HIS FATHER'S BURGLAR DOG.

Jerome K. Jerome tells about a Scheme For Household Protection.

A great many burglaries had lately taken place in our neighborhood, and father came to the conclusion that it was time he sought a dog. He thought a bull dog would be the best for his purpose, so he purchased the most savage and murderous looking specimen that he could find.

My mother was alarmed when she saw the dog. "Surely, you're not going to let that brute loose about the house?" she exclaimed. "He'll kill somebody, I can see it in his face."

"I want him to kill somebody," said father. "I want him to kill burglars."

"I don't like to hear you talk like that, Thomas," answered mother. "It's not like you. We're a right to protect our property, but we've no right to take a fellow human creature's life."

"Our fellow human creature will be all right so long as they don't come into our kitchen when they're no business there," retorted my father, somewhat testily. "I'm going to fix up this dog in the scullery and if a burglar comes fooling around—well, that's his affair."

The old folks quarreled on and off for about a month over this dog. The dog thought the matter absurdly sentimental and the matter thought the old folks unnecessarily vindictive. At length the dog grew more ferocious looking every day.

One night my mother wakes my father up with: "Thomas, there's a burglar down stairs. I'm positive. I distinctly heard the kitchen door open."

"Oh, well, the dog's got him by now," then, murmured father, who had heard nothing and was sleepy.

"Thomas," replied my mother, "I am not going to lie here while a fellow creature is being murdered by a savage beast. If you won't go down and save that man's life, I will."

"Oh, father," said my mother, preparing to get up. "You're always fancying you hear noises. I believe that all you women come to bed for—to sit up and listen for burglars." Just so satisfied her, however, he pulled on his trousers and socks and went down.

Well, sure enough, my mother was right this time. There was a burglar in the house. The party window was open, and a light was shining in the kitchen. My father crept softly forward and peeped through the partly open door. There sat the burglar, eating cold beef and pickles, and there, beside him, on the floor, gazing up into his face with a blood-curdling smile of defiance, sat the dog, wagging his tail.

My father was so taken aback that he forgot to keep silent.

"Well, I'm —," he used a word that I should not care to repeat.

The burglar, hearing him, made a dash for it, and got clear off the window; and the dog seemed vexed with my for having driven him away.

Next morning he took the dog back to the trainer from whom he had bought it.

"What do you think I wanted this dog for?" asked my father, trying to speak calmly.

"Well," replied the trainer, "you said you wanted a good house dog."

"Exactly so," answered the dad. "I didn't ask for a burglar's companion, did I? I didn't say I wanted a dog who'd come to the house and sit with him while he had his supper, in case he might feel homesick, did I?"

And my father recounted the incidents of the previous night.

"The man agreed that there was some cause for complaint. 'I'll tell you what it is,' he said. 'It was my boy Jim who trained that 'ere dawg, an' I guess that's the reason he's so queer.'"

IMPARTING INFORMATION.

"I have often heard of 'high balls,'" remarked the out-of-town friend who was visiting Deacon Ironsides during the week. "But I haven't the slightest idea what they mean."

"I'll show you one," replied the deacon.

Whereupon, with that spirit of civic pride which marks the true Chicago man when his city is entertaining a crowd, the good deacon, who had never heard of a "high ball" in his life, went half a dozen blocks out of his way to show his friend the large ball on the flagstaff of the Masonic Temple—Chicago Tribune.

ECONOMY.

"I don't see why you have to have such expensive silk stockings," he growled.

"Purely as a matter of economy," she replied, sweetly.

"Economy?" Where does the economy come in?"

"Why, you dear, blind old fellow," she exclaimed. "Haven't you ever noticed that with low shoes and silk stockings a woman's dress never drags in the mud?"—Chicago Post.

JUSTIFIABLE ASSAULT.

"The complainant," says the judge, "says that you attempted to knock his head off."

"Your honor," said the defendant, "he stood out in front of my house singing 'All I Want is a Little Bit Off the Top' as loud as he could yell, and I thought I ought to accommodate him."—Indianapolis Press.

OFFICE OF THE BOARD OF SUPERVISORS OF MARICOPA COUNTY, ARIZONA.

PHOENIX, AUGUST 23, 1900.

In the matter of a petition for the creation of a No-Fence District in what is known as the Arlington District, (this district is west of the Hassayampa River and is a part of the Buckeye Justice Precinct and has been brought into existence by the building the Arlington Canal within the past twelve months) on motion and by full vote of the board the following resolution was adopted:

"Whereas, said petition being signed by a majority of all the taxpayers of said No-Fence District as shown by the Original Assessment Roll of Maricopa County, Arizona, Territory, for the year 1900, (a certified list of the said tax payers having been furnished this Board by the County Assessor, L. W. Coggins), expressing the desire that a No-Fence District shall be formed, so that no fences shall be required around the lands in said district under permanent to and in accordance with Act No. 41 of the Seventeenth Legislative Assembly of Arizona, approved April 4th, 1893, was presented to and filed with the Board of Supervisors of Maricopa County, Arizona, Territory, on the 23rd day of August 1900,

Now Therefore, it is ordered that the above petition be granted, and that all of the said facts be published in the Arizona Republican, a newspaper published in Phoenix, Arizona, in accordance with the provisions of the above mentioned Act of the Seventeenth Legislative Assembly of Arizona, and the boundaries of the said Arlington No-Fence District be described, as follows, to-wit:

Beginning where the Buckeye Canal crosses the Hassayampa River, and follow the Buckeye Canal to where the Arlington Canal crosses the said Buckeye Canal, thence along the Arlington Canal on and around the mesa to the Winter's dam, thence down along the foot of the mesa to the Wolfley dam in the Gila River, and thence to the center of the Gila River, thence up the center of the Gila River to the center of the mouth of the Hassayampa River, thence up the center of the Hassayampa River to the place of beginning. The above is a true and correct extract copy of the minutes of a meeting of the Board of Supervisors of Maricopa County, Arizona, Territory, held this 23rd day of August, 1900, in so much as they relate to the creation of the above No-Fence District.

PROBATE COURT.

In the Probate Court of Maricopa County, Territory of Arizona.

In the Matter of the Estate of John E. Ayers, Deceased.

Order to Show Cause Why Order of Real Estate Should Not Be Made.

It appearing to this Court, by the petition this day presented and filed by E. J. Bennett, administrator of the estate of John E. Ayers, deceased, that it is necessary to sell the whole of the real estate of said decedent to pay the debts of decedent and the expenses and charges of administration, and to close out said estate and permit of the discharge of said administrator and his bondsmen, as there appears to be no heirs in said estate;

It is therefore ordered by this Court that all persons interested in the estate of said deceased appear before the said Probate Court on Monday, the 17th day of September, A. D. 1900, at the hour of 10 o'clock a. m. of said day, at the court room of said Court, at the court house in the city of Phoenix, Maricopa County, Territory of Arizona, to show cause why an order should not be granted to said administrator to sell so much of the said real estate as shall be necessary, and that a copy of this order be published four successive weeks in The Arizona Republican, a newspaper printed and published in the said County of Maricopa.

Dated August 17, 1900.

N. A. MORFORD, Judge of the Probate Court.
