

CHILDREN DIE OF STARVATION WHILE RICH WOMAN'S PET DOG REVELS IN LUXURY

There are more than a million children in London. Thousands of them never get enough to eat, thousands of them sleep in cellars and dress in rags, but the fashionable London West End women have a bedstead, like the one here pictured for their pet dogs. These pups will sleep on mattresses of down, beneath sheets of linen edged with lace.

THE VALUE OF TWO ARMS

What would you take for both your arms?

Would you sell them at any price?

A jury in White Plains, N. Y., has recently set a high mark in damage verdicts by awarding $75,000 to a young electrician employed by the New Haven Railroad, into whose body an uninsulated wire shot 11,000 volts, forcing a double amputation.

Prior to that, the record verdict for a similar loss had been $40,000, assessed against the prosperous Lackawanna.

Quite a change, isn't it, from the days, not a generation ago, when corporation-owned legislatures were writing into statutes and corporation-managed constitution conventions were writing into the fundamental laws restrictions of damage verdicts to $5,000 for manslaughter done in the interest of greed?

Yes, mankind is moving.

Man is moving up and the dollar is moving down.
