

MERELY COMMENT

Gov. Dunne has a plan for a subway route to Joliet.

If said subway route will make it any easier to get newspaper sluggers into Joliet we're for it.

Hearst's Chicago American is all worked up about cool way they treat factory workers in Georgia.

Probably Hearst's Atlanta, Ga., American is all worked up about the cool way they treat factory workers in Chicago.

Illustrating that the farther from home you place your kick, the less chance there is an advertiser getting peeved.

Nearly four thousand who goes on spree by eating four or five dozen eggs says he gets all the fun of a regular drunk out of it.

We hope this N'Yawk guy's idea becomes fashionable among Chicago chauffeurs. It might keep down the death rate.

Ninety-four thousand, two hundred and five persons died of the white plague in the U. S. during 1911.

Most of these contracted tuberculosis from living or working in unsanitary conditions.

Which is another way of saying that most victims of tuberculosis are slain by Big Business.

The British government should worry, and shut its eyes while they do it.

From the Examiner and American we gather that the grand jury which couldn't find any graft in the voting machine deal was a very nice grand jury.

And that the foreman of said grand jury is a very nice man, who probably is good to his wife and family.

And that the only trouble with Maclay Hoynes is that he suffers from the mumps or French Lick Springs once in a while.

Member that old song, one line of

Oh, nothing! Except that we were thinking of the time when the "L" roads would give through routes.

Judge Mahoney must be sick. He hasn't given an interview to The Daily News for a week.

And judging from the way Daily News vaccine took on Judge Gemmill, we thought it was guaranteed to stick.

Mrs. Edward Loewenthal says men are too busy to cure the social evil. Too busy being the cause of it?

May appears to be trying to act like a regular spring month.

Succeeding pretty darned well, too. That's why we aren't going to write any more in this column today.

This sort of weather gives you that tired feeling.

To say nothing of the result of helping Friend Wife spring clean.

A SOCIAL RELIEF

He—Whom must we call on now, the Browns?

She—We can't. They haven't called on us yet.

He.. (appreciatively) — Deuced clever people, those Browns.
