

MIDSUMMER SALES AND GOOD TASTE MEAN PRETTY DRESSES FOR HOME

The good little "hausefrau" never wastes her precious time designing her home dresses according to fashion, but the dresses she wears "about the house" are, nevertheless, charming and becoming, no matter how simple they may be.

A pretty and very inexpensive house dress is made of dimity, both the plain and the dotted material being used. The blouse and a tiny apron are made of the dotted dimity, and a ruffle of the same finishes the plain white skirt.

The material in the gown illustrated costs 50 cents at a midsummer bargain counter, and the val lace used as trimming costs 50 cents—rather a good-looking dress for one dollar.

Equally simple and inexpensive is the little frock in which this young mother dresses her small girl. White linen slip with collar and cuffs of white pique and a white patent leather belt is all there is to this trim little outfit.
