

THE MASSES
READ THE DAILY PRESS
PUBLISHED EVERY MORNING EXCEPT MONDAY BY THE
Daily Press Company,
LIMITED
POSTOFFICE BUILDING.

The Daily Press may be obtained every morning at the following place: Crossley Bros., Washington avenues, J. A. Cory, Acme, Chesapeake & Ohio Restaurant, Charles Robinson, No. 7 Ivy avenue.

Parties other than those having ledger accounts with this paper, civic societies and military organizations, are required to pay for transient advertisements in advance. An increase of 50 per cent. will be charged for transient advertisements not paid for in advance and no transient advertisements will be booked for less space than one inch. To illustrate: one-half inch is 25 cents, one inch 50 cents for one time, when paid in advance; but they will be 75 cents if charged. Transient advertisements will save money by remembering this notice, which applies in all cases, irrespective of financial responsibility.

Advertising rates furnished on application. Contractors are not allowed to exceed their space or advertise other than their legitimate business, except by paying especially for the same. Advertisements discontinued before the expiration of contract will be charged for at transient rates for the time inserted.

YELLOW CORRESPONDENTS.
If the reports concerning the performance of Sylvester Seovel at Santiago are correct the military authorities should take that young man in hand and make an example of him. No one objects to enterprise in a newspaper correspondent. As a matter of fact, it is the very thing all intelligent persons expect in him, but there is a good deal of difference between enterprise and the theatrical freaks practiced by journalists of the Seovel type. It is difficult to understand how the interests of his paper could have been enhanced by the fact that he forced himself where he had no business and where he was not wanted.

According to authorities on military affairs Seovel may be arrested for insubordination and assault upon a superior officer. The penalty for this in actual war times is death. While most people would regret to see the extreme penalty visited upon the World man, there can be no doubt that he should be given a lesson that will last him to his dying day.

It is creditable to the craft that only two of the correspondents who followed the army to the front have displayed any inclination to abuse the privileges bestowed upon them. Richard Harding Davis passed a number of severe strictures upon General Shafter, which subsequent events have failed to justify.

In the case of each of these ambitious young gentlemen, General Shafter should exercise his authority in a manner which will convince them that they are not assailing and lampooning a ward politician.

It must be pretty plain by this time to those who intelligently follow the operations of the army that the most difficult thing about war is not fighting, but the feeding of the fighters. The feeders really have harder work than the fighters, and yet hardly ever are mentioned or even thought of by the great public who are spectators of the game of war.—Pittsburg Times.

The reason for this is obvious. The feeders usually get profit through his contracts for furnishing food to the army, while the fighters naturally receive part of their pay in honor and admiration of their fellows. The feeders undoubtedly deserve credit, but the average American finds no difficulty to get up a very enthusiastic feeling for the fellow who works so much on business principles.

While the famous Spanish "privater" turned out to be the most sly kind of a "bogy" man, the incident was valuable in that it showed that England, the most powerful maritime nation in the world, stands ready to call any piratical bluff that may be made by Spain or any other nation.

If one may judge from the various and sundry reports that are raging in the columns of the yellow newspapers, General Garcia is about the only public on the beach at Santiago.

BILL NYE'S HIT.

The Appearance He Presented After Telling a Cosmotic.
James Whitcomb Riley tells a quaint story of his former lecturing partner, Bill Nye:
It was the opening of their joint season; they had been rusticated during the vacation and were both brown as berries. Nye looked much like an Othello in his sunburned make-up, and Riley suggested to him the application of some "liquid white," a cosmetic much affected by the gentler sex of the profession.
Nye sent for the preparation, and never having used anything of the kind before, he filled the palm of his hand with it and carelessly smeared it over his countenance. There was no mirror in his very primitive dressing-room, and Riley was beautifying himself on the other side of the stage.
The "liquid white" dried out somewhat like white-wash, and when Nye appeared before the audience he was a sight to behold. His head looked like a frosted top-piece on a wedding cake; his face, white as the driven snow, was expressionless and blank. The audience shrieked, and when he came off from his first selection they demanded his reappearance. He obliged them to howls of laughter; again he made his exit, and again was re-demanded by the uproarious audience.
Believing he had made a hit, he was about returning to the stage, when he was caught by the arm by Mrs. Nye, who cried: "William Edgar Nye, what have you got on your face?"
"Nothing but its usual expression, my dear."
"Expression—fiddlesticks! You're a fright," cried his wife, and leading him to where there was a piece of broken looking-glass, showed him how he looked.
Nye was mortified, and, catching sight of Riley just about going on the stage, he would have undoubtedly followed him on and been revenged for the intervention of Mrs. Nye.
His head was scraped, combed, and washed, and his next selection was read without "a hand" from the audience. Moreover, the story is a fact, and not a press agent's concoction.

Sale of Valuable Real Estate.
By virtue of three certain deeds of trust, the one bearing date of the second day of May, 1888, another the sixth day of April, 1889, and the other on the ninth day of September, 1892, made by Carter M. Braxton and wife to the undersigned trustees, and duly recorded, will be sold on

SATURDAY, AUGUST 13TH, 1898
at 12 o'clock in front of the Court House door in the city of Newport News, Va., all that certain lot or parcel of land located at the southeast corner of Washington avenue and Thirtieth street, fronting on Washington avenue, 100 feet, with a depth of 160 feet, known and designated as McClean's map of Newport News as lots numbered twenty-five (25), twenty-six (26), twenty-seven (27), and twenty-eight (28), in block number one hundred and forty-nine (149).

This property will be sold in two parcels—First: Lot number twenty-five (25), fronting on Washington avenue twenty-five feet, with a depth of one hundred feet, and adjoining the Nelm property. Second: Lots number twenty-six (26), twenty-seven (27), and twenty-eight (28), fronting on Washington avenue seventy feet, with a depth of one hundred feet, with the exception of lot number 28, which lot number 28 has a depth of about 44.33 feet.

Upon this property there is a large and commodious brick dwelling. This is among the most desirable properties in the city of Newport News, and offers a rare opportunity for a most desirable investment.

TERMS—One third in cash, and the balance in two equal payments of one and two years, with interest from the day of sale. Deferred payments to be secured by deed of trust on the premises. The liberty to the purchaser to anticipate the payments.
July 16, 1898. THOMAS TABB, Trustee.

Hot Time in the Old Town is one way of expressing a sense of meriment, but the hot time some house keepers have in sweltering over hot ranges with unsatisfactory fires, with wood, coal, ashes, dirt and annoyance, is it any wonder they look weary and broken down? But with a modern gas range all this trouble disappears. The range will cook anything—it will do it quickly, it will do its work better and more satisfactorily than any coal range ever made. It will heat water for the bath or any purpose, and what is more the gas range is the most economical cooker on the market. Gas at $1.00 per thousand feet is ten cents a hundred. An average family can cook three meals daily with less than 100 feet of gas. Ask those using gas and you will find out the benefits are most enthusiastic. We have known it so long we wonder why anybody don't see it as we do, but they will soon see it. We are setting ranges every day, and every range set brings along another sounder of its praises. Call and see us.
