

who will take part in the week-long grind at the Coliseum, beginning Feb. 2, will arrive here tomorrow. Some of the long distance pedallers already here are practicing on the boulevard.

A new indoor track record is expected when Howard Drew of California and Jo Loomis of Chicago meet in a special 70-yard race at Jo Loomis and Howard Drew.

Madison Square Garden, New York, Jan. 27.

Drew was beaten in the national amateur meet at San Francisco last summer and said he would never race again, but went into training recently and is said to be moving in his Olympic form. Loomis has gone through a special course of training for the race.

While some ballplayers will receive salary cuts this year, with the war over, some will continue to draw big pay because, during war time, they signed long-term contracts.

Joe Jackson, Eddie Collins and Johnny Evers have good contracts that have two years to run. Jake Daubert has a nice contract that will not expire for three years, and so has George Sisler.

The contracts of Ty Cobb and Walter Johnson, calling for big sums, will carry them through this year.

Records for a mile, compiled by George Moreland, statistician, show the automobile still the fastest of all.

The fastest time in which a mile was ever covered is 25 2-5 seconds by an auto driven by Bob Burman at Dayton in 1911. It was a straight-away dash. The fastest time by an aeroplane was 28 5-8 seconds by N. Prevost at Rheims, France.

Other auto records: Speedway, 33:35 seconds by Burman at Indianapolis in 1911; circular track, 46:20, by Louis Disbrow at St. Louis in 1914; standing start, 40:53, by Oldfield at Dayton in 1910.

Outside of the auto and aeroplane the fastest mile was made on a motorcycle, 36 seconds, by L. Humiston at Los Angeles in 1912, and next comes a mile in 37 seconds by the Empire express train of the New York Central lines in 1891.
