is Pearlline. That's the solid truth. You get them cleaner, and with less work and fuss, than with anything else you can use. It saves you so much that it's cheaper than the commonest stuff can be. Proof—the largest dairies and dealers use Pearlline. Some women are afraid of Pearlline. They think that where cleaning is made so easy, there must be some harm to the thing washed. But Pearlline can't hurt milk pails, anyway. And it can't hurt the finest lace or the softest hands, any more than it hurts milk pails. Not with the imitations—the fact that they are imitations or followers proves a lack of something.

Offering Amendments to the Odious Income Tax.

THEY ARE PROMPTLY DEFEATED.

Fraternal and Building and Loan Societies to Be Spared.

The House Passes the Bill Making Labor Day a Holiday and the Deficiency Appropriation—Carnegie's Superintendent Convicting Himself.

WASHINGTON CITY, June 26.—The senate entered upon the thirteenth week of the tariff debate today. Alien made another attempt to secure action on his resolution directing the secretary of the treasury to inform the senate of the total number of persons engaged in protected industries whose wages might be affected by the tariff legislation. Gallinger objected. Merrill moved to refer it to the finance committee. Alien gave notice that as long as the resolution is not acted upon he would object to all legislation by unanimous consent. Merrill's motion was defeated, 16 to 27.

Jefferson gave notice of an amendment to the tariff bill levying a duty of 50 per cent on goods arriving in the United States.

The senate then resumed consideration of the income tax provision. Hill withdrew the amendment he offered Saturday, to strike out the provision exempting interest on United States bonds from the operation of the tax. His object in offering the amendment, Hill said, was to call the attention of the country to the fact that $635,000,000 of property in government bonds was necessarily exempt from the operation of the tax under the law, although the ostensible purpose of the income tax was to reach wealth and equalize taxation. Here an enormous investment of capital which the income tax could not reach.

Hill moved to exempt state, county and municipal bonds. He argued that the taxation of state bonds by the Federal government would be a direct attack upon the administration of the states. If the Federal government had the right to diminish the value of state bonds and securities it had the right to destroy them.

Vest held that state or municipal bonds could not properly be exempted from taxation. Chandler expressed the hope that upon reflection the Democratic majority would not place states and municipalities, when they were forced to borrow money, in a worse position than the United States. The United States could now borrow money cheaper than any other country, state, corporate or individual, because it occupied this advantage, and the government should bear the credit of states and cities by raising their securities. Mitchell, of Oregon, agreed with Hill that the taxation of state and county bonds was of doubtful constitutionality. Sherman also agreed with Hill's position.

Discussion on the constitutionality of a national tax on state or municipal bonds continued for some time, and then a vote was taken on Hill's amendment. Lost—25 to 30.

Hill then modified his amendment so as to confine the exemption to state bonds. A long constitutional discussion of the powers and limitations of Federal taxation followed, in which Hoar, Morgan, Pugh, Lindsay, Caffery and Gray participated. Hill's amendment to exempt interest on state bonds was also lost—27 to 30.

Hill then moved to strike out the proviso for a tax on personal property acquired by gift or inheritance; lost, 25 to 33. The proviso offered by Vest last week as an amendment to section 53, "that in computing the income of any person, corporation, company or association, there shall not be included any amount received from any corporation, etc., as interest or dividends upon the bonds or stock of such corporations, etc., if the tax of 2 per cent. had been paid on its net profits by said corporations as required by this act," was agreed to.

An amendment of Allen, to permit evidence in rebuttal before collectors of internal revenue as to the amount of income, was agreed to, as was the Vest amendment including in the calculation of the incomes of banks, banking institutions, trust companies, life, fire and other insurances, railroad, telephone, telegraph and other companies, internal operating and business expenses, losses and interest on bonded indebtedness.

A committee amendment was made providing that the tax shall not apply "to states, counties or municipalities; nor to corporations, companies or associations organized and conducted solely for charitable, religious or educational purposes, including fraternal or beneficial societies or associations operated upon the lodge system and providing for the payment of life, sick, accident or other benefits to the members of such societies, orders or associations and dependents of such members; nor to the stocks, shares, funds or securities held by any trustees for charitable, religious or educational purposes; nor to the loans made by building and loan associations to their shareholders for the purpose of enabling them to provide homes, nor such savings banks, savings institutions or societies as shall have no members or stockholders except depositors and no capital except deposits, or shall not receive deposits to an aggregate amount in any one year of more than $1,000 from the same depositor, or shall not allow an accumulation or total of deposits by any one depositor to exceed $10,000, or shall actually divide and distribute to its depositors ratably to deposits all the earnings over the necessary expenses of such bank, institution or society, except such as shall be applied to surplus, or shall not possess in any form a surplus fund exceeding 10 per cent. of its aggregate deposits." Allison moved to add to section 59 the words, "and nothing herein shall apply to any corporation, company or association having a paid-up capital of less than $100,000." Adjourned.

