Secretary's Prussian Methods of Discipline Fail to Check Hazing.

SECOND MIDDIE IS OUT

Upper Class Men Object to Severe Punishment for Harmless Pranks.

Special Dispatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD.

New York Herald Bureau, Washington, D. C., Nov. 17. Investigation into the hazing scandal at the Annapolis Naval Academy, which will be asked by Representative Mudd of Maryland is expected to go into the history of the Academy since Josephus Daniels has been Secretary of the Navy.

The criticism of the discipline is that the attitude of the commandant, representing the viewpoint of the Secretary of the Navy, has been that boys should respond to discipline like full grown men, and that the method of enforcing such discipline is that which ordinarily would find great success in a first year school.

Almost every member of the House and Senate has been approached at some time with appeals for influence in mitigating discipline. Some of its members of Congress say, was justified while other cases they characterized as being worthy of the Prussian Guard.

Charge Physical Torment. The hazing criticized, it is understood, includes all cases ranging from a mischievous desire to embarrass lower classmen, to some cases where physical torment has been inflicted.

Secretary Daniels is regarded as merciless in his demand for strict discipline and is reported to take no cognizance of the fact that a certain leniency usually is allowed in other schools for the pranks of boys who are old enough to resent being treated like children and young enough to act at times with high abandon.

All minor offenses are treated as hazing, according to reports current here, and the morale of the school is at a low ebb.

On account of the many appeals members of Congress have had from boys at other times, it is expected that Representative Mudd will have little difficulty in arranging his investigation and that a thorough inquiry will result.

In face of this Secretary Daniels remains firm in his position and is upholding Rear Admiral Scales in enforcing what is described as "discipline."

Another Hazer Dismissed. It was decided by the Navy Department to-night to dismiss a second midshipman from the Naval Academy for hazing. This was announced by Secretary Daniels after a conference between the Secretary and Rear Admiral Scales.

As in the case of the man already dismissed, Mr. Daniels said, Admiral Scales had recommended action after two acts of hazing had been established.

Mr. Daniels to-day reiterated his determination to have all the upper class men expelled, if necessary, saying he as soon would expel a thousand as one, if his idea of the discipline of the institution demanded it.

At the academy itself the students are in daily conflict with their superior officers and latterly have indulged in the "silence treatment" for superior officers as a means of showing their feeling.

This treatment is accorded in the dining hall, where instead of the usual conversation and clatter of knives and forks that usually follow when the students take their places at table, the most intense silence follows the appearance of the officer who has offended the midshipmen.

In spite of efforts to obtain the enforcement of the rigid discipline that is desired, every move appears to result in a more determined spirit of revolt on the part of the upper class men.

SENATE'S CHAMPAGNE COOLER SELLS FOR $1

Other Fixtures of Former Bodies Are Auctioned.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—The Senate went into the salvage business yesterday by the sale at auction of accumulated fixtures and furniture of the Senate dating back to the days of the Sixty-first Congress.

A lemonade bowl from which tired Senators quenched their thirst in the cloak room went for $3; a champagne cooler, its Senatorial function not specified, brought $1; a sofa and five big leather chairs were knocked down for $140; two of these chairs, formerly adorned the marble room. Four old oak sideboards realized from $5 to $18.50. An icebox, formerly a regular attendant at finance committee deliberations, went for a song.

THE CRANK PLEADS GUILTY.

Slayer of Coughlin Baby Will Be Sentenced Saturday.

Pascol was placed on trial to-day, and when the taking of testimony was completed the court adjourned the case until the end of the week. Pascol pleaded guilty to second degree murder and guilty to a charge of kidnapping for purposes of extortion.

The maximum penalty for second degree murder is twenty years, and life imprisonment for kidnapping.
