

football honors, but the East will see the staging of the semi-finals, Harvard playing Princeton and Pennsylvania going against Dartmouth.

Nothing that will have a bearing on the conference championship is to be pulled off. Minnesota, as yet undefeated by a conference team, is idle, and the Maroons, also undefeated, play Northwestern, which has not won a game. The only uncertainty in the latter game is the size of the score. The Purple has been shot to pieces by injuries, and will be soft for Chicago. Coach Stagg plans to use his second-string men during the major portion of the game.

In the East all eyes are on the Harvard-Princeton game. The Crimson is a 2-to-1 favorite on its showing in practice games. Every regular will start the fray, Brickley, the star ground gainer and drop kicker being in fine fettle. Capt. Storer has an injured leg, but will be in the line-up. Mahan, the sensational punter, may not last through the engagement.

Princeton, weak at the start of the season, has been strengthened through changes, and heavy scores in the last two battles indicate the power of the new Tiger attack. Law is the big question mark of the game. If his punting compares favorably with Mahan's the Tigers will have a chance for victory. Baker's open-field running is also counted on. The Tigers are the only eleven with a chance to defeat Harvard, Yale being weaker than for years. The Blue plays Brown tomorrow, and another defeat for Old Eli would not be surprising.

Dartmouth, by defeating Princeton for the second time in two years, lays claim to championship honors, and will have some foundation for the boast if Pennsy can be put out of the way.

Two intersectional battles, Michigan vs. Cornell, and Notre Dame vs. Penn State, are carded. Both will be played in the East, but the Western teams should win.

FOOTBALL GAMES TOMORROW West.

Chicago vs Northwestern, Evanston.
Mich. Aggies vs. Mt. Union, Lansing.
Ohio State vs. Wisconsin at Madison.
Purdue vs. Rose Poly at Lafayette.
Nebraska vs. Wesleyan at Lincoln.
Notre Dame vs. Penn State at State College.

Michigan vs. Cornell at Ithaca.

East.

Harvard vs. Princeton at Princeton.
Yale vs. Brown at New Haven.
Dartmouth vs. Penn at Philadelphia.
Carlisle vs. J. Hopkins at Baltimore.
Navy vs. Bucknell at Annapolis.

PLAN TO COMBAT EVILS OF LOAN SHARKS STARTS TOMORROW

A practical plan to combat the evils of the loan sharks will be started tomorrow when the First State Industrial Wage Loan Ass'n begins operations.

There will be no loans made until Monday, however, as tomorrow will be spent in meeting employers of the city and explaining the purpose of the association.

Short loans will be made on salary assignments and the charges will not exceed 3 per cent a month. The loan sharks now charge 10 per cent. Honest and trustworthy borrowers can obtain as high as $250.

No loans will be made until employers are first notified that the association will hold an assignment on the man's salary.

The officers are: Marvin B. Pool of Butler Bros., president; Wm. H. Rehm, Holtz & Rehm, first vice-president; D. R. Kelly, Mandel Bros., second vice president; Gustav F. Fischer, Rubens, Fischer & Morris, treasurer; W. Rufus Abbott, Chicago Telephone Co., secretary.

The directors are: Henry J. Bencke of Hibbard, Spencer & Bartlett; Louis More of John Mohr & Son; Harry J. Powers, Powers Theater, and Howard G. Hetsler, president of Chicago & Northwestern Railroad.