

"Beauty and satisfaction" during "Blossom Time," at the Ambassador Theater. William Danford seems satisfied, and Olga Cook is quite beautiful.

"Will he come back to them?" Major W. T. Blake, the daring aviator, starting on his proposed flight around the world, kissing his daughter goodby at the hopoff on the first lap from London to Paris. Mrs. Blake is watching the ceremony. I. F. S.

A military requiem, first of its kind in Ireland, celebrated in Dublin for members of the I. R. A. killed during the attack on the Custom House, May 25, 1921. Free State soldiers are praying outside the Pro-Cathedral, which was too crowded to admit them. New York Herald Foreign Photos.

A May day on the Thames—pleasure day of the Oxford "Eights." During regatta on the historic river.

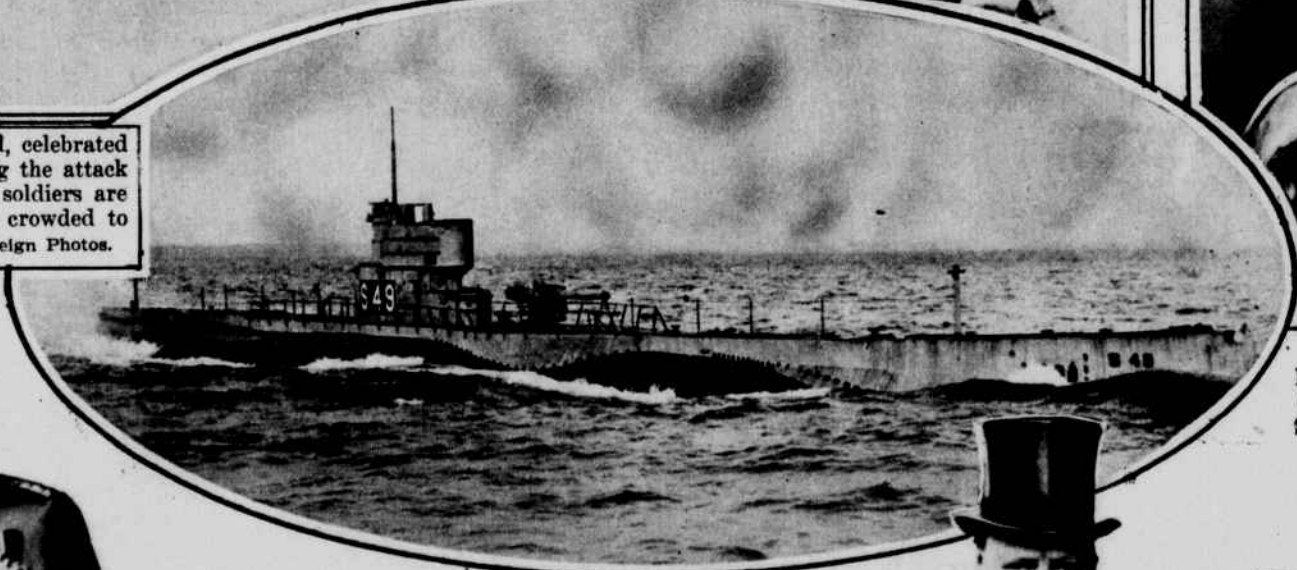

His first photograph in six years—Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Premier of Canada. Photo taken by Champlain Studios in New York.

At right—A bit of "Copenhagen Porcelaine"—one of the charming new figures in the second edition of Balieff's "Chauve Souris," now on Century Roof.

A Royal June Couple—King Alexander of Jugo-Slavia and his June bride, Princess Marie of Rumania.

America's newest and largest submarine—the S-49—which, having withstood all tests, will soon enter active service. I. F. S.

Above—The only memorial to the war dead erected by any cemetery—the stone font recently dedicated by Woodlawn Cemetery, New York. Bain News Service.

At right—The foremost teacher of Christianity in India—Prof. E. L. Goonankara, head of the Tech School, a British Government institution. Twenty-first C. P.

Mr. Winston Churchill leaving the meeting of the Irish Free State delegates in Downing street, London. New York Herald Foreign Photos.

The result of a head-on collision—"The Scout" after it had crashed Limited" last week near Fort Madison, Iowa. The engineer, James Eaton, fireman seriously injured.