GOD'S CALL TO BUSY PEOPLE.

A Short Summary of the Sermon at the M. E. Church Yesterday.

At the meeting of the Methodist Episcopal church yesterday morning there was a large audience and the pastor Rev. J. C. Rollins, D. D., delivered a sermon from the text, "Now as he walked by the sea of Galilee he saw Simon and Andrew, his brother— for they were fishermen. And Jesus said unto them: Come ye after me and I will make you to become fishers of men. And straightway they forsook their nets and followed him." Mark 1:16-18.

He said in part as follows: "In making selection of his closest disciples our Lord chose men who were busy with their own business and who had business with which to busy themselves. These men particularly those who were to figure so prominently in the coming kingdom as to be styled apostles were not merely busy men, but men who possessed the genius of activity to a remarkable degree.

"It is therefore of interest to us to note whom he called, not alone their names, which have come down to us, but the kind of people who are called to imitate the spirit of the Christ and become like him by association. But the objection is urged, does he not call all men? Yes and no. In the sense in which these men were called all men are not called, but in the sense that the invitation to become citizens of the kingdom of heaven is universal, all men are called. Who were these men? Simon and Andrew his brother? Men who were busy with the work for which they were fitted and who were faithfully and continually attending to that work.

It requires no great strength of the imagination to believe that these followers of the sea were among the most successful fishermen who sailed the choppy waters of the inland ocean.

"Thus it is in all the succeeding ages God calls busy men and women to represent him.

"The most frequent excuse upon the lips of men and women when asked to do and serve is 'I'm too busy.' How think you, would it work were the tables turned and the pastor of the people say 'I'm too busy to attend to the calls of the people?' And yet the position of the pastor is no more one of urgent necessity than the humblest layman in the pew.

"This term 'busy' is a relative one. Some people are busier with little than others are with much. The hen with one chicken, all fuss and flutter finds its counterpart in the man or woman who is all 'fuss and feathers' having but little to do and yet too busy to do anything.

"Do we ever pause to think how this excuse is a confession of weakness? True we are too busy to give attention to nonessentials and trivial uselessness. Duty calls but in one direction at once. No call where duty is concerned is ever conflicting. Often, however, what seems duty is but selfish desire or ambitious interest.

"Then, too, it is an established fact, having but few exceptions, that people find time to do and find a way, for the most part to do what they desire to do. How many of us find occasion to join our friends in lodge and society well nigh every opportunity, while we are absent from the more essential privilege of the church and its established means of blessing.

"Consider what constitutes a call to do or be anything in the service of God. Two elements enter here, the need of the ability to do.

"The Almighty calls busy men and women to represent him in the affairs of life, and we almost say truthfully, calls to the most responsible positions, only the busy. And the reason for this is not far to seek.

"The man who does his own work well, will lead the work well, provided he will lead the work of duty. In all our great centers of life it is the busy business and professional man who is found doing the most for his fellow man in the name of Jesus. The wise pastor never goes to an idle man or woman when he is especially anxious for some work to be done and done promptly. Let me ask you to think of some of the things to which God calls men today.

"Men and women are called to do some definite thing. God never calls people to generalities alone. And here again is this call determined by one's ability to perform. The loudest call never ever hears in this busy age is the need of the work being done coupled with his peculiar ability to perform that self same work.

"Then, too, men are called to do something along the ways of righteousness with their influence. Early in the Christian life are we to learn the ancient discovery of the Apostle that 'no man liveth to himself.' Men are called to do something with a good end in view with their time. Those given with which the sum total of human existence is comprehended, are hours and minutes.

"No day is allowed to pass wherein God, by unobtrusive circumstances does not call us to help our fellow men. As of yore 'even yet a man help his neighbor.' And love has still its olive and faith its Galilee.

"Then, as well, are we often called to suffer sometimes and some things. And here mind as well as body will be called into requisition. While physical suffering may very seldom be adjudged the direct imposition of an all-loving heart, yet there are many times when the All-Loving One permits for the loved one's growth and ultimate comfort and strength the pain to rack and the fever to burn that out of the tempest may break the calm.

"Sometimes we are called by this same voice of the Master to be misunderstood; and the follower of the Nazarene today sometimes employs the words of his great Friend and cries out 'will ye also go away?'

"Sometimes to be misunderstood for time and have the cloud obscure the sunshine of love and esteem, is the shortest path to honor and position of usefulness; certainly it is so when God ordains. But not only so, but often in the labyrinth created by one's own errors and even sins, is heard the voice of God calling into the light of his smile and home.

"God calls men out of the maze of human entanglements to sacrifice both personal aims and creature comforts that they may become fishers of men and under the guidance of the great Teacher take men alive and save them to the kingdom of heaven.

"But there is another side to all this: having called a man or woman and that call having been answered honestly and in good faith, to whatever place or position, God never leaves him alone. There is the backing of the power and influence of all heaven and time to cause him to reap ultimate success.

