

16,500 Shotgun Shells

Received by us August 2, direct from the Selby S. & L. Co. These were loaded at the factory for us less than a week ago. If you want anything fresher than this, we will have to load them by hand for you, which we are prepared to do on a hour's notice.

This is one of our regular weekly shipments. Our wholesale and retail trade are sure of getting fresh ammunition from us.

August is the big month on white wing shooting. Buy your shells by the case (500); you can save money by it, and then you don't run out of shells just as the best flight comes on.

the business by three, but, by one of those strange paradoxes of trade, the Panama railroad steamship line has now more business and a better balance sheet than it had before the other lines came into the port of Colon. The operation of the steamship line is profitable, even if nearly all the passengers carried by it are employees of the railroad or the canal commission, and are charged but twenty dollars on the other lines.

The railroad and the canal commission operate on the community of interest plan. In fact, except that the railroad does a commercial business, it would simply be a part and parcel of the canal project. As it is, its president and board of directors are the chairman and commissioners, respectively, of the Isthmian canal commission. They have a good credit with one another, and whenever the I. C. C. wants anything the P. R. R. has, it simply goes and gets it, and P. R. R. takes the same privilege with the I. C. C. At the end of the year a line of balance is struck and there is no great outcry either way.

The Panama railroad is about the only railroad in the world that has been moved almost entirely to make way for another enterprise. When the re-location of the road is completed it will have only 18 per cent of its present location. Where it now crosses the line of the canal twice, it will then cross it only once, on the east side of the canal. If it were to continue in its present location from Gatun to San Pablo it would find itself under about eighty-five feet of water. To obviate this a great embankment, eighty-two feet high, will skirt the eastern edge of the dam. This embankment will be about 6,500 feet long some 2,600,000 cubic yards of earth being required to build it. It will be the largest single railroad embankment in the world. The entire re-location of the railroad has been made necessary by the construction of the canal, hence the canal commission will bear all the expenses.

It is its new location the road will have a higher percentage of embankments than almost any other railroad in the world. It will be built on a high elevation to keep it out of the waters of the Gatun dam. It will require 12,000,000 cubic yards of earth to make the necessary fills, and nearly all of this will come from the canal prism. The fills will represent a pile of dirt approximately one-fiftieth as much as will have been taken out of the canal from the time the French under De Lesseps, turned the first shovel of earth, until the ships are ready to sail through the channel.

The rush of gold seekers to California led to the building of the railroad across the Isthmus. William H. Aspinwall, in whose honor Colon was named Aspinwall, and some other New York capitalists got the money together, and then secured the necessary concession from the new Granadian government. This concession was afterward made to run 118 years by the Colombian government. When the French canal company decided to build the canal they bought the railroad, acquiring sixty-eight-seventieths of the stock, paying $250 per share for it, after the American stockholders had stripped the company of its cash. In other words the transaction netted the American stockholders $281 per share at a time when it had been selling at but little above par.

When the Americans took charge the passengers rate across the Isthmus was $5.00. Today it is $2.40. It now costs more to check one's baggage across the Isthmus than it does to buy a first class ticket. A trunk weighing 150 pounds will cost three dollars, while a first class ticket costs a half dollar less. A fair sized suitcase will be taken across at a cost of

McKee's Cash Store

The intention of the United States is to maintain the Panama railroad as an adjunct to the canal. The tourist, who, in the coming days, does not wish to spend some ten hours going through the big ditch can take a train which will carry him across in a few hours. The strategic importance of having means of rapid communication on the Isthmus is perhaps the impelling motive of the government in preparing a modern, well-equipped permanent railroad along the canal.

CONQUERING SOUTH COMES THIS MORNING

Preparations to Receive the South Delegates With a Brass Band.

There will be an eruption of Smithites upon Phoenix this morning. From populous Pima, from the rockbound hills of Cochise, from the fertile valleys of Graham and the ore-bearing regions of Gila; from Santa Cruz of the south and the mountain fastnesses of Pinal they come. Alone of the south, Yuma stood out against the Smithites and the delegates from that county headed by W. E. Marvin stole into town yesterday to escape the victorious horde.

The southern delegates will arrive on the 7:30 train. There is some talk of the O'Neill delegates of Maricopa meeting them with a brass band but that will be a formality rather than an expression of undying love. It is not to be regarded as an unqualified endorsement of the nomination of Mark Smith. It may be partly in pursuance of the arrangement made previous to the holding of the Maricopa convention by which the nomination of Smith at Prescott was to be made practically unanimous.

The faithful here also believe that when the southern delegations get in they will get some sort of a line on what is to happen at Prescott beside the nomination of Smith, something of the organization of the convention and the character of the platform. They are anxious to learn how far it will diverge from the declaration of the principles adopted by the Maricopa convention.

The visitors this morning know precisely what will happen, if they will only tell for they hold the whole matter in the hollow of their hands. For if the southern delegates stand together, and there is little doubt that they do, all the rest of the delegates may be dispensed with.

Together with the Yuma delegates and those from this county, the members from the south will leave for Prescott tomorrow morning.
