"Elijah" Dowle. The failure of John Alexander Dowle, "Elijah II" to make any serious impression in New York emphasizes the difference between the metropolis and a country community like Chicago.

The vast amount of news printed during the past week concerning Dowle's efforts to convert the people of New York has aroused the curiosity of the whole country as to the personality of the man himself. A timely article in the November number of Everybody's Magazine throws some interesting sidelights on the "second Elijah."

Mr. Friedman tells us that "if the prosperity of Dowle owed much to any one thing it would seem to be to oratory—the appeal of eloquent arguments to vast audiences, yet in any dignified or adequate consideration of the word the prophet is no orator at all.

There were fifty-six signers of the Declaration of Independence, and of these twenty-four were lawyers and thirty-two were planters, farmers, physicians, merchants, soldiers, teachers and manufacturers.

It appears that "there is probably no business house in the states quicker to adopt modern time-and-money-saving inventions than Dowle's 'Christian Catholic' church. The things rendered unto Elijah the Second are shrewdly invested by Elijah the Restorer for the benefit of John Alexander Dowle.

swept over his consciousness like an inspiration. The fall for of the sixteenth chapter of St. Mark—He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved. In my name shall they cast out devils. They shall lay hands on the sick, and they shall recover.
