

Red Marshal Bulganin Alerts Russian Army For Combat With U. S.

maintain constant combat preparedness on a high level.

"The Soviet people may rest assured our army, air force and navy will vigilantly stand guard over their Socialist homeland."

The Soviet Union is "perseveringly striving for a lasting peace throughout the world" while successfully carrying out a plan for development of its national economy, Marshal Bulganin said.

Izvestia and Pravda in their editorials and Gen. S. Shtemenko, chief of staff of the army, in a Pravda article also directly attacked the United States.

Pravda's editorial said: "The international situation obliges our fighters constantly to perfect their military training, to widen their military, political and technical knowledge and in every way to strengthen discipline and organization."

"In the camp of the imperialist instigators of a new war we hear the demonstrative rattling of sabers."

Policy of Aggression Charged. "Striving for forcible establishment of their world domination, ruling circles of the U. S. A. do not want a lasting peace."

"They are carrying out a policy of aggression and of unleashing a new war" * * * feverishly knocking together aggressive blocs aimed against the peace-loving democratic peoples.

"Apparently they have not profited from the lessons received by the German and Japanese aggressors who also tried to impose their domination upon the world."

Pravda said, however, that the Soviet Union was "constantly struggling for a solid democratic peace in the whole world" and aggressors' plans for a new war were doomed to failure.

The people will not be "a blind instrument in the hands of the incendiaries of a new war," the editorial added, and concluded that the Soviet people, "rejoicing in the growing might of their armed forces, know that this is the most reliable and solid guarantee of their peaceful labor."

Anglo-U. S. 'Imperialists' Seen Facing Catastrophe

WARSAW, Poland, Feb. 23 (AP).—Leaders of Poland's government and army today predicted "catastrophe" for what they termed British and American imperialists and their "war adventurers."

They joined in hailing the Soviet army as the greatest in the world and the liberator of Europe. Civilian and army chiefs alike made no reference to any contribution by the Western powers in winning World War II.

The Poles showered laurels on the Russians in celebration of Red Army day. Marshal Konstantin Rokossovsky, Soviet commander in Poland, and three Russian generals came to Warsaw from the Russian headquarters at Lignica in South-eastern Poland to join the celebrations.

Polish President Boleslaw Bierut, Premier Josef Cyrankiewicz, Defense Minister Marshal Michal Rola-Zymierski and many other army and government chiefs attended the ceremonies.

Vice Minister of Defense, Gen. Marian Spychalski, spearheaded the attacks on the "Anglo-American imperialists."

Western Leaders Refuse Bid to Berlin Celebration

BERLIN, Feb. 23 (AP).—The Russians invited Western leaders to their Big Red Army Day party tonight and got a polite but cold response.

Marshal Vassily Sokolovsky invited the American, British and French commanders in Germany to his Berlin party. None accepted personally. Instead, the chiefs of the three Western military missions permanently stationed at Soviet headquarters in Karlshorst were designated as the sole representatives of the Western powers.

This was the minimum response system adopted by the West toward Soviet social functions ever since the Russians wrecked the four-power political discussions in Germany.

Airlift planes supplying Berlin over the Russian blockade flew constantly overhead while the Russians placed flowers at their war memorial.

The Yugoslav military mission placed a wreath on the memorial, causing some surprise in view of the split between Premier Marshal Tito and the Moscow-led Cominform. The mission also has been attacked by the Soviet press here in black market charges. Its tribute was "to the Soviet heroes from the Yugoslav military mission."

Peru Promises to Check Activities Against Bolivia

By the Associated Press

LA PAZ, Bolivia, Feb. 23.—The Bolivian government, fighting off threats of a right-wing coup, has made public a note from neighboring Peru. The latter government said it was taking steps to halt the development of activities in Peru directed against other countries.

The Peruvian note at the same time said the policy of the government was one of strict non-intervention in the internal affairs of other countries.

The Bolivian cabinet resigned Monday to give President Enrique Hertzog a free hand in trying to build a coalition cabinet strong enough to withstand possible right-wing onslaughts. The country has been under a state of siege since the government reported Saturday it had nipped a plot by the Nationalist Revolutionary Movement (MNR) to seize power.

$7,000,000 for radar picket vessels which the Budget Bureau struck from Navy budget estimates.

Project to Take 200 Million.

Representative Durham, Democrat of North Carolina, chairman of the subcommittee which handled this bill, emphasized it was not expected the radar stations would be able to pick up all approaching enemy aircraft in time to permit their interception.

"Use of the phrase 'radar fence' is misleading and unfortunate," Mr. Durham said.

The bill for the guided missile proving ground authorizes expenditure of $75,000,000 for the first three-year phase of a 10-year project estimated to cost $200,000,000.

Representative Brooks, Democrat, of Louisiana, whose subcommittee considered that measure, called the proposed 3,000-mile-long test range "a vitally important facility."

Mr. Vinson complimented the subcommittee on making a budget saving, on a current basis, of $125,000,000 in cutting the authorized figure from the $200,000,000 originally in the bill.

The location of the projected proving ground has not been revealed, but it has been stated the base from which the missiles undergoing tests would be launched would be located within the continental United States.

Mr. McDermott said today that no decision has been reached yet as to the procedure against Hungary. The notice in the rejected note to Bulgaria that this Government reserves its rights under the peace treaty leaves the way open for further action in that case, which presumably would be along lines similar taken to that of Hungary.

Mr. Moody said he did not agree. He said the emphasis should be on collective bargaining, not the injunction.

"Nobody likes injunctions," Mr. Moody declared. "But sometimes there comes a time when there is no other way out."

