BIG BUSINESS WATCHES FIGHT OF ROSENWALD AGAINST TAX LAWS

Efforts of Millionaire to Have Indictment Quashed
Arouses Interest—Ass't State's Att'y Bell
Explains Tax Laws—Ridicule
Animosity Charge

Big Business is watching with hawk-like interest the efforts of Julius Rosenwald to wriggle out of the indictment charging him with failing to file a tax schedule.

In Judge McDonald's court the millionaire head of Sears-Roebuck is fighting to have the indictment quashed. If he succeeds in getting away with it is will be a big victory to all individuals and corporations who exhibit shyness when it comes to paying proper taxes.

State's Attorney Hoyne, through his assistants, Hayden Bell and Henry Berger, is putting up a warm scrap to hold the indictment. This morning Judge McDonald took the arguments of both sides under advisement.

Sidney Adler, att'y for Rosenwald, is taking the position that the state can not get a criminal indictment for failure to file a schedule.

"If the contention of Attorney Adler is upheld it will be impossible to force the filing of personal property schedules," said Attorney Bell. "We contend those parts of the 1872 laws which are not in direct conflict with the laws of 1898 were kept on the statute books through the re-enactment clause in the bill of 1898.

"This clause kept alive the provi-
