

We dare you to try . . .

Another "Cussedest Quiz"

By CHARLES D. RICE

Our first one stumped so many we decided to give you a second chance

EXPERT: Dr. Joyce D. Brothers, second winner of "The $64,000 Question," tries the quiz on this page. She did pretty well, too — got six right out of 10

The quiz on this page contains 10 of the easiest questions you were ever asked. That is, they seem to be the easiest, but think twice before answering, because they're tricky.

The quiz has been pre-tested on scores of persons of all types, and the average score was somewhat better than two questions right out of 10. If you can get even a 50-50 score — five right — you are either a genius or a very good bluffer.

Readers who tried the first "Cussed Quiz" [THIS WEEK, October 9] are still writing us threatening letters. We dare you to grab a pencil and start cussing too.

1. Adam and Eve were banished from the Garden of Eden for eating what fruit?
2. Who said, "Everybody talks about the weather but nobody does anything about it"?
3. Who was the great love of Pocahontas's life?
4. In what year was Christ born?
5. How much more reflected light do we get from a full moon than from a half-moon?
 - a. Twice as much light
 - b. The same amount of light
 - c. Four times as much light
 - d. Seven times as much light
6. Where was the Battle of Bunker Hill fought and where does the Bunker Hill Monument stand?
7. Boris Karloff gained his greatest success playing a weird character in the movies. Who was the character?
8. Was Charles Lindbergh the first person to cross the Atlantic Ocean by air? Or was he the third, or fifth, or fourteenth, or fortieth?
9. Which of the following rid Ireland of snakes?
 - a. The Royal Zoological Society
 - b. Nobody — there were never any snakes there
 - c. Irish terriers
 - d. St. Patrick
10. What was the highest title that Julius Caesar acquired: king, emperor, dictator or consul?

— For answers, turn page