NOTED JEWISH WOMAN CALLS THE BOSSES

Mary Antin Says Kuppenheimers and Rosenwalds Seem to Forget Where They Came From and Why They Are Here in America—She's Not a Garment Worker, but She Realizes.

The Kuppenheimers and Rosenwalds, all Jews who have lifted multi-million dollar fortunes out of the garment trade, would not have sat easily in a front row of Cohan's Grand Opera house Sunday afternoon. And it would have been worse if they had brought their wives and children.

Jew masters of the clothing trade in Chicago, driving thousands of Jew wage earners to disease and death, denying their workers rights of petition and assemblage, were condemned by Mary Antin, noted writer and speaker, probably the foremost exponent of Jewish life in America. At night she was the headliner in Orchestra hall at the Sunday Evening club.

Grace Abbott of the Immigrant Protective league showed Kuppenheimer pay envelopes. Photographs of these wage slips were thrown on a lantern screen: For 33 hours' work, $4.11; for 48 hours' work, $4.10; for
