proceeding. Ordinarily, all habeas corpus pleas heard by the court are
