Chick Evans has been eliminated from the national amateur golf championship. Eben M. Byers put him out in the first round by 1 up. Evans' defeat was a surprise, but anything can happen in the short 18-hole first round.

Bob Gardner and W. I. Howland of Chicago are still in the tourney. Guimet and Travers survived, though hard pressed.

The biggest upset of a season of balled-up dope occurred when R. Norris Williams defeated Maurice McLoughlin in straight sets for the national tennis title. McLoughlin was badly off his game and committed many faults. Williams played the best tennis of his career, but McLoughlin beat himself.

Leach Cross may be seen in action before a Milwaukee club some time in October. The New Yorker was due here today for his match at Hudson, Wis., Labor Day with Johnny Tillman. He will be asked to set his price for a meeting with the winner of the Wolgast-Mandot game which will be staged September 18.

Kauff of Indianapolis a Real Star—Cubs and Sox Win.

A semblance of the batting the Cubs have been exhibiting the last few days in Cincinnati and they would have made a creditable showing against the Giants. And some of this Cincinnati pitching is up to the Giant standard.

O'Day men can profit against the weaker brothers, but if they are to make a decent showing in the final results they must carry the punch to deal out punishment to the leaders. McGraw's old axiom was "Lick the second division clubs and break even against the leaders, and you'll win a pennant."

This year, with the majority of the National League a second division affair, the going would be easy for a fair team. With all their faults, the Cubs can't be counted out until the race is over, for a little bright baseball will give the pennant to any team in the first division.

The feature of yesterday's tilt in Cincinnati was Pete Knisely's single. It was his second in 42 times at bat.
