

HAPPIEST WOMAN IN WASHINGTON IS WIFE OF DE SAULLES, NEW MINISTER TO URUGUAY

Mr. and Mrs. John L. De Saulles.

Washington, D. C.—Mrs. John L. De Saulles says she is the happiest woman in Washington, for she is going back to the land of her people, South America. Her husband, John L. De Saulles, the famous Yale quarterback of a dozen years ago, has been nominated by President Wilson to be minister to Uruguay. The couple will leave very shortly for the new post.

Mrs. De Saulles is the daughter of a rich Chilean. She spent five years in Chili and says she knows Uruguay to be a lovely country in which to live.

The appointment is considered as a recognition by the president of a close friendship established during the Wilson campaign.

It is recalled that F. W. Thayer, recently deceased Boston merchant, invented the baseball mask. He was the originator of "Save your face!"