"Whenever God orders 'forward march' it is safe to step out and move forward, however dark and forbidding may seem the way.

"When asked concerning the outlook for Christian missions in India the 'Iron Duke' replied: 'What are your marching orders?' It is to these marching orders of the Word of God and faith you to heed today.

"Another thing we may not overlook. The Almighty never intrusts important matters to men and women who have no business of their own to attend to; hence if God calls you, brother, sister, it behooves you to hear and carefully heed that call.

"Let us not overlook the promise connected with this call, and indeed a similar promise coupled with every one of God's calls to us, 'I will make you fishers of men.' That is your success is assured if you heed the call of God. And we are told 'they left all and followed him.'

"You know the result in the lives of these men, how they were made into glory and honor simply because they were ready in the day of their opportunity. My dear people, let us look to the things that occupy our time. The little things, the well enough in their place, recreation and festivity; but let us heed lest we overlook the things that abide while God is calling us to such honor and privilege as awaits every man and woman who will answer as did these men of whom we have been speaking.

"As of yore today the call men and women out of the common ways of life to walk for the sin-weary world these Great songs of God that are fast enclosed

In the world organ vast:
The winds sweep in the quivering pipes

In stormy, angry blast:
But faith sits at the key board
And deftly strikes the keys—
'Tis weird, 'tis grand, how earthly needs
Breathe heavenly melodies.'

A MISFORTUNE.

A Mexican living near Mesa came into town yesterday, reporting that his wife died at 6 a. m. and that his two children were sick and he did not have a cent. The unfortunate man was advised to see Supervisor Hunsaker and ask for assistance. The Mexican did not return, and it is believed satisfactory arrangements were made.

SHEEP MEN REJOICING.

Sheep men are feeling jubilant on account of the rain. They are rejoicing that by feeding corn to the animals in limited quantity the sheep thrive. The corn is thrown on the ground and the sheep gather up every grain of it. Now that we have had a fairly good rainfall the desert grass will rapidly spring up, and within twelve or fifteen days will furnish an abundance of feed for the flocks.

Miss Alice Currow came over on the stage today to spend the day in Mesa with friends.

Mrs. F. B. Hughes is spending a few days in Phoenix visiting.

Chas. Carpenter and wife came down from the Arizona dam today and will remain over night in Mesa.

BREEDING J. I.

Wm. Ross and J. I. Coffin, of Mesa, received by express yesterday morning three thoroughbred silver laced Wyandotte chickens, the former a rooster from Elmore, Cal., the latter a rooster and hen from Illinois. They are large, fine looking birds.

WOOL BUYERS.

The sheep men are arriving in Mesa today. Word was received that the wool buyers would visit Mesa Monday to buy this year's crop.

A telegram to Mrs. S. M. Pomeroy from Sanford Springs brings her the good news that her daughter, Ida, had presented her with a new granddaughter. Mother and child are doing well.

A NEW SYSTEM.

An innovation is shortly to be inaugurated in the Copper Queen company's mine, pertaining to the manner in which its employees in the several shafts are to be managed. The change will necessitate the addition of a large force of high-salaried and expert men, whose duties will be to oversee and direct the work to be done at the many stopes throughout the mines. The under-foremen are to be known as "straw boss." A conservative estimate of the additional number of men required to fill the positions would be about fifty. Thus it is very apparent that the change is of great importance.

The proposed change in the management of men and work in the mines is made in the interest of economy and the company will doubtless profit by it. Each "straw boss" of the additional force to be employed will have charge of either twelve or fourteen men and his duty will also be to direct work in the stopes where his men are located. Besides, he will be requested to see that the timbering is properly done, that powder and fuel is used with economy and ore is in no manner wasted or neglected. The bosses will be expert men and will work with the men under them.

The change, as stated in the foregoing, will go into effect at a very early date, possibly within a week's time. The plan has been definitely outlined by the company so that the alteration in the former mode of conducting the work in the mines can be effected on short notice and without trouble.

Heretofore, twenty-eight was the number of foremen who had charge of the underground workings at the various shafts. When the change is effected the number will probably be increased to a total of sixty-five or more. An increase of not less than forty well paid men will consequently make their homes permanently in Bisbee.

COPPER QUEEN COMPANY.

Will Soon Begin the Sinking of a New Eight Compartment Shaft.

The sinking of an eight-compartment shaft by the Copper Queen company, on virgin territory, below the Lowell and Gardner shafts in the near future will be the most important development work on that property for some time, and will mean much for the future of the city. Information regarding the sinking of the proposed new shaft was given to the Review representative officially and it is learned that a commencement will be made in breaking ground for the shaft some time this month.

The levels for the location of the shaft are now being run, and the company has decided to have it sunk on the "Stars and Stripes" claims, which is situated close to the south line of the "Copper Queen" property, in the Sacramento mountain.

The company's object in sinking this additional shaft is for the purpose of obtaining access to large bodies of ore that undoubtedly have been deposited beneath, and the probabilities are that the development of the Stars and Stripes claim, through this shaft, will result in opening up another vast mine.

