"FIRST LITTLE GIRL OF N. Y." HOSTESS AT DOLL PARTY

Olive Whitman and Her Little Friend, Freddie

Little Olive Whitman, who will be "first little lady" of New York when her father, Charles S. Whitman, takes the governor's chair, made her bow to the public the other day when she presided at the doll's reception given in the Wonderful Doll's House in New York.

Only very small children and their caretakers attended the reception and the guests included the little folks who take part in the "Daddy Long Legs" play. One of these—Freddie Vardi the "littles boy" in the play, is shown in the picture with the governor's daughter.