Nominations: Charles De Kay, of New York, consul-general at Berlin; William Meyer Little, of North Carolina, consul at Tegucigalpa, Honduras.

In the House.

WASHINGTON CITY, June 26.—In the house the senate bill making Labor day a legal holiday was passed. The house bill to give the same weight and effect to the words, "and nothing herein shall apply to any corporation, company or association having a paid-up capital of less than $100,000," was passed. The house went into committee of the whole on the deficiency bill. Considerable time was devoted to the paragraph relating to Indian depredation claims. The bill was passed. Adjourned.

CLINE CONVICTING HIMSELF.

Carnegie's Armor Plate Superintendent A Poor Witness.

WASHINGTON CITY, June 26.—Superintendent Cline, in charge of the armor plate press of the Carnegie shops at the time of the irregularities in filling government contracts, began his testimony before the congressional investigation committee today. He said he construed the specifications sent the plates were to have uniform treatment to mean that there were to be uniform results. Cline submitted abstracts of plates for the purpose of showing that the changes made were not for fraudulent purposes. He made the changes, he declared, as the result of practical experience. The changes covered prior work done on the plates shown by workmen's figures. Cline charged that since his testimony, as to plates had suppressed half the entries on these plates.

Cummings then drew out a statement that Cline had destroyed his books. He did that because they contained a lot of stuff he knew nothing about. Representative Money took up the specific charge that the armor plate was actually in the furnace eighteen hours, while Cline raised the number of hours to thirty-six. Representative Talbot asked why this change was made. "This fuss," he said, "would be made by government officers."

The Rioting Continues at Lyons, in Spite of 2,000 Arrests—The Italian Consulate at Grenoble Wrecked—Anarchists Justify the Assassination.

PARIS, June 26.—Enormous crowds of people gathered in front of the Elysee palace this afternoon, favored ones being allowed to view the body of the late president in batches of ten under the supervision of republican guards.

The funeral train, bearing the remains of the murdered president, arrived at 3:10 a. m. The prefect of the Seine, M. Rubel, and staff, the prefect of police, M. Loze, and staff, railroad officials and Gen. Sausier, military governor of Paris, with his staff, met the body at the station, which was heavily draped. The ceremonies at the railroad terminus consisted only of formal transfer of the remains to the prefect of the Seine. The casket was placed in a hearse and escorted to the Elysee palace, followed by five carriages, including a landau which was occupied by Mme. Carnot and her three sons. Several thousand people gathered about the railroad and stood with uncovered heads until the cortege had passed. At the palace the body was conveyed to the reception room, which had been converted into a mortuary chapel, hung with black cloth and having a catafalque in the center, upon which, in silver letters, was the inscription "R. K." (Republique Francaise). The widow was overcome with emotion when the casket was placed in the mortuary chapel.

The body is now guarded by four cadets from the military school of St. Cyr. It will be placed upon a catafalque in the courtyard of the Elysee to lie in state until Sunday, when it will be escorted with much ceremony to the Pantheon and placed beside the remains of the late president's grandfather, Lazare Carnot.

Among those who witnessed the arrival of the body of President Carnot at the palace was his coachman, who was so affected that he fell insensible and died from the shock.

The commission appointed to conduct the obsequies of the president includes Col. Chamoine, who will represent M. Carnot's family; M. Boujoun, director of the academy of fine arts; M. Huet, director of public works; Ambrose Thomas, M. Sagn-Saens and Architects Garnier and Guillaume.

STREET TALK IN PARIS.

The Successor in the Presidency—Carnot's Family.

Special cable correspondence of the Associated Press.

PARIS, June 26.—Mme. Carnot returned to Paris from Lyons early this morning, with the remains of the president and the civil and police authorities received her. About 7,000 persons, principally members of the working class, were massed outside the railway station. Mme. Carnot had on the gray mauve-trimmed silk dress and the bonnet she wore nine days ago at the Grand Prix race, the last state function she attended as president.

When the news of the murderous attempt reached Mme. Carnot Sunday night she had on this same costume and had no time to change it before hurrying away to Lyons. Until she came back to the Palace Elysee she did not doff her dress. About 3,000 persons were in the station at Dijon to salute the remains. The widow was accompanied to Paris by her three sons. The train was awaited at the terminus by a funeral wagon, two landaus and a couple for the officers who went with the president to Lyons. The party were soon conveyed to the Palace Elysee. The troops were drawn up in the courtyard and saluted the funeral wagon. On alighting Mme. Carnot was embraced by her daughter-in-law and mother-in-law. Mme. Carnot has not touched food since Sunday night, but today she was able to drink deep draughts of milk flavored with coffee. Her mental and physical vigor sustain her. She agreed today ordering mourning, arranging for the funeral, dictating answers to messages from Queen Victoria, President Cleveland, Emperor William and Empress Augusta, the czar, King Humbert and others, and receiving the ambassadors who brought them.