When actual work on the new shaft commences, a force of about fifty men will be required to do the work. The depth to which it will be necessary to sink to encounter the ore will possibly be more than a thousand feet. The work will, therefore, of necessity, consume a considerable length of time. However, because of the unlimited resources of the great Copper Queen, and the persistent and energetic manner in which this company characterizes all of its undertakings there is no doubt that the greatest possible vigor will be exercised in completing the work.

DIZZY FIGURES

1890 857,502,548
1895 824,860,136
1900 1,477,946,113
1903 1,508,314,032

Turning to the import figures and adopting the same plan of including the merchandise received from Hawaii and Porto Rico, the figures for 1903 exceed one billion dollars for the first time in any calendar year. From Porto Rico the value of merchandise received into the United States in 1903 was $10,152,924, and from Hawaii $23,119,731, and those, added to the imports from foreign countries in that year, bring the total merchandise received into the ports of the United States in 1903 up to $1,035,119,829.

The necessity of including the figures of merchandise received from Hawaii and Porto Rico in attempting to compare the growth of importations is identical with that above outlined with reference to exports, all import figures prior to 1900 having included the merchandise received from Hawaii and Porto Rico. The table which follows gives opportunity for a comparison of the total merchandise received into the United States (including that from Porto Rico and Hawaii) with that received in earlier years when these islands were classed as foreign territory:

1875 502,132,936
1880 656,807,176
1885 587,868,673
1890 823,397,724
1895 801,466,247
1900 1,239,149,711
1903 1,035,119,829

A study of the above tables shows that imports in 1903 (including, for the sake of comparison, merchandise from Hawaii and Porto Rico) show an increase of over 120 per cent compared with those of 1870, and that exports show an increase of over 570 per cent compared with those of 1870. The total increase in imports from 1870 to 1903 (including, for the sake of comparison, the figures of Hawaii and Porto Rico in 1903) was $547,000,999 and the increase in exports during the same time was 1,195 millions.

Drop of Car Five Floors in Arthur Building Injures Five Men.

New York, Feb. 7.—The falling of an elevator from the fifth floor in the Arthur building, at No. 74 Broadway, injured five men. According to the superintendent of the building, the accident was due to the carelessness of the elevator man, Hugh Hanna, of No. 221 East Twenty-ninth street, and this was Hanna's first day on the elevator. He was locked up by the police of the Church street station.

There were several persons in the crowd that gathered in the basement of the building who told the newspaper men that for the last six months the elevator which fell and the one next to it had been out of order and had fallen seven or eight times.

Two Denver Chemists Take a Photograph by Its Use.

Denver, Feb. 7.—Positive proof that radium is deposited in Colorado, in shape and quantity to make it of use commercially, has been secured through experiments recently conducted by Justine Haynes, a Denver chemist, and Dr. W. D. Engle, professor of chemistry at Denver university. The experiments have progressed so far that a photograph was taken with radium. The ore from which radium was obtained came from Paradox Valley, Montrose county. It is known as carnotite. From ten pounds of carnotite 1-200 of a grain of radium was secured.

NO LONGER IN CIRCULATION.

Some United States Coins That Have Had Their Day.

Recent mention of the disappearance of the $2.50 gold piece from circulation and the premium this coin commands as a curio have set many to rummaging in old pocketbooks and the bottoms of cash boxes and drawers in search of gold or out of date coins. Some have found a $2.50 piece, but not many.

The $3 piece, once quite common, but always a sort of curiosity, is oftener found, and many have specimens of the little gold coins representing 25 cents and 50 cents each, which were not minted by the government, and probably have not so much gold in them as their reputation. They used to pass as gold, but were never in general circulation, being so easily lost that they soon became scarce. One of the handsomest coin relics seen is a $10 gold piece bearing the mint stamp of 1799. It is larger than the present $10 gold piece. The owner has it hung on a band and wears it as a charm on his watch chain. The owner says he has refused an offer of $150 for this relic.

The old octagonal $50 pieces were common in California in early days, when gold dust was largely used as a

MINES OF PINAL COUNTY.

Some Things That Are Going on in That Promising Section.

The last issue of the Florence Blade contains the following:
James K. McCarthy, of the Bryan group, was here this week after a load of supplies. He has completed the assessment work for this year on his Mineral Creek gold property and opened up some fine ore bodies.

Carl Geo. W. Wallace, of Butte, and Henry Whitburn, of the same place, have taken charge of the Copper Butte property, the former as general manager and the latter as superintendent at the mine. Both are said to be practical and successful mining men, and it is expected that under their management the Copper Butte mines will be rapidly and intelligently developed. They will not wait for the railroad to reach the property, but have already started work on a double compartment shaft which will be sunk to a depth of 500 feet. A hoist and a car load of timber have been ordered, and will be hauled in from this point as soon as they arrive here.
