Hiss Cites Threats To Jurors in Asking Change of Venue

By the Associated Press
NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—Affidavits by two jurors about threatening letters and telephone calls since they voted to acquit Alger Hiss have been filed in support of his plea to have his second perjury trial shifted out of New York.

Counsel for Mr. Hiss, former State Department official, filed a motion late yesterday asking that the trial be held in the Federal Court at Rutland, Vt.
The petition sought a change of venue "upon the ground that there exists in the Southern District of New York so great a prejudice against the defendant that he cannot obtain a fair and impartial trial in that district."

Extensive and sometimes unfair publicity given the first trial was claimed as cause of the prejudice.

Argument Set Monday.

The defense move, opposed by Government counsel, will be argued in court next Monday, the date set for the start of the trial.

Mr. Hiss is accused of denying falsely before a Federal grand jury that he provided Government secrets for transmission to pre-war Soviet spies.

The first trial ended July 8 with a hung jury—eight for conviction and four for acquittal.
The two jurors who said they were threatened are Mrs. Louise A. Torian of Manhattan and Louis Hill of the Bronx.

Mrs. Torian said that two days after the trial ended she received a postcard addressing her as "Comrade" and saying: "and you wonder why decent men and women can't get into this country. Drop dead or go over with your 'Gomme' friends." she said she later received several similar postcards.

Tells of Prowler.

Mrs. Torian's affidavit also said that toward the end of the trial some one tried to enter her apartment, and the incident was investigated by police.

After the trial, she said, a telephone caller told her, "We will get you soon, and that will be the end of you."

Mr. Hill swore that after the trial he received a card saying, "You are one of the four burns. . . . Drop dead or go to Russia." He said he received another similar card later.

Mr. Hiss' temporary attorney, Edward C. McLean, said in the petition papers that, "The hubbub in the metropolitan press about this case has not by any means disappeared since the trial."

The defense papers said publicly here before, during and after the trial has been of "such unprecedented volume and in some respects of such extraordinary virulence" that it would be impossible to get a "fair and impartial" second trial before an unprejudiced jury.

The defense said that in Vermont—Mr. Hiss' favorite vacation spot—there has been less copious and less prejudicial publicity, and no great public sentiment for or against Mr. Hiss or the prosecution.
