NEW WOMAN'S COLLEGE FOR MIDDLETOWN

Plan to End War Against Co-eds at Wesleyan University.

THE CHANGE FAVORED Relations Would be Similar to Those of Harvard and Radcliffe.

Middletown, July 15.—A new woman's college for Connecticut, the first to be established in this state, is one of the plans that is in the air here to materialize on the retirement next year of President Bradford P. Raymond, of Wesleyan university. For the last ten years President Raymond, backed by a majority of the board of trustees of Wesleyan, has waged a losing war in the interests of co-education here. The Wesleyan undergraduates and a large proportion of the alumni are strongly opposed to "the quails," as they irreverently call the few women who have had nerve enough to stand this opposition to their presence and study at Wesleyan in the same classes with the men. This antagonism has developed each year, until two years ago the men, being in the great majority, voted practically to put the women members of the class out of the class day exercises of commencement week and side-track them entirely.

For a few rounds it was war to the teeth, the faculty ranging up in sympathy with the men or opposed to them, according to their ideas on the co-education subject. Finally the board of trustees, seeing the red sign of danger to the number of women students each year to less than 20 per cent. of the total number of students of the preceding year. But the rule has never been put into force, because the number of women applicants has steadily decreased every year since, until hardly a score have been matriculated at the university the past year.

There is general feeling here that the "co-ed" plan has been a failure, and that with the retirement of President Raymond some new schemes will be outlined. The new plan, which, it is hoped, will propitiate both elements in the controversy, those favoring the co-ed idea and those opposing it, is the establishment here of a separate women's college, the faculty to include the members of the Wesleyan professors and instructors.

Under this plan the women would do their work entirely separate from the men, with their own relation halls. In the laboratory work there would be no need for new buildings for the women; certain days could be set apart for their work in the Wesleyan laboratories. In the classes for advanced degrees the plan followed at Yale of allowing the men and women to take the same courses would not be opposed by the men.

This would mean the establishment of a college that would occupy the same relative position to Wesleyan that Radcliffe college does to Harvard university. Scores of alumni, and practically all the undergraduates of Wesleyan, are heartily in favor of this plan, the proposition to be solved being the selection of a new president who will stand pat on this platform.

Although a dozen names have been mentioned in this connection, including the presidents of several Methodist colleges of the east and middle west, the committee selected to look up the new president has not met as yet, and no prominent candidate has appeared in the field.

GAYLORD FARM GETS $25,000.

Generous Financial Aid for Wallingford Institution.

The friends of the Gaylord farm sanatorium will be pleased to learn that the work of that institution will be greatly advanced this year as the result of increased financial aid. As announced at the annual meeting of the association, which was held in Wallingford in May, a fund of $10,000 has been subscribed by ten friends, and now the state legislature has just voted an appropriation of $15,000, which is $5,000 more than was appropriated last year. The members of the association at their annual meeting decided to ask for this increase in the appropriation, after hearing the report of Dr. J. P. C. Foster setting forth the needs of the institution.

This makes the third appropriation made by the state for the work of the association. The first appropriation was $25,000 and was for the purpose of establishing a sanatorium. The second appropriation was for $10,000, and this year the appropriation has been increased to $15,000.

This increased financial support is very gratifying to the members of the association, and it is hoped to still further augment these funds, a little later, by popular subscription. None of this money is to be employed in erecting new buildings, but it is all to be used directly in the cure and prevention of tuberculosis.

ABANDONED THEIR CHILDREN.

Italian Couple Leave for Home Without Them.

Abandoning two little children five and two and a half years of age, Clement and Katherine Zullo, Italians, man and wife, left this city two days ago to return to Italy. The children, Charles and Louis, were left in the house occupied by the Zullo family at 87 Putnam street to starve or be cared for by strangers. Neighbors learned of the matter yesterday, and informed the police, who took the children to headquarters.

The police turned both the children over to John Ricchitelli, their grandfather, who lives in the rear of 55 Hill street. He is a poor laborer with a large family and is unable to support the children. Medical attendance was secured for one of the children, who is ill, by the board of charities and both will be supported at the city's expense.

VARIOUS ITEMS.

Since N. Howard Brewer, of Hockanum, got an award of $100 for dent corn, the impression which many had that prize corn could not be grown in this part of the Connecticut valley has been dispelled. A number of farmers are now considering the question of competing at the national exposition in Chicago in October, at which awards will be offered aggregating $100,000.

There is no noticeable let-up in the freight business being handled by the New Haven road. Railroad men say they cannot recall a summer when the business continued heavy as late as this year.

On Thursday State's Attorney Williams, John Peterson, of Derby; Walter W. Radcliffe, of Shelton, and Wallace K. Bacon, of Middletown, will leave New York for a six weeks' trip through Norway, Sweden, Denmark and England.

It is announced that the trolley company has issued 100-ride books, which have already been placed on sale. Each book contains twenty-five leaves of four tickets each, and the price is $5.
