

BASEBALL—SPORTS OF ALL KINDS—BOXING

Federal league officials will convene in Chicago today to confer about unfinished business left over from their meeting in Indianapolis last Tuesday. Weeghman, Gilmore, Edward Gwinner of Pittsburgh, Carroll Rasin of Baltimore and W. E. Robertson of Buffalo will probably be in on the talkfest.

Maybe representatives or organized baseball will join in the confab. That remains to be seen. The Federal crew recently journeyed to French Lick, Ind., to hold converse with American and National league folks about peace, according to the dope. But that meeting blew up. The questions is, will they carry out the French Lick plans here?

John Greene dern near broke this season's bowling record last night in a game between the Lederers and the Cheltenham in the Bowen league in South Chicago. After getting ten straight strikes he pulled a split and finished with 286. The record is 290. The Lederers trimmed the Cheltenham three in succession.

August Kieckhefer made a grand finish and beat Jess Lean of Detroit in their Interstate Three-Cushion league match at Bensinger's last night. The score was 50 to 37, in seventy innings.

Percy Lawrence and Willie Hanley of San Francisco and Vincenzo Madonna, an Italian, were added to the list of starters in the six-day bicycle race at the Coliseum, which will start a week from Friday night.

Now they are hitting at Pete Russell, captain and quarterback of the Chicago university, with the professional player claims. Rumors that have been in circulation on the Minnesota campus for several days questioning the eligibility of the Maroon star came to a head last night when, according to a report, an eleventh hour protest will be filed against Russell.

Capt. Russell emphatically denied charges of semi-professional baseball activities.

"Tear 'Em Up" Shea is one of the big reasons the Princeton backfield this season is the best the Tigers have had in years. He has ripped up every line he has faced and the only time he was brought to a standstill was when the Tigers got within striking distance of the Harvard goal and the Crimson forwards massed to check him.

Each of the four Tiger backs has a specialty. Glick, captain, is the "cheer up" boy. He can get more out of his players than any quarterback in the east, with the possible exception of Barrett of Cornell.

Tibbott, at right half, is a drop-kicking wonder. Driggs, at full, does all the punting. Shea is the battering ram.

Shea is touted as one of the greatest starters the eastern gridiron ever produced. His legs, when he leaps forward for a dash into the line, seem to shoot his body out like steel springs. In the few steps he takes to reach the line he gathers terrific speed, and if the forwards fail to open a hole for him, he opens it himself.

As a line plunger Shea is the nearest approach to Ted Coy the east has produced since Coy himself was bowling them over for Yale.

Dick King, Harvard halfback, who scored a touchdown against Princeton, is married and has two children, a girl two years of age and a son six months. He is working his way through college.

For several years King tried for every position on every team organized at Harvard, but never made good. Finally Brickley, football star, took charge of him last season and taught him some football. This year he made the varsity, and is the college hero.

If Johnny Kilbane agrees to meet George Chaney, the Baltimore, Md., lad with a sledge hammer punch, he