

ROAD RACE KING DRIVES A JITNEY

Teddy Tetzlaff, king of the world's road race speeders, snapped driving a jitney in Los Angeles. When the road game is slack Tetzlaff picks up a little spare change by hauling passengers. "It's more for the fun than the money, however," declares the speed king. "And then, too, I like to take a slam at my old friend Mr. Street Car Monopoly."

IRISH AONACH PLANNED

An Irish Aonach and athletic carnival is being organized by a committee interested in Irish pastimes. The Aonach goes back to pagan times when funeral games were held in the cemeteries where kings, heroes and renowned personages were buried. One of the most famous was held at Croghan in Connaught at the grave of King Dathi, the last of the pagan Irish kings.

The Aonach to be held at River-view Park on Decoration day will have hundreds of Irish athletes, singers, dancers, pipers and violinists taking part in 33 contests that are planned. Signed by committee in charge: Prof. W. H. Cahill, dean of Loyola university, D. R. Twomey, Mary McWhorter, Timothy Twomey, John Cavanaugh, Bernard McMahon, Francis O'Neill, Daniel Sweeney.

DESCRIBED

"Father," said little Rollo, "what is appendicitis?"

"Appendicitis, my son," answered the deep-thinking father, "is something which enables a doctor to open up a man's anatomy and remove his entire bank account."