After the hearings end, the committee will go into closed session for a week or 10 days to act on a substitute labor law.

The Democratic margin of three votes on the committee makes it virtually certain that the administration will send to the floor the Truman bill, which repeals the Taft-Hartley Act and goes back to the Wagner Act with a few changes. The committee is composed of eight Democrats and five Republicans.

On the floor of the Senate, enough conservative Democrats may join the Republicans to write a bill mid-way between the Wagner Act, which labor prefers, and the Taft-Hartley law.

Pepper Sees No Change Needed. The administration contends, with the support of Attorney General Clark, that the President has inherent powers to protect health and safety in emergency strikes, but Senator Taft, Republican, of Ohio has challenged the existence of any such authority and is expected to fight for some teeth in the new law to deal with strikes that would tie up the whole national economy.

Senator Morse estimated today it will take the committee 10 days to complete work on the labor bill after the hearings close.

Wallace Sees ERP War Threat

The lend-lease feature, he said, may cost 20 to 30 billion dollars. "The fact of the matter is," he said, "that these moves will seriously undermine and weaken our national security. They will lead to economic bankruptcy for Western Europe and the United States. They invite a war which no nation can win and in which humanity itself will be the victim."

Mr. Wallace said measures "make aggressive gestures against the Soviet Union by establishing military bases near her borders. Inevitably, they will provoke heavy countermeasures."

Practical Alternative. "Implementing such a policy 'at worst, a deliberate incitement to war,'" Mr. Wallace declared:

"I say that there is an honorable, a peaceful, and practical alternative to this mad course."

"If the administration sincerely desires peace, let it state its terms. Let the Russians do likewise, as they have clearly and repeatedly told us they are prepared to do."

Montgomery PTA to Get Report on Workshop

Conclusions and recommendations of the 11 discussion groups that took part in the Montgomery County Parent-Teacher Workshop last Saturday will be summarized and presented to the next general meeting of the county council of PTAs.

Nathan R. Gilbert, council president, said the all-day workshop which was held at Silver Spring intermediate school was attended by 218 officers and members of the 35 PTA groups which comprise the council.

It was agreed by a number of the discussion groups that parents and other school-minded people should take an active part in school planning. Another conclusion was that the people should tell the education board what they want from the schools, and express willingness to pay added costs in order to get what they want.

Three groups that studied the board of education budget agreed that well-planned permanent school buildings cost less in the long run than temporary buildings, because of lower operating, custodial and maintenance expenses.

Dr. Baumgardt to Speak

Dr. David Baumgardt, consultant in philosophy at the Library of Congress, will speak on "The Crisis in Modern Ethics" at 8:15 p.m. tomorrow in the International Student House, 1825 R street N.W.

Porter Enters Guilty Plea In Theft of Streetcar

A candy store porter who took a streetcar for a ride yesterday pleaded guilty to a charge of taking property without right.

Daniel H. Napper, who lives in the 4400 block of B street S.E., was charged at first with unauthorized use of a vehicle—a streetcar—but in Municipal Court the charge was reduced to a misdemeanor.

Napper removed the streetcar from the Kenilworth barn early yesterday. Police caught up with him when he couldn't get the car started again after stopping at Thirty-fourth street and Benning road N.E. to let an automobile make a left turn.

Judge Walter J. Casey referred the case to the probation officer for a report and possible sentencing March 16.

Meanwhile the possibility of cutting economic recovery funds to help meet the cost of a proposed program to rearm Western Europe was raised by Senator George, Democrat, of Georgia.

Senator George gave his views to a reporter before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee gathered to consider the $5,580,000 aid bill. He said Congress ought to know the cost of the arms venture before it votes on second year Marshall Plan spending.

Kilgore Says Enabling Act Needed on Baker Hospital

By the Associated Press

The State of West Virginia could acquire the Newton D. Baker Hospital at Martinsburg only through an enabling act of Congress, Senator Kilgore, Democrat of West Virginia, reported.

The West Virginia Legislature has approved legislation to inquire into the availability of the establishment of State use, if and when it is declared surplus by the Government.

"At present the hospital is not declared surplus," Senator Kilgore explained, viewing with some concern the pressure of demand on the VA for facilities for ill and disabled ex-service personnel.

A legislative committee inspected the Martinsburg facility during the week end.

2 District Students Win Catholic Press Contest

Margaret Cook of Holy Trinity High School won first prize in news writing, and Paul Liston of St. Paul's Academy was first in editorial writing yesterday in a writing tourney at the Washington-Baltimore Press Conference at St. Joseph's College, Emmitsburg, Md.

The annual tourney for Catholic schools in the Washington-Baltimore areas was sponsored by the Catholic Press Association. Holy Trinity High School and St. Paul's Academy placed second and third, respectively, in the tourney. Catholic University's newspaper, The Tower, won first prize for the best Catholic college paper in the area.

A bandit crew in Camberley, England, steals clothespins—a state of the spring-top kind—from clotheslines, letting the wash fall into the mud.

Dyna-Mighty power for Buicks up to 12 years old

PUT this new Fireball "Dynaflash" eight under the bonnet of your Buick—and hang onto your hat!

Like magic, the years of engine wear are gone. Flashing new life takes the place of tired power—and mounting garage bills! It's like driving a new car again.

And there's no waiting. These new engines, fresh off the factory production line, are in stock now—can be mounted and running sweetly in your Buick in two working days. They'll fit any Buick, 1937 model or later.

Price? It's surprisingly low—in the neighborhood of a ring-and-rebore job—and time payments, if you wish, will even keep it down to a few dollars a month.

How about looking into it—this week?
