

ANTARCTIC SHIP BACK — MEN LEFT BEHIND SAFE

Port Chalmers, New Zealand, April 3.—Back from the Antarctic seas came the auxiliary ship Aurora of the Shackleton expedition today, with a thrilling story of perils from great masses of drifting ice and of terrible hardships in the Ross sea.

The Aurora arrived off the coast in command of Chief Officer J. R. Stenhouse of the Royal Naval Reserve. Stenhouse became commander when the Aurora broke loose from her moorings and went adrift last May, leaving Capt. Mackintosh and several other members of the party ashore on Cape Crozier.

"Is all well in the old country? We have had no war news for seventeen months," flashed the Aurora's wireless operator a few hours before the tug reached her.

From a New Zealand station the latest war news went crackling back to the relief ship. One of the messages informed the Aurora's wireless operator that his brother had been killed in action at the British front.

COULD ANY OTHER AUTO TRUCK GET AWAY WITH THIS?

Running too fast to be stopped in time, a heavily loaded auto truck of the Chicago Examiner nearly slid into the river last night when it crashed through the safety gates of the Clark st. bridge.

The auto approached just as the bridge swung away from the river bank to allow passage of a freight boat. The driver slammed on the brakes and the auto smashed through the gates and stopped within a few feet of the water's edge.

The policeman stationed on the bridge took the name of the driver as Forest Bailey, 618 N. State st. He was not arrested.

SOLDIER BOYS SING MERRILY ONWARD IN MEXICO

With the American Army in Mexico, April 3.—The "dough boys" have created their own war song. It is a parody on "Tipperary," based on the long hikes between temporary camps and goes like this:

It's a long hike to Temporary,
It's a long way to go;
It's a long hike to Temporary,
On the way to catch Pancho.
Good-by old Columbus,
Farewell, Gibson's Ranch.
It's a long, long way to Temporary,
But (shouted) we should worry!
